THE DRAFT HORSE. The heavy draft horse is one of the most profitable classes of horses that the farmer can raise. He should weigh from 1800 pounds upward-the more the better, provided it is conducive with quality and good feet and legs. The body should be deep, wide and strong, coupled with shortness of back and the muscling of the lion. Good action is essential, as indicated by the length of stride, quickness of step and straightaway movements.

WARMED GRAIN FOR POULTRY. Mention has been made in this department of the plan of the writer in feeding whole corn to fowls at night. and having it almost hot. This winter we have made it a practice to feed all whole grain only after warming. It was found that the nights the fowls were given the hot corn they were happy and warm, while on other nights, when other grains were fed in their rotation in the ration, the fowls were more or less restless and did not settle down to sleep so soon.

A little though; made it apparent that the birds missed the warm food, just as a human would miss it, and that their stomachs were no more pleased with a cold supper on a cold night than the stomach of the feeder would be. This plan of feeding together, with the plan of having all water given the fowls warmed, nearly hot, works nicely, as any one will see who will try it.

TENDENCY OF BREEDS.

ing that the proper type is what should he almed at, and not simply breed, bad as well as good. Plymouth Rocks can be raised, but the correct type of this breed should be aimed at. The English Dorking is recognized as the best type of fewl, and all breeders are trying to produce this style. The points to aim at are prominent long, vet square, breasts, short legs, but with good width between. Lew set birds with good breasts are wanted, and these are the best to fatten. The utility type as against the purely exhibition is gradually forcing its way to the front. The broad and blocky Buff Orpington, showing the shortest legs of any bird, is a case in point. It is impossible to layers. It is the best to breed from egg producers from your own observation.-Maritime Farmer.

TWO HANDY TOOLS.

The illustration shows two tools which will be found useful on any farm where fruits and vegetables are grown. The rakelike tool is an onion row marker and will save an immense amount of time in setting onions if used as directed. Take a piece of material three feet long and about two inches square and, after boring suitable holes four inches apart, set in and fasten pins of wood so that they will project about two inches. These pins should be about one-half inch square and bluntly pointed. Attach a short handle as shown and the tool is ready.

To use set the marker on the line laid out for the row and, with the foot, press lightly down so as to make a shallow hole to indicate where the onion set is to go. The other tool is a firm of Reese-Harris Tanning Co. a tree pruner and is made by taking a hardwood pole six feet long and one and one-quarter inches in diameter and rounding it. An old fork found very useful in working where it would be very troublesome to place a knife or a handsaw.

A DIGESTIVE FOR HORSES.

'As nearly all horses are troubled with indigestion, due largely to sameness in rations, and many are subject to attacks of colds, it is a good plan | Medical Society which meets here nextto have on hand some simple digestive which may be mixed with the feed wiven the horse. Horses that are subject to stomach disturbances should be given bran mashes several times a week, at night, and oats should constitute a very considerable portion of son, was elected temporary chairman, their grain ration. In feeding the bran and the permanent organization was mashes mix in each a tablespoonful of powdered charcoal. If the animal objects to it at first, reduce the quantity and—then increase to the quantity named. Horses subject to colic should be carefully worked, and if such attacks appear with any regularity, daily exercise should take the place of work and the horse be treated by a veterinarian. 'Try this charcoal treatment, do it regularly, and you will find the digestive organs of the horses much improved.

Our Taste For Chocolate. The taste of the people of the United States for cacao and chocolate appears to be developing with rapidity. Figures compiled by the Department of of Col. Clowry, taken entirely on his Commerce and Labor show that the importation of cacao has grown from nine million pounds in 1883 to twentyfour million pounds in 1893, and sixtythree million pounds in 1903. Cacao, as is well understood, is the product of the cacao tree, which grows wild in tropical America, and is also much cultivated there, and to some extent in Asia and Africa. W. D. Hunter, the Department of Agriculture Expert, Thinks That Post Likely to Cause an Early Price Increase and Ultimately to Do $250,000,000 Annual Damage.

