WHERE THEY DRAW THE LINE
Naturally Men Disapprove of Extravagance When Their Own Purse is Concerned.

Mrs. William B. Leeds, who took George Keppel's house in London for the coronation season, came to New York with 40 huge trunks, the same size, all mounted with gilding, all claret-colored, and as lustrous as the body of a motor car.

Mrs. Leeds, as her 40 trunks imply, dresses very beautifully. She spends a large amount on her wardrobe, and she is so much more expensive and much less durable than men's, she said.

Women dress foolishly, and we continue to do so till men disappear; but she smiled on the men in the table—"no man in the world disapproved of dress extravagance in a woman unless she happened to be his wife."—Detroit Free Press.

CHANCE TO COMMIT SUICIDE.

"There is a man in the flat trying to cut his throat." "Don't worry about it; there isn't for him to do it."

Worrying Happiness. A bishop of Manchester, speaking at a meeting at Church House, Westminster, said the secret of happiness is to have a sufficient multitude of worries.

The man who had only one worry, and that would not be pulled up by the servant, or a coal to the bottom of which was coming out, found his way to a mental asylum. But the man who to time to dwell upon his worries because he had to go from one to another, and back again and round about like a squirrel in a cage, was a perfectly happy man.

HEART RIGHT. When He Quit Coffee.

Insurance Companies will not insure a man suffering from heart disease. The reason is obvious. It is a serious matter to the husband or father who is solicitous for the future of his dear ones. Often heart trouble is caused by an uncorrected thing and can be corrected if in time and properly treated. A Colorado writer:

Nellie Maxwell. They Eat Much Meat. The people of the south are large meat consumers, but small meat producers. Statistics show that southern consumers consume more meat per capita than any other section of the country. And no section of the country can compete with North Carolina "under forced draught" in raising meat, especially pork.—Frank P. Fogg in National Magazine.

The KITCHEN CABINET

IT IS not the good that we do, but the spirit in which we do it that counts in our character building.

There are some people that never do a kind act without acting as if it were a great drain upon them.

VEAL DISHES.

Veal should be at least six weeks old to be wholesome, one reason that it is so often hard to digest is because it is imperfectly masticated.

Veal With Tomatoes.—Cut two and a half pounds of veal in cubes and salt them. Heat in a kettle some sweet fryings or fresh butter. Put in the meat and brown; add an onion, two tomatoes, one carrot and a piece of celery root or stalk, all cut fine. Add four tablespoonfuls of sour cream, a tablespoonful of vinegar and let the whole simmer for an hour or two. Just before serving add a tablespoonful of flour cooked with a little cream.

A veal breast makes a nice roast. Cut slits in the meat next the bone, to make pockets to hold the stuffing, and roast with a slice or two of salt pork laid over the meat while roasting.

Veal Goulash.—At three pounds of veal into pieces and salt them. Fry brown in a kettle with a little butter, with two sliced onions. Add a teaspoonful of paprika, dredge with flour, add stock or boiling water and simmer for an hour or two.

Veal Loaf.—Take three pounds of lean veal, one and a half pounds of uncooked ham, three eggs well beaten, three crackers rolled fine, one teaspoonful of salt, half a teaspoonful of pepper, three tablespoonfuls of cream, three tablespoonfuls of boiling water. Mix all together thoroughly; grease the pan well and pack in the meat. Bake two and a half hours. Serve either hot or cold.

Veal Glace.—This is a good hot-weather dish. Cook two pounds of veal two hours in a pint of water in a fireless cooker; season well and remove. Cut off all the meat from the bones and put it through the meat chopper. Soak a half a box of gelatin in a cup of cold water. Add the juice of a lemon, and when it begins to harden stir in the veal. Place in a mold and set away to cool. This may be served in slices on lettuce as a salad.

THE CHERRY SEASON.

Try this method of putting up a dozen quarts of cherries, and see how easy it will be when compared to the old way of stewing oneself when cooking the fruit. See that the jars are all perfect, covers and rubbers in good condition. Sterilize the jars by putting them into cold water and bringing the water to the boiling point. Fill the jars with the fresh, uncooked cherries, and when a dozen jars are filled, pour over a hot sugar sirup as rich as one desires for sweetening, seal the cans and put a dozen or more into a boiler that is half full of boiling water. A long-handled skimmer may be used to rest the jar on when putting into the water. After all are in cover to the depth of four inches over the cans with boiling water; put on the cover and throw over the boiler three or four thickesses of old carpet. Let them stand twenty-four hours and remove to the fruit closet. You will have fruit of exceptional color and flavor if these directions are carefully followed.

Cherries are delicious preserved, and may be used as a relish. Spiced, as any fruit is spiced, is another addition to the winter's store.

Cherry pie is the pie par excellence, and if care is used in fitting a paper funnel in the opening when put to bake not a drop of the precious juice will be wasted.

Cherry Dumplings.—A delicious cherry pudding may be made with a cup of flour and two teaspoonfuls of baking powder and a little salt sifted together. Add enough milk to make a batter not too thin, and drop a tablespoonful of it into buttered pudding cups, then a few cherries and more batter. Put the cups into boiling water and cook fifteen minutes. Serve with cherry sauce or cream and sugar.

