

LOCAL BREVITIES.

The best grain crops around Johnston for many years.
We regret to learn of the serious illness of Mr. R. C. Padgett's little boy.
The Rev. Mr. Plunkett will preach at Horn's Creek on Sunday morning next at 11 o'clock.
President A. J. Norris, we are glad to state, is much better and will soon be on our streets again.
Solicitor Thurmond left for Camden on Saturday last. Court convened at that place on Monday of this week.
Mr. Porter, the new man at the cotton factory, is putting in the machinery which has just arrived from England.
Sam Taylor will go with Gen. Butler to the war as general forager, so Sam says, and we have never caught him in one yet.
The Rt. Rev. Bishop Northrop will preach and administer confirmation at Mine Creek Catholic church on Sunday, June 12th inst.
Mr. A. S. Holmes, of the Cold Spring section, died at his home on Sunday last after a short illness. Mr. Holmes leaves a wife and a large family of children.
Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Clotworthy have returned to Hillman, Ga., and are prepared to take a limited number of private boarders at their cottage on hotel grounds. An electric shaft in the basement of house. 5t
Winnsboro has just established a telephone exchange, and the Winnsboro Herald says it works like a charm, and so will ours at Edgefield after Electrician Mims's expert manipulation of the wires and things.
A freshly printed lot of Chattel Mortgages at the Advertiser's office. We print any kind of legal blanks you may want, in fact we do job work of every description.
We note that Mr. J. B. Jones, a native and former resident of our town, is a candidate for the House of Representatives from Saluda county. Saluda will make no mistake if she sends him to the legislature as one of her lawmakers. He will do no discredit to his parentage or people.
Mr. Joe Holland has sent us an Irish potato through which a sprig of wire grass has grown. How did it get there? Did the grass grow through the potato or how? It is a great curiosity. It will be sent to Sam Colgan as a hoodoo to conjure Spaniards when he reaches the Moro Castle.
Capt. Stan Ryan says that in the Confederate war the Confederates always won the victory when ever they went into battle hungry. This, Stan says, was a rule that had no exceptions. He came to Edgefield on Saturday expressly to see Gen. Butler and to put him on to this racket, but the General had gone to Washington.
Mr. H. T. Hendrix, former stenographer for N. G. Evans, Esq., and who made a most patriotic effort to get into the United States army, is in Edgefield for a few days. Mr. Hendrix was rejected by the medical examiners on account of his weight, and enlisted a second time in another company and was rejected again. He still hopes, however, to get in the army.
You can get the Advertiser and Frank Leslie's Weekly, both one year, for $3.50, or both six months for $1.75. Leslie's has all the war pictures—battleships and battles, generals and horses, and a few privates now and then.
If any of our readers have an idea of taking a tour this summer we would commend to their consideration The Atlantic Hotel, Moorehead City, N. C. This elegant seaside hotel, with 300 rooms, is the largest and best equipped in the South.
The Messrs. Pettyjohn, of Augusta, Ga., are in charge and will be glad to see you or to hear from you. They are not only good business men but most affable and courteous gentlemen.
When you visit Augusta should you fail to lodge at the Commercial Hotel you will make a big mistake. You do not get your meals there, only your rooms, but such rooms—spacious, lofty, well furnished, spring beds, mosquito nets, ice water, bath rooms, etc. The Pettyjohn Bros., leases, are at present at their summer hotel, "The Atlantic," Moorehead City, N. C. But they have left in charge as general manager Mr. J. W. Mungler, who is a most efficient and attentive boniface. Try the Commercial once and you will never give it up.
The Assembly number of The Southern Presbyterian, 24 pages, indicates unusual enterprise for a religious paper. It comes to us with a complete report of the proceedings of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian church in the United States and is illustrated with a fine full page engraving group of the Assembly, and with a view of the church in which the Assembly met; also portraits of the retiring moderator. It is well printed on fine book paper, and under its enterprising management will achieve the success which it richly deserves. It is published weekly at the price of $2.00 per annum, by J. F. and W. S. Jacobs, Publishers, Clinton, S. C.

Mr. J. W. Banks is a candidate for supervisor of Saluda county. If Joe lived in Edgefield we would elect him again. He served our county once in that capacity, and if he hadn't moved out of the county we would have kept on electing him till he died.
From Mr. C. A. Long's weather report for May, published herewith, we gather that May was short on rain, only a little more than half an inch having fallen during the whole of that month. Of course we will have it this month, if the doctrine of compensation holds good.
Out Again.
I am glad to inform my friends and the public that I am at my gallery again, and will be glad to serve them.
R. H. MIMS.
Prompt Payment.
Capt. Geo. B. Lake, agent of the Mutual Life Insurance Co. of New York, paid the insurance on Col. Folk's life yesterday—three weeks after his death.

