BRYAN AND STEVENSON.

The Nation's Democracy Does a Great Work.

Convention Hall, Kansas City, July 6.—Although the time between the adjournment of the morning session and that set for the opening of the afternoon was over two hours, at no one time were the galleries of the great hall more than one-third emptied. Thousands of people sat out the adjournment, being determined to miss no part of the excitement.

By 3:30 nearly all of the delegates were ready for business, and waiting the arrival of Chairman Richardson, who was a trifle slow in making his appearance. The delegates seemed anxious to get to work and complete the business of the convention, and when at 3:38 p. m., the chairman made his appearance, there was a ripple of applause. Many of the delegates had come prepared for the nomination of Mr Bryan. Dozens of them carried small flags and numerous plumes of bright colored pampas grass were visible on various parts of the floor. The crowd by 3:40 was the greatest that had attended any session of the convention. The gate-keepers were for once rather lax in denying admission to people and there were hundreds who had no tickets of admission who were allowed to enter the building. They swarmed in upon the floor until it seemed impossible that there could be room for one more.

At 2:46 Senator Hill, of New York, who had been absent from the two preceding sessions, came through the delegates' door by himself. He was not recognized at first and had nearly reached his seat when the cry of "Hill! Hill!" broke forth. It was coupled with considerable applause, but the demonstration in honor of the senator when present lacked several degrees the warmth shown yesterday afternoon and this morning while he was absent.

READIKG THE PLATFORM.

It was not until 4 o'clock that Chairman Richardson turning from a conference with Governor McMillan and Senator White picked up the gavel and brought the convention to order. The platform committee, headed by Senator Jones, D. J. Campau, Senator Tillman and Judge Van Wyck, had just pushed their way through the dense throng and proceeding to the platform had taken seats flanking the platform.

Mr Richardson appealed long and vainly for order. The portly form of Senator Jones, silver-haired and serious, advanced to the front of the stage. He held a roll of manuscript in his hands. But it was useless to talk against such a tumult and he dropped back in his seat until order was being restored.

At last the noise subsided and Mr Jones, in a clear voice, announced:

"I am authorized by the committee on resolutions to present the platform agreed upon, and I will yield to the Senator from South Carolina, Mr Tillman, to read the document."

Mr Tillman now stepped to the front and was greeted with a cheer. He read the platform in a full round voice, easily heard throughout the hall.

As he proceeded each plank was greeted with applause. The senator accompanied his reading with emphatic gestures, striding up and down the platform, turning this way and that, and after his manner in the Senate. There was a howl of approval as he clenched his fist and fiercely arraigned the course of the administration in Cuba. But it remained for his reading the declaration "imperialism is the paramount issue of this campaign" to evoke a storm of applause. The delegates sprang to their feet, standing on their chairs, waving hats, handkerchiefs, umbrellas and flags, while the galleries took up the chorus and carried it along for many minutes. Senator Hill could be seen marshalling the hosts to cheer. He held a fan high above his head and added his voice to the shouting. A second time Senator Tillman read this declaration and now even a greater demonstration than before carried the convention off its feet.

DEMONSTRATION OF FLAGS.

Suddenly hundreds, then thousands of miniature American flags were passed among the delegates and the whole floor of the vast structure became a sea of flags. An instant later the flags swept over the galleries like a mass of flame. Bundles of them were tossed upon the seats and distributed. The scene was magnificently inspiring and the great audience was worked up to a fever heat. On each flag was the device: "The constitution and the flag are inseparable, now and forever. The flag of the republic forever, of an empire, never."

While the demonstration was at its height, the band sent another thrill through the audience by playing "Dixie," and a medly of patriotic airs. State standards were again torn from their sockees, banners were raised and a triumphal procession of the delegates marched about the hall. Now the strains of the band turned to "My Country, 'Tis of Thee," at which the entire audience, as with a single voice, joined in a mighty and swelling chorus. Amid the billowing of flags could be seen a tall standard bearing the inscription:

"Forcible annexation would be criminal aggression—William McKinley."

