This suspicion has been allayed by a statement from a very worthy and highly respected colored minister, one who holds the confidence of his white neighbors, among whom he has labored from his early youth. Upon being asked by the writer as to the results of the protracted meetings ("distracted meetings") which he held during August at his four churches, he said that they were quiet and orderly with apparent good results. He stated that during preceding years the meetings would be almost broken up by shoot ing and fighting and that the change had been wrought by the "long pistol law." The youngsters armed even with nothing but a derringer would make a great show of bravery, challenging every body