Washington, Special.-Some significant official predictions regarding the ravages of the cotton boll weevil are made in a report soon to be issued by the Department of Agricultiiro, and written by W. D. Hunter, Who has charge of the entomological part of the boll weevil investigation, in which traff a hundred experts are now engaged. Mr. riunter says that conservative authorities agree that unless contingencies at present unexpected occur, the pest soon will cause an increase in the price of cetton throughout the world. By living within the fruit of the plant, the weevil is well protected from any poisons that might be applied; it occupies but fourteen days for development from his to adult and the processy of a single pair in a season may reach 134,000,000 individuals; it adapts itself to climatic conditions and is remarkably free from parasites and diseases all com-bining to make entires at control dif-ficult. The report estimates that the presence of the weevil practically doubles the area of land required to produce a bale of cotton, and that the weevil caused the Texas planters a loss of about $15,000,000 in 1903. Assuming $500,000,000 as the value of the normal cotton crop of the county, Mr. Hunter says the probable ultimate damage when the pest has become spread over the entire belt would approximate $250,000,000 annually, providing nothing were done lo check it. Planters, however, are adopting changes in methods, tend to avoid so much damage. The report predicts that the weevil eventually will be distributed all over the cotton belt, advancing into new territory at the rate of approximately 500 miles a decade, and it probably al-

probability of its being carried to West Africa or elsewhere abroad is not at all remote. In case the seed happens to be sacked, or even shipped in bulk, there is nothing to prevent the weevils from being carried long distances on shipboard, as they are able to adapt themselves successfully to climatic conditions. It is pointed out, however, that the danger could be avoided by funigation, or by leaving the seed sacked in store-rooms, isolated from new cotton for a year previous to shipment.

ways will be as destructive in a series

Government Crop Report. Washington, Special.—The weekly crop bulletin issued by the weather

Cool weather has been unfavorable for cotton throughout the cotton belt, and drought in portions of the eastern districts has proved detrimental. Complaints of poor stands continue from nearly all sections in the central and eastern districts, but good stands are Texas. In the last-named State the fields are generaly clean and plants are beginning to fruit in the coast districts. Chopping is well advanced, and cultivation in the southern districts is general. Boll weevils have appeared and are increasing in a number of southwest and south central cotton counties of Texas.

In Indiana, Ohio, Pennsylvania and Virginia, planting is backward, but doing well in Maryland, Kentucky and Tennessee. Transplanting has begun in the two last-named States, and is general in North Carolina. The fruit outlook is generally promising, except for peaches in the most northerly sections. In the Southern States, however, a good crop of peaches, is promised.

The chief servant scolds them all thoroughly. She would like to shake more energy into their lazy, sleepy bodies. "Hurry! for the Okusama (august lady of the house) will be down presently." She sends them hurrying this way and that, one to draw and carry water, one to prepare the dining room, one to sweep the verandas, open the shojis and let in the rooming sunlight and air, and she herself sets to work upon the cooking. HICKENS EARN MONEY If you give them help. You cannot do this unless you understand them and know how to cater to their requirements, and buy the knowledge required by others. We offer this to you for only 25 cents. You want them to pay their own way oven if you merely keep them as a diversion. In order to handle Fowls judiclously, you must know something about them. To meet this want we are selling a book giving the experience of a practical poultry raiser for (Only 25c.) twenty-five years. It was written by a man who put all his mind, and time, and money to making a success of Chicken raising—not as a pastime, but as a usiness—and if you will profit by his twenty-five years work, you can save many Chicks annually, and make your Fowls earn dollars for you. The point is, that you must be sure to detect trouble in the Poultry Yard as soon as it appears, and know how to remedy it. This book will teach you. It tells how to detect and cure disease; to feed for eggs and also for fattening, which Fowls to save for breeding purposes; and everything, indeed, you should know on this subject to make it profitable.
