

DOCTORS FAILED. RESTORED BY PERUNA.

Catarrh of the Lungs Threatened Her Life.

Miss Ninetto Fortor, Braintree, Vermont, writes: "I have been cured by Peruna."

"I had several hemorrhages of the lungs. The doctors did not help me much and would never have cured me. I saw a testimonial in a Peruna Almanac of a case similar to mine, and I commenced using it."

"I was not able to wait on myself when I began using it. I gained very slowly at first, but I could see that it was helping me."

"After I had taken it a while I commenced to raise up a stringy, sticky substance from my lungs. This grew less and less in quantity as I continued the treatment."

"I grew more fleshy than I had been for a long time, and now I call myself well."

Fearlessness of Seagulls. A Glasgow doctor who was recently touring the Highlands had a somewhat unorthodox experience with seagulls while passing through the Caledonian Canal.

There, as usual, following the usual procedure and were being fed by the birds.

To prevent them from being placed on his cap. The birds soon displayed much skill in snatching up the food. Then the doctor placed a piece of biscuit in his mouth.

The seagulls were shy at first, but they were bolder than the parrot of the morse, and before long there was brisk competition for the tidbits.

The snappers on board were kept busily engaged, so that there is now pictorial proof of the incident.—Glasgow News.

TRIALS OF THE NEEDLEMS

BEHIND THE SCENES, YOU'VE BEEN ASKED ON YOUR JOB TO BE THE BEST. THE ENTIRE FORCE GETS THE MOST COMPETENT PEOPLE HERE.

TO PREVENT PILES FROM RUNNING OUT, lay the top crust on in wrinkles when putting on; if put on smooth it shrinks.

Everyone does not know that tan shoes can be dyed black. The cost is small, and the result is that the shoe will serve another season.

Get a pair of pants hangers (only five cents); fold skirt front and back and over again; then nip the pins and your skirt will always keep straight lines.

Few people know how useful bran is for cleaning. For painting and varnished woodwork it is invaluable, removing the dirt without destroying the finish.

Buy a large ten-cent dish mop and use it for a duster. It is much better than a feather duster, which makes the dust fly. Like a dry mop it collects the dust and can be shaken out.

In keeping fruit, let it be spread out separately in a light, airy place, no two pieces touching each other. If piled together, or if stored in a dark or damp place it will decompose rapidly.

Let flannels soak in cold water forty-eight hours; set them on the stove in the same water and let it come to a boil; remove and let stand twelve hours; after this treatment flannels will remain just the same size they were when bought.

Colored goods which usually fade when washed will not lose color if washed in bran water. It is excellent as a scalp cleanser, and is good for the hair, making it glossy. Used instead of soap it whitens and softens the hands. To prepare bran water, fill a small bag (an ordinary salt bag is excellent for this purpose) with bran, place it in a pail, cover with boiling water and it is ready for use.

Catering by Slot.

Among the catering curiosities of Ostend is an automatic restaurant installed in the Rue Ruede Flandre. The various cooked viands are displayed in glass-fronted compartments of a long buffet and are released for consumption by placing a ten centime or other piece in the proper slot. Sandwiches, sausages, sardines, cheese, roast beef, filleted fish, etc., are thus obtainable, and drinks, including lager beer, vermouth, cognac, bitters, etc., are dispensed on the same plan. The automatic restaurant is greatly in favor with the humble trippers who flock into Ostend on Sundays and fête days.—The Caterer.

TIMELY RECIPES

APPLES AND PORK.

A dish to serve with pork chops is made of thin slices of apples and onions fried together in butter, with a sprinkling of curry powder as seasoning. A recipe similar to that just given is a foreign one called Madras curried apples. Peel and core four sour apples. Cut them in rings. Sprinkle with a little curry powder, and fry till brown, adding as they cook a few shallots cut in thin slices. Cover the mixture and let it cook until done. Serve on a platter with boiled rice and a curry sauce.—New York Tribune.

SWEDISH PUDDING.

Pick over and wash one-half pound of prunes. Add two cupsful of cold water, cover and let stand one hour; then bring to the boiling point and let boil till soft. Remove stones, obtain meat from stones and add to prunes; then add one cupful of sugar, one-inch piece of stick cinnamon and one and one-third cupsful of boiling water and let simmer ten minutes. Dilute one-third of a cupful of cornstarch with enough cold water to pour easily, add to prune mixture and cook five minutes. Remove cinnamon, turn into a mold and chill. Remove from mold and serve with cream.—Indianapolis News.

A RICH BEVERAGE.

Kot chocolate, if well beaten after it is cooked, will not form the skin over the top, which is an unpleasant feature of poorly made chocolate. A rich beverage is made with six table-spoons of a good make of chocolate, four table-spoons of granulated sugar and a heaping table-spoonful of cornstarch thoroughly mixed and wet to a paste with a little milk. This is placed over the fire in a double boiler with four cups of milk and two of hot water, and simmered two minutes after beginning to cook. It should then be beaten several minutes with an eggbeater, and served with whipped cream.—New York Times.

CHICKEN CUBAN STYLE.

