PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION.

"The Frst Tuesday in Novomber After the First Monday.

A correspondent asks this question: "Why is it that the presidential election is held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November? Why was it necessary to insert in the constitutional amendment the express wording, 'the first Tuesday after the first Monday?' Why not the first Tuesday in the month?"

This querist is not so familiar with the constitution as he should be. It does not fix the day of the choosing of electors. All it prescribes is that they be selected prior to March 4. The designation of the day for holding the presidentiat election is left to congress.

The first act passed by it relating to that subject was in 1792. It provided that the presidential electors should be appointed "within 34 days before the first Wednesday in December." This left each state free to select a day to suit itself within those limits. Pennsylvania chose electors on the last Friday in October other States elect theirs on different days between the beginning and middle of November. When Harrison was elected in 1840 the Democrats asserted that his success was due partly to fraudulent voting, which was made possible by the lack of a definite day. It was alleged that Kentucky and Ohio Whigs had voted in both states, the elections being held on different days. So in 1845 the Democrats passed the law now on the statute books making the first Tusday after the first Monday election day.

At that time but five of the 26 States held their State elections in November. In Michigan and Mississippi voting was carried on through two days—the first Monday and the following Tuesday. New York had had three election days—the first Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday—but had finally confined voting to the middle day, or, the first Tuesday after the first Monday. Massachusetts chose state officers on the second Monday in November and Delaware on the second Tuesday. So congress selected the first Tuesday after the first Monday so as to consult convenience of three states out of five, one of the three being the important state of New York.

Fewer Rales, More Money.

New Orleans, La., September 1.—The totals of Secretary Hester's annual report of the cotton crop, of the United States were promulgated today. They show receipts of cotton of all United States ports for the year of 6,734,364 bales, against 8,575,426 last year; overland to northern mills 1,161,189, against 1,345,623; southern consumption taken direct from the interlor of the cotton belt 1,540,863,791, making the United States for 1899-1900 amount to 9,436,416 bales, against 11,199,995 the years before.

Mr Hester has made his usual investigation into the consumption of every cotton mill in the south, including woolen mills that have used cotton, and the results show a total of 1,597,112 bales, but of this 56,29 bales were taken from ports included in port receipts. This total shows that the mills of the south have used 197,713 bales more than during 1898-99 against a consumption by the north of 2,300,000. He makes the actual cotton crop of Texas, including Indian Territory, 2,590,512, or say, 964,569 bales less than last year.

His report on the cotton crop for the different states shows that in thousonds of bales: North Carolina raised 561; Georgia 1,309; Alabama 1044; Florida 50; Mississippi 1,230; Louisiana 625; Arkansas 750; Tennessee 358; Texas 2,591.

North Carolina in this instance, includes Kentucky and Virginia; Tennessee includes Oklaboma, Missouri, Kansas and Utah; Teas includes Indian Territory.

Mr Hester's full report, which which will be issued tomorrow, will contain interesting facts in relation to the enormous increase in the spindles of southern mills, and to new mills now building. He will also show that while the past crop was 1,836,400 bales less than that of last year, it produced in money $61,012,000 more.

AS TO INDIANA.

Why It Will Probably go Democratic in November.

The poll of Indiana which has just been completed by the Republican executive committee, showing the State to be at present Democ by 18,000 majority, has thrown the Republicans into a state of panic, but to those who have observed the recend of political events in the Hoosier state there is nothing surprising in it. For two years past a political revolution has been in progress in some of the most populous sections of Indiana. It has progressed quietly, but nevertheless steadily. This has been a defection of the laboring classes, and to a large extent the agricultural class in the Republican party.

The explanation is very simple—trusts. In the gas belt, whose prosperity depends solely on its immense factories, the great industrial combinations of the past years have resulted in the closing down of plant after plant. Promises have been repeatedly made that the shutdowns were only temporary, but as a general rule the plants once closed were never opened. All over this thickly populated and prosperous section laboring men have been compelled to emigrate to other parts of the country to gain a livelihood. Again, in some of the state's leading industries, notably glass, there has been much more than usual difficulty in settling the wage scales, which has been attributed by the workmen, justly or unjustly, to the influence of trusts. Through the gas belt the trust question, so far as the masses are concerned, is beyond doubt the paramount issue of the present campaign.

Another not unimportant feature in the political situation is the great growth of socilaism in Indiana during the past few years Every factory in Indiana is filled with Socialists, and they are men who are willing to vote the Socialist ticket, though hopeless of victory. Of course both parties have suffered from this movement, but recent elections have shown that the Republicans have suffered more than the Democrats, especially in the gas belt, where a large majority of the factory workers were Republicans until they became Socialists. The State committee of the Social Democrats is claiming a vote of 6,000 for its ticket at the coming election, and there is good reason to believe that the estimate is little over the truth.

There are also indications of a considerable change in the political views of the farming element, resuling from the geueral increase in the price of all farming implements and supplies. For this reason alone there will, perhaps, be a decided falling off in the Republican vote in the country districts.

A Cheap Horse Food When the Corn Crop Fails.

Shartanburg, Aug 22—S A Nesbitt, an energetic young farmer of this county says that the cheapest horse food one can make to supplement a light corn crop is wheat. Sow it on good land and just as it is in the dough state, cut it with a mower and cure it as you do hay. It takes the place of corn and fodder and keeps work animals in fine condition. Let those farmers who are making about two bushels of corn to the acre try Mr Nesbitt's plan.
