

FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Baked Orange Pudding.
One cup of sugar, a large tablespoonful of butter, two eggs and one and a half cups of milk, two cups of flour and two teaspoonfuls of baking powder; flavor with the grated rind of two large oranges. Bake until a golden brown in a brisk oven. Serve with the following sauce: Four large tablespoonfuls of sugar, two of butter and one of flour. Cream these three ingredients together until perfectly smooth. Beat the white of one egg to a froth and add it. Pour over the mixture half a cup of boiling water, stirring the mixture until it is creamy and allowing no lumps to form. Have prepared two large oranges from which all the peel and skin have been removed and chop them in small pieces. Remove the sauce from the fire and add these oranges. Serve the pudding hot.

Hand Lotion.
One-half pint of rainwater, two ounces of cologne, two ounces of alcohol, two ounces of glycerin, two ounces of rosewater, one-eighth of an ounce of gum tragacanth. Dissolve the gum tragacanth in the water, add the other ingredients, bottle, shake well; ready for use; elegant for the hands in cold weather or where you have to use hard water.

Duchesse Potatoes.
Peel, slice and cook until tender in just enough water to cover; let drip and place in a warm saucpan; mash with three yolks and a little flour; roll out on a board sprinkled with flour and divide into oblong cakes three-fourths by one-half by three inches; fry on both sides in butter to a golden brown and serve as garnish for roasts.

To Banish Rats and Mice.
It is claimed that rats or mice can be compelled to vacate premises by using a mixture of chloride of lime and water at the places frequented by these animals. Some of the mixture ought to be poured into the holes. Rats have a great aversion to the odor of chloride of lime and betake themselves at once as far as possible from it.

Rinse Starch.
A method of starching infants' fine dresses and all dainty fabrics: First starch as usual, then open up the garment well and dip down once into clear water. When dry slightly dampen in warm water and roll up for a few minutes. Garments starched in this way iron beautifully and are of the proper stiffness.

An Adjustable Mirror.
In every household some member finds fault with the position of the mirror intended for general use. For some the mirror is too high, for others too low. Unfortunately all cannot be pleased unless an adjustable mirror similar to the one shown in the accompanying illustration is used. There is a rack for towels, etc., a comb tray and

MIRROR MOVES UP OR DOWN.
A mirror which can be readily adjusted to any desired height. Attached to the wall is the support which holds the cross arm, the latter carrying the mirror, etc. This cross arm slides on a toothed gear and is held in position by a ratchet pinion. This ratchet pinion is not locked against rotation, but only to an extent sufficient to prevent accidental falling of the rack from its adjusted position. Thus the mirror can be quickly raised or lowered to the position most suitable to the user.

A French Steak.
Place a thick sirloin steak in baking pan in which a few bits of suet have been browned. Salt, pepper it and add a few tiny bits of lemon and suet. Cover with a thin layer of sliced onions and on this pour tomato catch-up. Bake about half an hour. The onions should be browned, but the steak rare. Experience will govern this.

Handy Stain Remover.
Spots can be removed from almost any delicate material by rubbing for five minutes with a piece of soft flannel. The wool absorbs whatever has made the spot and does not leave a ring, as do cleansing fluids.

Potato Mucilage.
A good mucilage can be made from potato peelings. Put as many peelings as desired in a kettle, cover with water, boil an hour, strain, then add half a teaspoonful of alum. This will keep indefinitely.

To Freshen Stale Nuts.
When nuts have become too dry to be good remove the shells, let stand overnight in equal parts of water and milk, then dry in the oven. They will taste perfectly fresh.

Cure For Chills.
Chop raw onions fine, make a poultice and place next to the feet or parts affected at night.

THE GREATEST OF STATE FAIRS

EVERYONE WILL BE IN COLUMBIA NOV. 1 TO 6

Big Events Planned—All Sorts of Pleasures—Cheap Rates.