Cut up chicken as for fricassee. Dry each piece and dip in beaten egg and roll in cracker dust, season with pepper and salt, and fry each piece very brown in half butter and half lard. When well browned add cup of hot water, cover and simmer half an hour. Then take out chicken and put on plate in warming oven. Have ready a bowl of cooked rice, put it into the frying pan which the liquid chicken has simmered in, add two tomatoes chopped fine, a red pepper, also chopped fine. Toss all together lightly with a fork. Pile high in the center of platter and lay around it the pieces of fried chicken; garnish with stuffed olives.—Boston Post.

WOMAN DISCOVERS MEANEST MAN.

Mrs. Caroline Cornelius of Ithaca, N. Y., believes she has uncovered the meanest thief on earth. She returned from a visit to Brooklyn to find her home had been entered. Although every room was in disorder, Mrs. Cornelius did not miss anything, and was puzzled until a few days afterward, when she went to her bank and found that a check for $138.57 had been cashed against her account. "Why, I never signed a check for that amount," exclaimed Mrs. Cornelius. The check was produced and the signature was found to be genuine. "Oh, yes," said Mrs. Cornelius, seeing a light. "I remember I signed it."

Fresh mint will drive away those troublesome, small red ants.

Soap will temporarily stop a leak in a gas pipe or in a wooden wash-board.

No Chances on Stock.

Is the New York public superstitious? A Fort-second street auctioneer insists that we are, and adduces this incident as proof of his contention:

One day there came into his shop a table to be auctioned off. It was a table with a past. It had belonged to more than one medium and had figured in many a tipping seance. The auctioneer expected that psychic history to boost the price of the table and he related it in his characteristically racy fashion before the bidding began. Instead of exciting competition that table inspired fear. It was regarded as an interesting curiosity, everybody wanted to examine it, but no one would buy. A price had been set on the table under which it was not to be sold, and no one bidding up to that figure, it was withdrawn from the sale. On five different days did the auctioneer introduce the table with the same preamble. On the sixth day he omitted all reference to the table's psychic powers, and it fetched a good price. His deduction is that the average New Yorker has more or less faith in spiritual manifestations and he doesn't want his repose disturbed by mysterious messages delivered through the medium of uneasy tables.—New York Times.

NEW STOCKINGS.

Stockings with insets of real lace, and stockings with sparklets of jet and silver and gilt fastened upon them—yes, that's what milady will wear this winter, when she's "all dressed up."

Of course, for ordinary wear, one will don stockings of modest color, to harmonize with the costume, or of plain black. With her tailored costumes milady will wear mixed or shaded stockings, in various combinations, if she wishes to be right up with Mme. Mode.

But for dress occasions—ah, that is a different story. That is where the real lace and the jet and the silver and gilt come in.

A stock may be elaborately embroidered, also, or show the finest of openwork, and it is said that both embroidered and openwork stockings will compete for favor this winter.

The great novelty, however, is the stockings with the sparklets, and it's said that the glistening things will wash, at that! Five dollars and up will purchase one pair of these novel hose.—Boston Globe.

POST PULLER.

I use a fence post puller of the following description, which is better than pulling with horses, as it does not break the posts. Fig. 1, hard wood pole 10 feet long; fig. 2, a rest for the pole, 4x4, 12 inches long, with a 2-4 nailed to the bottom, which is about 10 inches long; fig. 3 is a chain 2 feet long, with a grab hook attached 2 inches from the pole; fig. 4 is a stout wire nailed to the rest, which serves to hold the rest in place.

In pulling posts the chain is hooked loosely around the post, which permits it to slide down the post, when the pole is raised, allowing to get another hold when the post is raised a little.—Frank Lacina, Canby, Minn.

MATED, NOT MATED, HORSES!

In his instructive work "The Rationing of Horses," the author says:

They are not matches, and while one is worth $500, the mate is not worth $50. If horses are not well matched in every respect, especially in the mousing, they must be driven with different bits and the length of the inner or outer rein regulated according to the disposition of one or the other of the team to pull with or against each other, and thus fall into "lagging."

FEEDING VALUE OF SOY BEANS.

The Wisconsin Agricultural Experiment Station compared soy-bean meal and wheat middlings for pork production in three separate experiments in as many years. Two-thirds of the grain ration was corn meal in each case. In each of the experiments the largest gains were made on the soy-bean rations. Soy beans proved about ten per cent. superior to wheat middlings for pork production, figuring the cost of the feeds as the same.

The Indiana Agricultural Experiment Station compared rations of two parts of corn meal and one part of soy bean with corn meal and wheat middlings in equal proportions and with five parts of corn meal and one part of tankage for pork production. The soy-bean ration produced the largest daily gains, and this with the smallest quantity of feed consumed for each pound of gain.

The Kansas Agricultural Experiment Station has several times tested the value of soy bean in combination with corn meal and with kafir meal in comparison with the two latter feeds alone in feeding hogs. The feeds were mixed in the proportion of four-fifths corn or kafir and one-fifth soy beans. Larger gains, varying from thirteen to thirty-seven per cent., were made in every case on the mixed rations than on corn or kafir alone.

