The epidemic of cholera in India is carrying off natives at the rate of 3000 per week. The trouble is due to pollution of the scanty water supply during the famine. It is much worse than the bubonic plague.

The Alabama, queen of the navy and the greatest first-class battleship afloat, made 17 knots an hour on her trial trip off Boston harbor. The Iowa is the only American battleship of the first class that exceeded this record on her trial, and her record is but slightly better, 17.04.

An interesting phase of of the South African trouble is the appeal to Emperor William of 400 German subjects in Johannesburg. military authority, which they claim is needlessly cruel. This case will probably make a test of the emperor's attitude toward England.

What to do with the Chinese Chistians is a problem following the occupation of Pekin. Many of them have attached themselves to missionaries and expect protection. The only feasible way out of the difficulty seems to be to protect them by treaty. It will be impracticable to remove them from China even were they willing to go. The suggestion that they be sent to Manila is not entirely practicable and the exclusion laws of the U S prevent their being brought here. The only solution seems to be that of arranging for their protection in their native

The Situation in Chins e diplomatio situation in China is giving the authorities at Washington more treuble than the military. It seems that the position of Russia was well understood before the capture of Pekiu. There was a tacit agreement between all the powers, including the U. S. to withdraw from the Chinese capital as soon as the legations were relived. Just what part the U S will play in the future of China has not been determined. American interests and citizens must be protected. This will of course be demanded, whatever course the other nations interested may take. The dismemberment of China is opposed by Russia, France, Austria and Italy. Germany claims that her interest is simply the re-establishment of security and regular conditions under a properly organized Chinese England are not saying much and it is hinted that these two nations would not be averse to the annexation of some Chiness territory. None of the powers have reached a final determination as to their future policy. Time is wanted for full communications between the home governments and the military and diplomatic representatives in China. Interrupted telegraphic communication makes this work necessarily slow. It is reported that the boxers are looting cities and otherwise doing much damage to people and property in many of the provinces of China. Where foreign troops are present this is prevent.