Mrs. J. W. Aiton.
After a painful illness of several weeks, Mrs. J. W. Aiton died at her home at Rosa, S. C., last Tuesday. The sad intelligence of the death of this good lady came to us yesterday morning. Mrs. Aiton left a husband, Maj. J. W. Aiton, but no children. The sincere sympathy of the Journal and the many friends of Maj. Aiton, is extended to him in his bereavement.—Greenwood Institute.
Johnston Institute.
This week will mark the closing of a most successful session of the Johnston Institute. An excellent program has been arranged for the exercises, which begin to-day, Wednesday, continuing until Sunday, when the commencement sermon will be preached by Rev. Lucius Cuthbert, D. D., of Charleston.
Wednesday evening, June 3—Exercises by the primary department.
Thursday morning, June 9—Address by Rev. L. R. Gwaltney, D. D., of Edgefield.
Thursday evening—"Snow White"—Cantata.
Friday morning June 10—Address by Rev. H. Bays, of Charleston.
Friday evening—Graduating exercises and presentation of medals.
Sunday morning, June 12—Commencement sermon by Rev. Lucius Cuthbert, D. D., of Charleston.
The graduating class is a large one, there being 24 graduates, as follows: Misses Mary Ethel Smith, Frances E. Strother, Lucy Cassels Lake, Jessie Clyde Hart, Daisy J. Rambo and Annie Olyath Smith; Messrs. William M. Rhoden, H. G. Edson, W. H. Smith, Walter H. Scott, C. B. Wright, G. W. Scott, H. W. Wright, and William R. Coleman.
Death of Mrs. Hilton.
Mrs. James G. Hilton died last Friday night at her home near Fellowship church in this county. This was the saddest death of the year, as Mrs. Hilton was in her usual health Friday morning, had prepared a picnic dinner for the family, and Mr. Hilton and the children had gone, enjoyed the occasion and returned, finding her still well. But before the shades of the evening fell upon the earth the good wife and mother was stricken and in midst of the night the precious life departed. How strikingly true was the inspiration of Wilder when he wrote these lines:
"My life is like the summer rose
That opens to the morning sky,
And ere the shades of evening close
Is scattered on the ground to die."
Mrs. Hilton was a daughter of W. W. Adams, deceased, a well known lawyer of Edgefield years ago, and a niece of Dr. P. H. Adams, of Phoenix, and Mrs. E. A. Hackett of this city. A husband and nine children are in mourning today over the loss of a wife and mother whose presence will come to them no more only in fond and tearful recollections of her inestimable worth. In the hour of such sorrow there is refuge and comfort alone in the great Father, whose finger points to the Paradise of the immortals where loved ones shall one day meet again amid the gladness of the eternal ages.—Greenwood Index.
Mrs. Hilton was a sister of Messrs. W. W. and Walter Adams of our town.—Ed. ADVERTISER.