Length of Cotton Root.

COTTON SEED CROP

Results Obtained in Several Southern States in 1910.

Proven Conclusively That the Yields of Cotton and Corn May Be Doubled by Carrying Out Demonstration Methods.

The late Dr. S. A. Knapp, then special agent in charge of the farmers' co-operative demonstration work, compiled the following results obtained by the thousands of demonstrators in Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana and Mississippi in the year of 1910:

The demonstrators in Alabama made an average of 1220.2 pounds of seed cotton and 41.5 bushels of corn per acre. The state average for 1910 in cotton in Alabama was 474 pounds and in corn 18 bushels. The demonstrators in Arkansas made an average of 914.3 pounds of seed cotton and 36.9 bushels of corn per acre. The state average in cotton in Arkansas was 525 pounds and in corn 24 bushels. The demonstrators in Florida made an average of 572 pounds of seed cotton and 23 bushels of corn per acre. The state average in cotton in Florida was 339 pounds and in corn 13 bushels. The demonstrators in Georgia made an average of 1299.4 pounds of seed cotton and 35.4 bushels of corn per acre. The state average in Georgia was 522 pounds of cotton and 14.5 bushels of corn. The demonstrators in Louisiana made an average of 781.2 pounds of seed cotton and 35.2 bushels of corn. The state average in Louisiana was 359 pounds of seed cotton and 23.6 bushels of corn per acre. The demonstration farmers in Mississippi in 1910 made an average of 943.7 pounds of seed cotton and 42.7 bushels of corn per acre. The state average was 519 pounds of seed cotton and 20.5 bushels of corn per acre.

The above results prove conclusively that the yields of cotton and corn may be doubled by carrying out the demonstration methods. The illustration shows Mr. R. S. Wilson, state agent in Mississippi for the farmers' demonstration work. He is holding a part of a cotton root. The part of the root that he is holding is nine feet long. This cotton root was a lateral root near the surface of the soil.

Pure-Bred Draft Horses.

Pure bred draft horses are always in big demand at good prices. Many pure bred stallion colts are sold at $1,000 as three-year-olds, while pure bred mares bring from $300 to $500.

A really good horse is never of a bad color, but some colors, such as perfectly dappled grays, pure blacks and blue roans command better prices than others.

If English farmers can afford to use pure-bred draft horses that are worth $500 for ordinary farming operations why cannot our farmers afford them as well?

Do not change the work horses from grain to grass to suddenly. In fact, horses on heavy work every day should have very little grass.

Hog Raisers' Mistakes.

There is a great mistake made by many hog raisers who give their brood sows corn and water for a diet; they think because they look well that such foods are all right, but they wonder why their sows have trouble giving birth to their offspring, and many times eat them.

Good Butter Making.

Good butter-making must begin with the milking.

WOULD SAVE TOWER

Chicagoans Protest Against Razing of Historic Landmark.

Great Pile of Masonry Which Survived the Disastrous Fire of 1871 Very Rich in Romance and Tradition.

Chicago.—Shall the oldest landmark of the north side, a spot rich in tradition and romance, the only remaining monument of the time of Chicago's victory in her greatest struggle for life, be profaned by a city's commercialism and destroyed in the name of economy?

Shall the silent sentinel of stone, the ivy-mantled tower where sweethearts were wont to meet, where children played and heard wondrous stories of other days, be reduced to a shapeless mass of stone and scattered all over the city?

Is it not possible to preserve the picturesque gray tower of the old Chicago avenue pumping station to posterity to serve as a memorial of the great fire of 1871?

These are a few of the questions raised by scores of Chicagoans who had read of the plan to tear down the tower of the Chicago avenue pumping station in the interest of municipal economy. This ancient landmark stands at the foot of "Millionaire row." North of the famous old structure are the homes of the rich. Since 1867 the tower has stood as a constant reminder of the permanence of the work of the city's founders.

Members of the Chicago Historical society joined in the storm of protest against tearing down the tower. They were unanimous in the sentiment that this landmark should be preserved and made one of the show places of Chicago.

When Chicago began to burn, the evening of October 8, 1871, terror-stricken citizens fled north to the tower in the belief that the fire would be confined to a narrow district. The following day the fire reached the tower and roared about its base, destroying the machine shop and adjacent buildings. The pumping engines were stopped and the walls of the engine house began to crumble. The roof and floors of the other buildings gave way, but the tower stood firm while the flames raced northward.

The great pile of masonry was preserved when repairs were made, and since that day has been rich in tradition and romance.

Many stories of the tower deal with the romances of some of the richest sons and daughters of Millionaire's row. An eloping couple is said to have been married at the top of the tower. In the days of old thousands of young men and maidens wandered up the stairway to the summit to plight their troth.

The doors of the tower were locked long ago. The only magic key that will unlock the door is in the keeping of the city authorities.

The city authorities hold now that disintegration has begun and that the tower must go. This theory is denied by members of the Chicago Historical society, who declare that the tower was built to stand 10,000 years and that there is no danger of its crumbling for generations. Hundreds of visitors gaze in awe at the old tower every day.