It was at this juncture that the climax was sprung upon the great assembly. A huge flag had been flung across the roof between two trusses and as the signal was given the cords were cut and slowly it unrolled its white and crimson folds as it fell gracefully and swung over the platform slightly to the rear and south of the speaker's desk. The banner was an enormous affair, being fully fifty feet long and about one-half as wide. Upon the white stripes were the printed sentences in large letters of blue:

"Constitutional governments derive their just powers from the consent of the governed."

"The constitution and the flag, one and inseparable now and forever."

"The flag of a republic forever, of an empire never."

"A republic can have no colonies."

To the vast majority of those in the hall the flag was in unexpected incident, and its appearance was the signal for a frantic roar, which caused everything that had gone before it to sink into insignificance. For fully two minutes the cords of the flag caught and would not permit it to fall to its full length. It was caught up just enought to prevent the convention from reading the inscriptions upon the banner and until they were released and the banner swung free, the enthusiasm increased every second. When finally every word was visible there was a climax of cheers that was deafening.

HELL BROKE LOOSE IN MISSOURI.

Senator Tillman stood surveying the storm and awaiting an opportunity to proceed. The chairman pounded his gavel and appealed for order. But the march of the delegates, bearing their standards and banners ran on uninterruptedly for twenty-two minutes As Senator Tillman was about to resume he remarked that the thread of his discourse had been broken and that down south they were in the habit of saying 'Hell has broken loose in Georgia."

"And," added the senator vociferously, "if Mark Hanna had been here a few minutes ago he would have thought hell had broken loose in Missouri."

There were cries of "Good!" when the trust plank was read. The senator reached the re-affirmation of the Chicago platform with the declaration for free silver coinage at a ratio of 16 to 1, pandermonium again broke loose. But the demonstration was faint in comparison to what just occurred when imperialism was announced as the "paramount issue." Many of the delegates stood on their chairs and waved flags and cheered, but a very considerable number—more than half—held their seats. Senator Hill was among those who maintained quiet, while Mr Croker waved a flag until it broke, and George Fred Williams led the Massachusetts contingent in salvos of cheers. One of the New York delegates rapped a standard bearing the inscription, "Don't think there are no 16 to 1'ers in New York."

The demostration lasted four and one-half minutes.

There was intense scorn in the seanator's voice as he read the platform arraignment of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty, evoking mingled laughter and applause. The Boer plank brought another cheer and the Senator received a round of applause as he closed.

When the applause had subsided, Chairman Jones, of the platfrom committee, said he had been instructed to move that the platform be adopted by the convenby acclamation.

ADOPTED BY ACCLAMATION.

The motion was put and amid a roar of cheers the platform was adopted without a word of dissent. The announcement of Chairman Richardson of the adoption of the platform was followed by a stunning shout which made the building ring from one end to the other.

Then followed a stirring and dramatic scene. The plank in the platfrom denouncing England's policy toward the Boers had called out immense applause, but when it was announced by Chairman Richardson that the convention would be addressed by Hon. Webster Davis, former assistant secretary of the interior, the crowd manifested its enthusiasm by cheering for two minutes.

Then the former Republican leader ascended the platform and stood facing the thousands of spectators.

The speech of Mr Davis was arranged in order to enable him to announce his allegiance to the Democratic party and the platform and to the ticket of the convention.

In dramatic style and with all the force and magnetism of a fine orator, Mr Davis began his address. He denounced as "A malicious lie," the statement that he had been forced to leave his office in the present national administration. He pictured in brilliant and flaming sentences the "cruelties and aggressions practiced by Great Britain upon the Boers of South Africa." He expressed his intense satisfaction that the Democratic party had incorporated in the platform a plank so cordially and enthusiastically endorsing the cause of the Boers, which was the cause of liberty and justice. As he felt, he said, that this great republic should not chain itself to the chariot wheels of the empire that was crushing liberty to death in South Africa, he believed it to be his duty to ally himself with the Democratic party.

NEW YORK LEADS IN DEMONSTRATION.

New York vied with Nebraska and Kansas in venting its enthusiasm. Richard Croker was on a chair, both arms aloft, a flag in his right hand, which he waived vigorously. Hill was not behind him in the show of loyalty to the nominee and waving his arms, he let forth a series of cheers that equalled those uttered by any man on the floor. Over in Illinois Ohio and Indiana, where 16 to 1 is not popular, there was no hesitation now.