The Editor of The Saluda Sentinel Takes a Jaunt.
[Published by Request.]
Sunday morning with Mr. Walter Gilliam as pilot we headed for Wards. After a rather warm drive of two hours through a magnificent section of our county we arrived at the pretty little town of Wards on the Southern Railroad. We drove at once to the pleasant home of Capt. Clinton Ward, whose doors are always open to strangers as well as to intimate friends and acquaintances with that hospitality born of a typical South Carolina gentry. Refreshing ourselves with cool water, and still having a few moments to spare before church time, we took a stroll into his superbly arranged and well kept gardens and vineyards. The flower garden bespoke taste and refinement; the vegetable, thrift and energy; the vineyard, ease and luxury. In the latter there are one hundred varieties from the sour fox and wild bull to the delicate flavored malaga, luscious concord and the old staidy scuppernon.
Services had commenced when we got to the church. We found about as many people outside the shade of the spreading oaks as there were in the church. At the same time the church was full, so that we had to take a seat on step of rostrum or stand. We preferred the steps. Reamy of Johnston preached an excellent missionary sermon from the story of Jonah.
After the devotional services, everybody was invited to a splendid dinner spread under those shady oaks. The representative of The Sentinel was looked after by the ladies and right royally did he fare. In the afternoon the last subject on the program, "Which is the better method of teaching the Sunday School lesson, asking question or letting the scholars?" It was noted that the query was worded wrong and it should have been "lecturing" instead of "letting." However this little error only added to the interest of the debate and the speakers all agreed that more interest could be created in a recitation by giving the children an opportunity to ask questions. Mr. S. J. Watson opened with a neat little speech laden with good practical suggestions for successful teaching. Capt. Joe Edwards introduced Mr. H. S. Cunningham of Saluda, who made a few remarks on the practical side. Rev. Reamy, Mr. M. W. Peurifoy and the Moderator, Mr. P. N. Lott, made short, but interesting talks. After a little more routine business and resolutions of thanks to these good people for taking care of them so well during the convention adjourned, being one of the best and largest ever held in the Union. After a sojourn of a couple of hours with the genial captain and his estimable wife, who, by the way, might be called the mother of this church, we ordered our horse. While waiting, we were shown many ancient and valuable relic of the family. We have often heard the expression, "Take a horn with me." We saw a genuine horn cup that was in use by the elder Wards one hundred years ago before the use of glass tumblers. One of the few busts now in existence of Calhoun, books of 1670, a newspaper about the size of a single sheet of fool cap published in those days on hem paper, a wax taper that once burned in the bed chamber of Queen Victoria, which was given to Captain Ward's ancestor, who was a warm friend of the Queen, and many other relics that our space won't permit us to mention this time.—Saluda Sentinel.

OUR HOSPITAL SHIP.
The Solace, our hospital ship, was a fine steamer of the Morgan Line, fitted up with 500 spring beds, and several hundred hammocks, medical and surgical stores, delicate food especially prepared for the sick and wounded, with a lot of surgeons and nurses aboard. It accompanies the war ships as an angel of mercy. The other ships go out to kill and destroy; she to receive the maimed and dying.
The Solace is painted white and green, the most conspicuous colors, and stands high out of the water, so that she can be seen at a long long distance, while at her mast-heads float the flag of the Red Cross, which will protect her from all civilized enemies. This is a new idea in warfare. In the midst of a battle she will stand by out of danger, but within signaling distance, and when the fighting is over, the other ships will deliver to her the wounded to be cared for and the dead to be prepared for burial. If a ship of the enemy is captured or sunk, she will offer her merciful hospitality to its officers and crew.
The Augusta Herald beades printing a telegraphic service from The Associated Press, the biggest news-gathering concern in the world, has on a special and exclusive service direct from The New York Journal's office. The Herald's war news is costing a pile of money, but the people appreciate the best, and the enterprise and energy of The Herald are rapidly pushing that paper to the front.

Scrofula, a Vile Inheritance.
Scrofula is the most obstinate of blood troubles, and is often the result of an inherited taint in the blood. S. S. S. is the only remedy which goes deep enough to reach Scrofula; it forces out every trace of the disease, and cures the worst cases.
My son, Charlie, was afflicted from infancy with Scrofula, and he suffered so that it was impossible to dress him for three years. His head and body were a mass of sores, and his eyesight also became affected. No treatment was of any avail until we gave him S. S. S. (Swift's Specific). Aided by the treatment we gave him, he had taken a dozen bottles, no one who knew his former dreadful condition would have recognized him. All the sores on his body have healed, his skin is perfectly clear and smooth, and he has been restored to perfect health.
Mrs. S. S. MARY, 300 Elm St., Macon, Ga.
For real blood troubles it is a waste of time to expect a cure from the doctors. Blood diseases are beyond their skill. Swift's Specific.
S. S. S. For the Blood reaches all deep-seated cases which other remedies have no effect upon. It is the only blood remedy guaranteed purely vegetable, and contains no potash, mercury, or other mineral.

The Herald's war news is costing a pile of money, but the people appreciate the best, and the enterprise and energy of The Herald are rapidly pushing that paper to the front.

Scrofula, a Vile Inheritance.
Scrofula is the most obstinate of blood troubles, and is often the result of an inherited taint in the blood. S. S. S. is the only remedy which goes deep enough to reach Scrofula; it forces out every trace of the disease, and cures the worst cases.
My son, Charlie, was afflicted from infancy with Scrofula, and he suffered so that it was impossible to dress him for three years. His head and body were a mass of sores, and his eyesight also became affected. No treatment was of any avail until we gave him S. S. S. (Swift's Specific). Aided by the treatment we gave him, he had taken a dozen bottles, no one who knew his former dreadful condition would have recognized him. All the sores on his body have healed, his skin is perfectly clear and smooth, and he has been restored to perfect health.
Mrs. S. S. MARY, 300 Elm St., Macon, Ga.
For real blood troubles it is a waste of time to expect a cure from the doctors. Blood diseases are beyond their skill. Swift's Specific.
S. S. S. For the Blood reaches all deep-seated cases which other remedies have no effect upon. It is the only blood remedy guaranteed purely vegetable, and contains no potash, mercury, or other mineral.

