WHICH?

Prohibition stands pre-eminently for piety, purity, probity, peace, plenty, prosperity.

Dispensaries stand decidedly for devilry, debauchery, dissipation, degradation, drunkenness, damnation.

Which do you stand for? Let conscience answer.

Greenville has invited the United Confederate Veterans of South Carolina to hold their annual reunion in that city on October 24-27th.

Bishop Potter, of subway saloon fame, is now an advocate of twenty-minute sermons, which is just twenty minutes longer than he ought ever to preach.

There is no better lubricant for the wheels of business than cotton. Since the staple has been coming in at a lively rate everything has taken on new life.

It is quite absurd for Booker Washington to say that the influx of negroes to the towns is for the purpose of police protection.

The great number of applicants for the beneficiary scholarships at the Citadel, in the several counties where vacancies have occurred, indicates that this splendid institution is more popular and holds a warmer place in the affections of the people than it has at any other time in the past for a number of years at last.

Barring possibly matrimony and the advent of his first baby, nothing else makes a man half so happy as to receive a check for fifty-five or sixty dollars for a bale of cotton.

If building material continues to advance as it has done within the past few years, only millionaires will be able to live in houses. The vast majority of people will literally have to live under their own "vine and fig tree," or in tents.

There are at present ninety-five saloons in the city of Augusta, but in view of the fact that the recent legislature of Georgia increased the amount of the license from $200 to $400, it is probable that the number will be greatly reduced.

A Chicago woman who is evidently quite familiar with the racial conditions of the South writes in this very sensible vein: "The respectable negro has the respect of the white people. The arrogant and impudent negro is not to be tolerated anywhere."

Edgefield sympathizes deeply with her sister town of Johnston in the heavy losses which she has sustained. The financial loss of the valuable warehouse and its contents is very great for a town of Johnston's size, but far greater was the loss of that sterling citizen, David T. Ouzts. In a few short months the debris of the burned building can be cleared away and a new one erected in its stead, but the loss of this good man is irreparable.

In Saluda county the Sessions Court seems to be almost self-sustaining. In other words, Saluda has the good fortune to raise sufficient fines to almost pay the expense of conducting court. The fines collected from the recent term aggregated $500. We would like to know whether this is due to the great number of offenders or to large fines. If it be the latter, Edgefield would like to borrow the "rabbit foot" that Saluda works on the preiding judges.

It is a significant fact that in all of the counties that have voted on the liquor question the dispensaries have been defeated, not by small but by very large majorities; and, furthermore, in the dozen or more counties in which elections are pending the sentiment is overwhelmingly against the dispensary. This proves conclusively that the prohibition movement has acquired such great momentum that no combination of forces will be able to stop it as it sweeps county after county before it.
