THE ADVERTISER, Edgefield, S. C.

WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 17, 1902.

Clemson's session had very auspicious opening, over 500 students being enrolled. The address of Dr. Mell to the students was a gem.

Business men no longer regard the money expended in advertising a useless expense but, on the contrary, an investment that yields large returns.

The Hon Chas. A. Woods, of Marion, has been unanimously elected president of the South Carolina college. This is a wise and happy selection and it is the universal wish that he accept.

An Orangeburg farmer recently realized $3000 from the sale of tobacco grown on 20 acres. Evidently there is more profit in the golden weed than in the fleecy staple.

The means used by some candidates to secure votes in the recent primaries indicate that the tendency in South Carolina politics is toward the survival of the richest instead of the survival of the fittest.

Von Kolnitz, otherwise known as the Judas of Charleston's Democracy, was elect ed to the state senate over his opponent, Grace, by a majority of 223 votes. It can now be truly said that Charleston has fallen from Grace.

No greater compliment could have been bestowed upon Capt D C Heyward that that of the vote of his home people. Of the 2,250 votes county Heyward received all except 58.

were sorely disappointed in the defeat of Hon W J Talbert, who would have made South Carolina a good, clean governor. We, however, bow to the will of the majority, believing that the governor-elect will fill the position with cred it to himself and honor to the

The question of whether to sell or hold cotton confronts every farmer. A safe rule is to hold when every body else is selling. Reports indicate that the crop will be very short. The crop, however, being very early, receipts are unprecedentedly heavy, which causes the price to remain lower than it should be considering the adverse reports. The consensus of opinion is that the price will advance when this rush of marketing ceases. The farmer who owes nothing and is not paying interest should by all means hold his cotton. In doing so he helps the one who is compelled to sell to get a better price. Doubtless the speculators and spinners want the crop marketed all at one time so as to cry "heavy receipts" as a cause for the prevailing