Mr. A. S. Holmes, of the Cold Spring section, died at his home on Sunday last after a short illness. Mr. Holmes leaves a wife and a large family of children.
Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Clotworthy have returned to Hillman, Ga., and are prepared to take a limited number of private boarders at their cottage on hotel grounds. An electric shaft in the basement of house. 5t
Winnsboro has just established a telephone exchange, and the Winnsboro Herald says it works like a charm, and so will ours at Edgefield after Electrician Mims's expert manipulation of the wires and things.
A freshly printed lot of Chattel Mortgages at the Advertiser's office. We print any kind of legal blanks you may want, in fact we do job work of every description.
We note that Mr. J. B. Jones, a native and former resident of our town, is a candidate for the House of Representatives from Saluda county. Saluda will make no mistake if she sends him to the legislature as one of her lawmakers. He will do no discredit to his parentage or people.
Mr. Joe Holland has sent us an Irish potato through which a sprig of wire grass has grown. How did it get there? Did the grass grow through the potato or how? It is a great curiosity. It will be sent to Sam Colgan as a hoodoo to conjure Spaniards when he reaches the Moro Castle.
Capt. Stan Ryan says that in the Confederate war the Confederates always won the victory when ever they went into battle hungry. This, Stan says, was a rule that had no exceptions. He came to Edgefield on Saturday expressly to see Gen. Butler and to put him on to this racket, but the General had gone to Washington.
Mr. H. T. Hendrix, former stenographer for N. G. Evans, Esq., and who made a most patriotic effort to get into the United States army, is in Edgefield for a few days. Mr. Hendrix was rejected by the medical examiners on account of his weight, and enlisted a second time in another company and was rejected again. He still hopes, however, to get in the army.
You can get the Advertiser and Frank Leslie's Weekly, both one year, for $3.50, or both six months for $1.75. Leslie's has all the war pictures—battleships and battles, generals and horses, and a few privates now and then.
If any of our readers have an idea of taking a tour this summer we would commend to their consideration The Atlantic Hotel, Moorehead City, N. C. This elegant seaside hotel, with 300 rooms, is the largest and best equipped in the South.
The Messrs. Pettyjohn, of Augusta, Ga., are in charge and will be glad to see you or to hear from you. They are not only good business men but most affable and courteous gentlemen.
When you visit Augusta should you fail to lodge at the Commercial Hotel you will make a big mistake. You do not get your meals there, only your rooms, but such rooms—spacious, lofty, well furnished, spring beds, mosquito nets, ice water, bath rooms, etc. The Pettyjohn Bros., leases, are at present at their summer hotel, "The Atlantic," Moorehead City, N. C. But they have left in charge as general manager Mr. J. W. Mungler, who is a most efficient and attentive boniface. Try the Commercial once and you will never give it up.
The Assembly number of The Southern Presbyterian, 24 pages, indicates unusual enterprise for a religious paper. It comes to us with a complete report of the proceedings of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian church in the United States and is illustrated with a fine full page engraving group of the Assembly, and with a view of the church in which the Assembly met; also portraits of the retiring moderator. It is well printed on fine book paper, and under its enterprising management will achieve the success which it richly deserves. It is published weekly at the price of $2.00 per annum, by J. F. and W. S. Jacobs, Publishers, Clinton, S. C.

Mr. J. W. Banks is a candidate for supervisor of Saluda county. If Joe lived in Edgefield we would elect him again. He served our county once in that capacity, and if he hadn't moved out of the county we would have kept on electing him till he died.
From Mr. C. A. Long's weather report for May, published herewith, we gather that May was short on rain, only a little more than half an inch having fallen during the whole of that month. Of course we will have it this month, if the doctrine of compensation holds good.
Out Again.
I am glad to inform my friends and the public that I am at my gallery again, and will be glad to serve them.