Round the hall started the Nebrasks men with their huge banner, and catching up their state emblems the other delegations took up the march, waving flags and hats and cheering at the tops of their voices without cessation save for the breath necessary to a fresh outburst.

The two women delegates from Utah joined in the parade, one of them carrying a silk banner of white upon which was inscribed: "Greeting to William Jennings Bryan from the Democratic Women of Utah."

As the women passed along the aisle in front of the New York delegation one of the enthusiastic Tammany braves turned loose a war whoop that rivalled any previously uttered on this continent and pounded one of the women over the head with his small flag as a token of appreciation. Far from resenting the woman smiled and pirouetted through the aisle formed of shouting men.

Senator Clark, of Moniana accompanied by a lady, both swinging flags with intense energy, called forth terrific applause as they pasesd around the hall. Next came Texas with its long pole surmounted by steers horns and further back some of the New York delegation carrying their little flag bearing the words:

"Don't think there are no 16 to 1'ers in New York."

Round and round the hall went the marching column between two walls of cheering men, who stood beneath a cloud of fluttering flags. It was a demonstration fully equal in fervor to anything that had preceded it yesterday or today when the platform was read. When the enthusiasm had run for nineteen and a half minutes Chairman Richardson commenced to pound vigorously for order. He was lost beyond all power of hearing for several minutes and it was not until 27 minutes had elapsed from the instant that Mr. Oldham had mentioned the word "Bryan" that the cheering had subsided and the convention was in order once more.

LOUD CRIES FOR HILL.

Once more the excited and perspiring crowd got into a state of quietude, succumbing because of fatigue rather than obeying the gavel. The partly demolished state standards were put back into their place and panting and exhausted, they prepared for the seconding of the nomination. In the midst of that peculiar convention hum that seems to come from nowhere, Arkansas yielded to Texas and Mr Perkins began a speech seconding Mr Bryan.

He lauded the platform and said some other pertinent things, but the audience's appetite had been whetted for the nomination and his voice was hardly distinguishable above the strong hum of conversation and the rustling of moving bodies.

His finish was applauded and then the voice of the clerk calling the roll was drowned out by vociferous cries for "Hill!" Ex-Senator White, of California, got the platform, however, and his stentorian tones soon demanded attention and by his decieded delivery he kept the convention somewhat in order.

Colorado gave way to Illilnois and Judge Thompson took the platform, while the audience again cried for "Hill." He began in a tumult, but soon receved attention and seconded the nomination in behalf of his state. Judge Thompson did not take the ten minutes alloted him and when he finished, Connecticut yielded for David B. Hill. Even as the state yielded the convention took up the cry which had been on its tongue for two days. Flags waved and the delegates rose and cheered the audience. Then men in New York wearing the Tammany badges were the only delegates who kept their seats. Ex-Senator Hill forced his way to the platform and waved his hand for silence. When the cheers and cries of "Hill!" had concluded and the vast audience was seated, he began to speak slowly, but clearly, and the attention given him was remarkable. The vast hall was almost perfectly silent. His laudation of Bryan was received with applause and cheers. But when he said, "Bryan will receive the support of an united party," the crowd went wild and had to play "America" to still the tumult, "His integrity has never been questioned," asserted Mr Hill and the audience yelled, "That's so."

His explanation on his position on the platform and his acquiescence with the will of the majority called for heartier applause than had been evident before and the good offices of the band were again necessary to get attention for him.

"This nomination will meet the approval of the east," he said, and enthused his audience. In closing he said:

NEW YORK IN LINE SAYS HILL.

"New York expects to join with you with her 36 electoral votes," and then as he stepped down from the platform the convention became a bedlam again. "Hill for vice president," was one of the cries raised and delegates all over the hall were on their feet, except the five rows of Tammany men. Senator Edward Murphy, as Hill passed to his seat, grasped his hand and shook it heartily. Then Mr Shea, of Brooklyn, did the same and others in the row, but Mr Croker sat immobile and Hill passed him without salutation. The applause for Senator Hill continued for some minutes.

When order was restored, the secretary of the convention proceeded with the call of states. Tennant Lomax, of Alabama, briefly seconded the nomination of Mr Bryan. During his speech the vast audience grew restless. So much confusion existed that it was extremely difficult to hear the speaker's words.