With corn meal alone 100 pounds of gain cost $3.92, with corn meal and soy-bean meal $3.73, and with kafir meal and soy-bean meal $3.37. For these computations the value of corn meal was fixed at $14 a ton, kafir meal at $13 a ton, and soy beans at $25 a ton, or seventy-five cents a bushel.

A WOMAN DOCTOR

Was Quick to See That Coffee Was Doing the Mischief.

A lady tells of a bad case of coffee poisoning, and tells it in a way so simple and straightforward that literary skill could not improve it.

"I had neuralgic headaches for 12 years," she says, "and suffered untold agony. When I first began to have them I weighed 140 pounds, but they brought me down to 110. I went to many doctors and they gave me only temporary relief. So I suffered on, till one day a woman doctor told me to use Postum. She said I looked like I was coffee poisoned.

"So I began to drink Postum and I gained 15 pounds in the first few weeks and continued to gain, but not so fast as at first. My headaches began to leave me after I had used Postum about two weeks—long enough to get the coffee poison out of my system.

"Since I began to use Postum I can gladly say that I never know what a neuralgic headache is like any more, and it was nothing but Postum that made me well. Before I used Postum I never went out alone; I would get bewildered and would not know which way to turn. Now I go alone and my head is as clear as a bell. My brain and nerves are stronger than they have been for years."

Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a Reason."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

Best of Reasons. When a Scotsman answers a question he settles the matter in dispute once for all. On a certain occasion the question was asked: "Why was Mary, Queen of Scots, born at Linlithgow?"

Sandy Kerr promptly answered: "Because her mither was staying there."—Human Life.

Farm Topics

MAKING PIGS GROW BRAINS.

They are making pigs grow brain at the Ohio Agricultural Station at Wooster by feeding them brain food. Dr. E. B. Forbes, who is in charge of these experiments, is having great success. They have put ordinary porkers on diets devised by Dr. Forbes, and in sixty days the pigs have developed brains which have crowded their skulls' capacity.

The pigs showed more intelligence as their brains grew bigger. They didn't wallow in the mud, but gambled like lambs. They didn't grunt and climb with their front feet into the feeding trough, but ate with less devouring passion and more relish. They also showed evidence of increased brains in other ways.

SAVE THE IMPLEMENTS.

There is no doubt that more farm implements are lost by neglect than are worn out by use, declares an observing writer. Many of them will not be required until spring, and those should be carefully housed meantime. If any of the iron or steel parts are rusted, rub off the rust, using fine sand, applied with a corn-cob. When these parts are thoroughly cleaned, go over them with a mixture of lard or rosin—an ounce of rosin to a pound of lard, melted together and thoroughly stirred while cooling. This is an excellent preventive of rust, and should be applied to all tools around the farm. Good advice, that, even while winter is waning; but suppose that we add that a little paint preserves the wood work of tools, implements, etc. That, well applied, will check decay and dilapidation.—Weekly Witness.

It was in this very cottage in Brookside, 15 miles from Birmingham, Ala., that three Italians nearly died of Fever. They had been sick 3 months. Johnson's Tonic cured them quickly—read letter below:

Brookside, Ala., May 4, 1903.

The two physicians here had 5 very obstinate cases of continued Malarial Fever. All were Italians and lived on a creek 60 yards from my store. These cases were of three months standing, their temperature ranging from 100 to 104. The doctors had tried everything in vain. I persuaded them to let me try Johnson's Tonic. I removed all the printed matter and let the medicine go out in a plain bottle as a regular prescription. The effect in all three cases was immediate and permanent. They recovered rapidly and there was no recurrence of the Fever.

No Colds in Antarctic Region.

Lieut. Shackleton tells of a curious phenomenon of life in the Antarctic regions. The daily journey is of course taken under atmospheric conditions involving the extreme cold. The danger of what is called "catching cold" is increased by the fact that the toll of dragging sledges over miles of snow and broken ice lands the workers at the end of the day in a condition of profuse perspiration.

Nevertheless, during the whole of their stay in the Antarctic regions not a single one of the adventurers suffered from bodily infirmity ordinarily following on exposure to extreme cold. The peculiarity was the more marked in view of the fact that at the first port their vessel touched on the homeward voyage nearly every man, including the commander, had catarrh.—Scotsman.

A Burning Eruption Covered Her From Head to Feet.

"Four years ago I suffered severely with a terrible eczema, being a mass of sores from head to feet and for six weeks confined to my bed. During that time I suffered continual torture from itching and burning. After being given up by my doctor I was advised to try Cuticura Remedies. After the first bath with Cuticura Soap and application of Cuticura Ointment I enjoyed the first good sleep during my entire illness. I also used Cuticura Resolvent and the treatment was continued for about three weeks. At the end of that time I was able to be about the house, entirely cured, and have felt no ill effects since. I would advise any person suffering from any form of skin trouble to try the Cuticura Remedies, as I know what they did for me. Mrs. Edward Nanning, 1112 Sallina St., Watertown, N.