Mrs. J. W. Aiton.
After a painful illness of several weeks, Mrs. J. W. Aiton died at her home at Rosa, S. C., last Tuesday. The sad intelligence of the death of this good lady came to us yesterday morning. Mrs. Aiton left a husband, Maj. J. W. Aiton, but no children. The sincere sympathy of the Journal and the many friends of Maj. Aiton, is extended to him in his bereavement.—Greenwood Institute.
Johnston Institute.
This week will mark the closing of a most successful session of the Johnston Institute. An excellent program has been arranged for the exercises, which begin to-day, Wednesday, continuing until Sunday, when the commencement sermon will be preached by Rev. Lucius Cuthbert, D. D., of Charleston.
Wednesday evening, June 3—Exercises by the primary department.
Thursday morning, June 9—Address by Rev. L. R. Gwaltney, D. D., of Edgefield.
Thursday evening—"Snow White"—Cantata.
Friday morning June 10—Address by Rev. H. Bays, of Charleston.
Friday evening—Graduating exercises and presentation of medals.
Sunday morning, June 12—Commencement sermon by Rev. Lucius Cuthbert, D. D., of Charleston.
The graduating class is a large one, there being 24 graduates, as follows: Misses Mary Ethel Smith, Frances E. Strother, Lucy Cassels Lake, Jessie Clyde Hart, Daisy J. Rambo and Annie Olyath Smith; Messrs. William M. Rhoden, H. G. Edson, W. H. Smith, Walter H. Scott, C. B. Wright, G. W. Scott, H. W. Wright, and William R. Coleman.
Death of Mrs. Hilton.
Mrs. James G. Hilton died last Friday night at her home near Fellowship church in this county. This was the saddest death of the year, as Mrs. Hilton was in her usual health Friday morning, had prepared a picnic dinner for the family, and Mr. Hilton and the children had gone, enjoyed the occasion and returned, finding her still well. But before the shades of the evening fell upon the earth the good wife and mother was stricken and in midst of the night the precious life departed. How strikingly true was the inspiration of Wilder when he wrote these lines:
"My life is like the summer rose
That opens to the morning sky,
And ere the shades of evening close
Is scattered on the ground to die."
Mrs. Hilton was a daughter of W. W. Adams, deceased, a well known lawyer of Edgefield years ago, and a niece of Dr. P. H. Adams, of Phoenix, and Mrs. E. A. Hackett of this city. A husband and nine children are in mourning today over the loss of a wife and mother whose presence will come to them no more only in fond and tearful recollections of her inestimable worth. In the hour of such sorrow there is refuge and comfort alone in the great Father, whose finger points to the Paradise of the immortals where loved ones shall one day meet again amid the gladness of the eternal ages.—Greenwood Index.
Mrs. Hilton was a sister of Messrs. W. W. and Walter Adams of our town.—Ed. ADVERTISER.

The Editor of The Saluda Sentinel Takes a Jaunt.
[Published by Request.]
Sunday morning with Mr. Walter Gilliam as pilot we headed for Wards. After a rather warm drive of two hours through a magnificent section of our county we arrived at the pretty little town of Wards on the Southern Railroad. We drove at once to the pleasant home of Capt. Clinton Ward, whose doors are always open to strangers as well as to intimate friends and acquaintances with that hospitality born of a typical South Carolina gentry. Refreshing ourselves with cool water, and still having a few moments to spare before church time, we took a stroll into his superbly arranged and well kept gardens and vineyards. The flower garden bespoke taste and refinement; the vegetable, thrift and energy; the vineyard, ease and luxury. In the latter there are one hundred varieties from the sour fox and wild bull to the delicate flavored malaga, luscious concord and the old staidy scuppernon.
Services had commenced when we got to the church. We found about as many people outside the shade of the spreading oaks as there were in the church. At the same time the church was full, so that we had to take a seat on step of rostrum or stand. We preferred the steps. Reamy of Johnston preached an excellent missionary sermon from the story of Jonah.
After the devotional services, everybody was invited to a splendid dinner spread under those shady oaks. The representative of The Sentinel was looked after by the ladies and right royally did he fare. In the afternoon the last subject on the program, "Which is the better method of teaching the Sunday School lesson, asking question or letting the scholars?" It was noted that the query was worded wrong and it should have been "lecturing" instead of "letting." However this little error only added to the interest of the debate and the speakers all agreed that more interest could be created in a recitation by giving the children an opportunity to ask questions. Mr. S. J. Watson opened with a neat little speech laden with good practical suggestions for successful teaching. Capt. Joe Edwards introduced Mr. H. S. Cunningham of Saluda, who made a few remarks on the practical side. Rev. Reamy