W. B. Moore, of North Carolina, followed Mr Lomax with a brief eulogy of Mr Bryan. During his speech hundreds of people left the hall, the lateness of the hour and their inability to hear being the motive.

In the midst of the concusion at the conclusion of Mr Moor's address a Georgia delegate arose and on behalf of the south requested "That the peerless leader and orator of Virgina, John W. Daniel, be called upon to address the convention."

Senator Daniel was escorted to the platform and as he appeared at the front of the chairman's desk attired in a conventional black broadcloth coat and trousers and his usual white tie facing the great audience, he looked the statesman and orator that he is.

SENATOR DANIEL'S MAGNIFICENT TRIBUTE.

He was accorded an enthusiastic reception. His speech was a brilliant and eloquent eulogy of Mr Bryan. When he said: "I second the nomination of one who would rater be right than president," a perfect storm of cheers swept over the audience, and when he added: "He is right by his noble and discerning nature and he will soon be president," the thousands present rose from their seats and amid the waving of hundreds of flags, cheered for almost a minute. The congratulations received by Senator Daniel at the close of his speech amounted to a distinct ovation.

Mr President and Gentlemen of the National Democratic Convention:—I have few words to say and shall detain you but a few moments from the most pleasing duty, the crowning event of this wonderful convention. On behalf of the unanimous delegation from Virginia and by command of the sovereign people of that state, I second the nomination of one who would rather be right than be president. (Great applause.) One who is now right by the instinctive virtues of his own ennobling, discerning nature and who will soon be president by the manly virtues of the American people. (Wild applause and cheering.)

Let me remind you, my countrymen, that the present condition of our country is a vindication and illustration of the fundamental doctrine which we taught four years ago, which then was the voice of a divided Democracy, but which is now the voice of their union. (Renewed and furious applause and cheering.)

The doctrine that the prices of all property were regulated by the volume of money, and we have witnessed by the naked eye the prices of produce increasing in this country as new coinage flowed into out own mint and as new paper was printed. So that, in the fundamental theory upon which we stand, we witness the increass of industry in this land as its vindication.

The Republican party of this country met not long since in the sight and under the shadow of old Independedce Hall, but no voice fell from the lips of the Republican party while they sat within its portal that would remind the country of where they were or that they had any memory of the great struggle that made us free. (Great applause and cheering.) It was but natural, for they could not have repeated a sincle sentence from the constitution of the United States with respect to their present condct—no, they could not have read the declaration of independence without everybody suposing that a satirist had gotten within them to disturb or break up the meeting. (Laughter and applause.)

This day, my countrymen, marks a new epoch, not only in the history of the Democratic party, but a new epoch in the history of America. It turns over a new page in the history of the world and proctams the Democracy as the greatest of all world powers for the proclamation and steady defense of the bedrock principles of American liberty and independence. (Applause.)

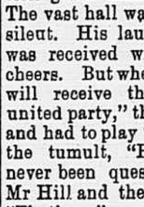
I second the nomination of a man who is a faithful, noble, clear expositor of the American consititution—a man who is honest in all that he has done and in all that he will do. We nominte a man who has no sense of fear or the derision of others who may point at him the finger of scorn, but who knows that he is thrice armed who hath his quarrel just, and that his strength is as the strenght of ten because his heart is pure. (Applause.)

On the third day of the convention Adlai E. Stevenson, of Indiana, was nominted for vice president by an unanimous vote. Mr. Stevenson was vice president when Cleveland was president.

Over-Work Weakens Your Kidneys.

Unhealthy Kidneys Make Impure Blood.

All the blood in your body passes through your kidneys once every three minutes.



The kidneys are your blood purifiers, they filter out the waste or impurities in the blood.

If they are sick or out of order, they fail to do their work.

Pains, aches and rheumatism come from excess of uric acid in the blood, due to neglected kidney trouble.

Kidney trouble causes quick or unsteady heart beats, and makes one feel as though they had heart trouble, because the heart is over-working in pumping thick, kidney-poisoned blood through veins and arteries.

It used to be considered that only urinary troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all constitutional diseases have their beginning in kidney trouble.

If you are sick you can make no mistake by first doctoring your kidneys. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases and is sold on its merits by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also pamphlet telling you how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. Mention this paper when writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.