The forty-first annual state fair, to be held in Columbia November 1 to 6, promises to be the best in the history of the South. Carolina Agricultural and Mechanical Society. Not only are the premiums offered larger than ever before, but the officers of the organization have arranged a program that will bring hundreds of visitors from near by states.

On Saturday, November 6, the feature of the closing day will be the Visit of President Taft. He will make an address at the Fair Grounds to several thousand people and afterward will be taken through the city and shown the principal points of interest.

The premium list issued some time ago shows that a number of valuable prizes are offered for the best display of farm products. This was one of the features last year in which there was lively competition, and farmers throughout the state are writing Secretary Love for information as to the conditions for entrance.

Another feature last year was the bench show. There were so many entries in this department that the society has decided to increase the prizes and classes to be admitted and a special space has been set aside for the dogs.

The racing, of course, will be up to the high standard. Since the society has joined the Virginia-Carolina-Georgia racing circuit, the horses sent South are some of the speediest in the country, and an examination of some of the records now being made on the Virginia tracks will show that this sport is promised those who care for the events. President Mobley will see that the racing is kept absolutely clean.

A special committee is at work on the educational department. It is planned to have Tuesday set aside for the schools and colleges, and with a view to encouraging pride in school and college work considerable space will be given for the exhibits. Silver and bronze medals are awarded to the students and pupils who bring their admission cards from the officers of the respective institutions one week before the fair.

Military day at the fair promises to be largely attended. It will be held on Friday, and then President Mobley, after a conference with a number of officers of the South Carolina Guard association, active work is being done among the various members in order to insure a large attendance. Further announcement concerning the conditions will be made later.

Aside from the fair proper there will be hundreds of attractions, including a large midway, and the main street of the city will be lined with shows under the control of the officers of the fair society. And don't forget the Carolina-Census football game on Thursday. Of course all the rail roads will sell specially reduced tickets for all visitors to the state fair. The attendance promises to be the largest on record.

Living Lights of the Sea.

One of the marine curiosities fished from the bottom of the Indian ocean by a dredging vessel chartered by the Calcutta Society of Natural History was a luminous sea crab, which continually emitted a bright white light, similar to that seen in the spasmodic flashes of phosphorescent luminosity kindled by the common fireflies. The oddity was captured in daytime and placed in a large tank, nothing peculiar except its immense size being noticeable in the broad glare of the tropical sun. At night, however, when all was in pitchy darkness, the crab surprised the naturalists by lighting up the tank so that all the other sea creatures, great and small, occupying the same tank could be plainly seen. When the luminous crustacean was prodded with a pole he emitted flashes of light, which enabled the experimenters to read small print, even though otherwise they were in total darkness.—London Chronicle.

He Was Guilty.
The great Irish agitator, Daniel O'Connell, was at one time defending a man accused of murder at Clonmel. The circumstantial evidence was so strong against the prisoner that the jury had already determined upon their verdict of guilty, when the man supposed to have been murdered was brought into court, alive and unharmed. The jury were desired to return their verdict at once, and they did so, but it was one of guilty.

"What?" exclaimed the astonished judge. "What does this mean? If the man has not been murdered how can the prisoner be guilty?"

"Please, your honor," said the foreman, "he's guilty. He stole my bay mare three years ago."—Omaha World-Herald.

The bitterness toward innovation is just the same in an army of out of it, but perhaps with more reason. A law which cannot possibly be accepted until it has proved itself better than that which it displaces. The first rifles were possibly rejected, and the Christian inventor took them to the Turk, who tested them at the siege of Constantinople. The first firearms were bitterly opposed because they destroyed the soldierly bearing of the troops. The British navy strenuously objected to the first large guns because one charge would cost as much as one of Nelson's broadsides. Ericsson's Monitor met with more opposition in Washington than it did in Hampton Roads. At the outbreak of the civil war it is said that congress ordered the adoption of the new weapon, over the objection of the chief of ordnance, who kept a specimen of the old one in his office to show visitors how good it was.—Army and Navy Life.
