Marriage Postponed.
The Augusta Chronicle has the following to say of the marriage of Miss Dozier, which was to take place to-day at the home of Dr Glover Tompkins, but was postponed on account of the illness of Miss Dozier:
"Miss Dozier is an unusually attractive young woman and is well known in Augusta, where her numerous friends will wish her all possible happiness. Mr Duncan is a representative of one of South Carolina's oldest and best known families, and is to be congratulated upon his approaching marriage to one so worthy."

S. C. Co-Educational Institute.
Baptist Courier.
This institution has many friends and patrons in South Carolina who will read the following from President F F K Bailey with real pleasure:
"I know that you will be delighted to hear that we have opened with more students than ever before in the history of the institution. There are 151 boarders present, and quite a number who have engaged places, but were detained at home on account of sickness will come in next week. As you no doubt know, we spent thousands of dollars during the summer making improvements in the building, putting in new pianos, furniture, etc. The day we opened we found our buildings were insufficient to accommodate those who were actually here. Very fortunately for us, however, we secured another building near the college, and in 24 hours turned it into a barracks for the young men. We are all delighted with the new members of the faculty, and everything points to the most prosperous session in the history of the Institute."

A Deplorable Accident.
Special to The State.
DELEON, S. C., Oct. 11.—Two young men, Baker Gasque and Arthur Cottinham, thought they would have a little fun last night near Gallison at the expense of a scary prank. The one who took the joke seriously and fled into the party, the other of bird shot taking effect in Mr. Gasque's face, neck and chest. Dr. [Name] was called and found that the young man seriously hurt. The loss of one eye is regarded as incalculable and perhaps of the other also. Although a most deplorable accident, Mr. Gasque is a steady, sober and industrious young man. His father is the Rev. J. M. Gasque, a most estimable citizen of this community, whose family connections extend over the entire country.
Mr. Gasque is a brother of Mrs. A. F. Perkins, of Edgefield. Her father wrote her that he feared that his eyesight was destroyed, but all attention possible was given him by physicians and Miss Jennie Gasque, a trained nurse who recently graduated from the Charleston City Hospital. It is sad indeed, but in it is a lesson to all young men. It is hoped that at least one eye may be saved. It is a severe blow to Mrs. Perkins.

Somewhat of a Liar Myself.
That is the title of a book by J W DeVore, Esq., of Edgefield. The very suggestive title of this book will be most fully appreciated and enjoyed, as the reader passes on from page to page and finds each more filled with interest and excitement than the last, and becomes exhausted with enthusiasm over the dramatic climaxes of imagination which terminate the finale of most of the episodes. It is predicted with proverbial assurance, that this unique volume will not fail to interest deeply the peoples of all nations who are prone to study the trend of human thought, and may readily concede to this comprehensive writer the enviable fillet of renown and success, which is the just and exalted acquisition of all talented authors. The originality of this work must claim for it a high place in the realm of fiction. After reading the courtship of Ran Sydenstricker and his fiancée, Lindy Boeswax, their characters will ever sound forth in memory's pages, while the soliloquy of the author must satisfy the best informed, as well as the most ignorant.

SALE OF LAND.

Executors of the will of W. J. Williams, deceased.
And JAMES POWELL,
October 8, 1901.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

Chrysanthemums will soon be in bloom.
Cotton is bringing 84 cents on the Edgefield market today.
Mr and Mrs N G Evans arrived in Edgefield on Friday last.
Mrs Ras Youngblood has returned to her home at Winter Seat.
Mrs Henrietta Carter is visiting her brother, Mr James Tompkins.
Miss Jennie Patterson is out again, after a spell of Malarial fever.
Miss Kellah Fair returned last week from a fortnight's visit to relatives at Trenton.
Mr Sharpton, who is residing at the home of Mr Henry Hill, was in town Wednesday.
Mrs James Holland has been quite sick for several days at her home on Columbia street.
Mr and Mrs Walter Adams removed to their new home in South Edgefield on Thursday last.
Mrs. Alice Creed, of Johnston, was in Edgefield this week as the guest of Mrs. Bragg Jones.
Mr Warren has accepted a position and entered the employ of Mr W H Turner, at the corner store.
Rev Jonathan Bell has resigned the pastorate of the Johnston church and will return to Kentucky.
We received too late for this issue resolutions of the W. F. M. society. They will appear in our next issue, Miss Daisy.

The Woman's Mission society will hold their monthly meeting in the Baptist church on next Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock.
Ladies, if you have any curiosities at all about the latest dress goods, read J M Cobbs new ad. in this issue.
Miss Julia Lampkin, of Augusta, is boarding with her aunt, Mrs S B Gibson, and attending school at the Institute.
Rev P P Blalock preached in the Baptist church Sunday morning. The pastor, Rev Dr Gwaltney, had not returned.
If you are poor and want to become rich in the furniture line, read S. O. Poore's ad. in this paper. See him, when in Augusta.
We direct your attention to the new ad. of J W Peak's New York Racket about the death of high prices, and so forth. Read it.

Misses Emma and Fannie May Bettis, of Trenton, left last week for Winthrop college to pursue their studies during the ensuing year.
Miss Hottie Sheppard, who has recently returned from Campobello, left Monday for Greenwood, where she will engage in dress making.
Mrs W J McCorrell, of Poland, will spend merry-makers' week as the guest of Mrs Claude Garrett. —Augusta Chronicle.

Mrs Morrill and family have decided to remain in Edgefield, and will occupy during the coming year the house now occupied by Mayor W W Adams.
Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Robertson, of Modoc, paid a brief visit to our town Tuesday morning. The latter had never been to Edgefield before.
Auditor J B Haltiwanger is very prominently spoken of for Comptroller-General next year, and why not? He would make a rattling good one.

Mr and Mrs Robert Goff, of Johnston, were in town Wednesday. They contemplate removing to Edgefield between this and the New Year. We will welcome them gladly into our midst.
Miss Sheppard, of Edgefield, Miss Tillman and Miss Hughes, of Trenton, are the guests of Mrs Carwell, on Green street, says the Augusta Chronicle.
Master Wilder Brodie, who is attending the Co Educational Institute at Edgefield, will return home for merry-makers' week. —Augusta Chronicle.

A meeting is in progress this week, beginning at 7:30 o'clock, every evening at the Mill chapel. The pastor of the Second Baptist church, Rev P P Blalock, will be assisted by Rev Warren Entzinger, of Meeting Street.
Send your calves to J L Young. He guarantees the highest cash prices and prompt returns. Give him a trial and I am sure you will be pleased. J L Young, No. 942 Broad street, Augusta, Ga.
Robert Tanushill, one of the most prominent young business men of Augusta, is in the city as the guest of Mr and Mrs E F Bates in North Main street. —Greenville Daily News.
Rev Dr L R Gwaltney is expected home this week, having been absent for about ten days with his children at Rome, Georgia. Mrs Gwaltney will remain there some time longer.
The restaurant of Campbell & Str., in the rear of their store, is quite a resort for the hungry and way faring man, and Judge Campbell in his white gown is a typical boniface to serve delightful stews and hash, and beefsteak and other good things.
Rev. Luther White has been called to the pastorate of the Second Baptist church of Newberry. The call to this church is quite an honor to such a young man as Mr. White. He has, however, declined to accept the call, as he has planned his work to remain in his native county of Edgefield during the coming year.

Obituary.

On Tuesday, August 27, 1901, little May Bell Watts fell asleep in Jesus. For just one short year and three months she was lent to the devoted grandparents, Watts, and father, to brighten their homes and cheer their hearts. Then the little spirit took its flight to the one who gave it. She was an unusually bright child, too bright and pure for this dull, wicked world. Grieve not, fond parents, your darling is "safe in the arms of Jesus" beckoning and waiting for the fond ones to follow. "Suffer little children to come unto Me and forbid them not, for of such is the Kingdom of Heaven."
A FRIEND.

On Thursday morning the remains were carried to the Stevens Creek church and buried in the family cemetery, beside her son, James Landrum, who, during the Confederate war, died away from friends, home and mother. They are re-united now in the land of perfect day. At this burying ground are the graves of all of this large and influential family, at one time the most prominent in that section of the county. Rev P P Blalock was present and conducted the funeral services at the grave, a simple service, only a prayer and a hymn, as Mrs Landrum had often expressed a desire that there should be no ostentation on this occasion.
Mrs Landrum's latter years were as little years of "labor and sorrow" as the thoughtfulness of her children could make them. Her two daughters, Mrs Kate Mims and Mrs James Holland, six grand children, and two great grand children all lived near her and with her. They were attentive, sympathetic and affectionate all through life growing more and more so during her declining years and she often expressed a thankful heart for the kindness and love of her children.
Although it had been more than twelve years since Mrs Landrum had left her old home near Meeting Street, and she had visited the scenes of her childhood but few times since, around her grave gathered a large number of relatives and old friends, who seemed to feel her loss and grieve over it, as if it had been but yesterday since she had been one among them. So the lives and deeds of the good and just can never be forgotten.

Messrs J L Mims and Bettis Cantelod left Edgefield on Monday in Greenville. Tomorrow Messrs W D Ramey, W T Huff and Hugh Anderson will leave for the Mountain city on the same mission. Also Mr Walter Holston.

A Word to the Farmers.
The highest prices are being paid for cotton at Edgefield. The merchants have a buyer here who will give you as much for your cotton as you can get anywhere, and more than at some places. The Edgefield merchants will sell you groceries, dry goods, hardware and anything a farmer needs, just as cheap as they can possibly be sold. Our merchants believe in "quick sales and small profits." Bring your cotton to Edgefield and get the highest market price and buy your supplies from our merchants. You will go home satisfied if you sell here.
