No Wife for Him.
"What do I want with a wife?" snorted Bachelor Bockwedder, on reading an old maid's reasons for not wanting a husband. "I have a game rooster that is vain about his fine feathers, a goat, that chews the rag, an aeroplane that gets me up in the air, and an automobile that keeps me all the time broke!"—Judge.

Surely Had Forgotten Something.
An Eastbourne, Sussex (England) woman recently started on a railway journey with the uneasy feeling that she had forgotten something. This turned out to be correct, for she had to take the next train back to pick up her child, which she had left on the station platform.

Birds Worthy of Gratitude.
It has been estimated that the birds in the United States save $200,000,000 worth of crops each year. The tree sparrows in Iowa eat 4,666 pounds of weed seed daily. One full-fledged robin will eat 16 feet of caterpillar daily, or about 4,569 individuals a month.

Europe's War Material.
Europe withdraws from industry 4,500,000 men to make soldiers of them. They are kept from one to three years. What an appalling waste; how doubly preposterous if efficiency can be insured with militia training;—New York World.

Others Could Tell Him.
"Have you any object in piling up wealth? Perhaps you have an ambition to gratify. Is there anything you want to do?" "There is. When I am fixed financially I propose to see if there is really any money in the chicken business."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Low Altitude.
"Mr. Wombat, you ought to go in for aviation. Many of our prominent people are taking it up." "I suppose I ought. Have you got a machine that will skim along nicely about seven feet from the ground?"—Judge.

Gift That Is Divine.
If instead of a gem, or even a flower, we could cast the gift of a lovely thought into the heart of a friend, that would be giving as the angels must give.—George MacDonald.

Well, Naturally.
A man charged in an English court with disorderly conduct pleaded that, seeing a notice on a lamp post, he climbed up to read it, and the words "Wet paint" slightly annoyed him.

Man's Work and Woman's.
Now the man's work for his own home is, as has been said, to secure its maintenance, progress and defense; the woman's to secure its order, comfort and loveliness.

Left Him Thinking.
"That's arrant nonsense," said Mr. Henpeck, "about there always being room at the top." "Oh," his wife sarcastically replied, "when were you up there to see?"

Poor Pursuer of Pleasures.
"It's the only pleasure I have in life," said an English hawker, in explaining to a magistrate his love of beer.

Pretty Sure.
Whenever a man is threatened by the deep sea he is pretty sure to find the devil on the other side of him.

Impossible.
Some people are in the prime of life at 50, but you can't make a woman of 30 believe it.

Truth.
A mood is that which turns yesterday's truth into today's falsehood.—Lita.

For Neatness in Clothing.
London has adopted a French industry which aims at neatness. It is that of the "stoppeur." The word refers to the art of mending clothes. In Paris the "stoppeur" is well and favorably known. Supposing a gentleman tears his coat or burns a hole with his cigarette in his trousers, the garment is conveyed to the "stoppeur" who in some mysterious way reconstructs the material. In some way they seem to weave in the stuff, joining up threads of a bit of cloth cut from another part.

Queer Catch From the Sea.
One of the queerest deep sea creatures ever seen in the vicinity was brought in a few days ago by a fisherman of Venice, Cal. It is five feet in length, black and green mottled, with a tail like that of a shark. It has a dorsal fin and four feet, shaped like those of a parrot. Its mouth resembles that of a Gila monster, while its head is a replica on a large scale of that of a California horned toad.

Jane Austen Unpopular.
It has been pointed out with some surprise that the late W. S. Gilbert had a strong dislike for Jane Austen, but a correspondent of the New York Evening Post reminds us that Mark Twain had a similar antipathy. He said once that "a library that does not contain Jane Austen's works is a good library, even if it hasn't another book in it."

Conversation During Meals.
The world long ago was forced to admit the important relationship between mind and matter, and when one is occupied by matter—eating food—the mind should also be brought into play. Say something bright. Pay a few compliments, tell a bright anecdote, chat of the pleasant and lighter things in life during all your meals.

Wonderful Power of Love.
He who has a pure and unselfish love for any one being in the universe has thereby a new life, new powers, new possibilities, and new perceptions of all; and the very universe itself is a new universe to him, as viewed from his new center of love and light.—H. Clay Trumbull.

Home of Spruce Beer.
A popular beverage on the islands of St. Pierre and Miquelon, particularly among the bank fishermen, is spruce beer. The neighboring Newfoundlanders probably introduced this drink among the French. It has been brewed in Newfoundland from a very early period.

Really Hard Luck.
"Did youse git anything?" whispered the burglar on guard as his pal emerged from the window. "Naw, de bloke wot lives here is a lawyer," replied the other in disgust. "Dat's hard luck," said the first; "did youse lose anyting?"—Ohio State Journal.

Profit in Travel.
It is worth while to journey, to learn how deceptive is that mirage which forms itself out of distance and nothingness; how good is the land about us, and the life that requires no translation to be understood.—N. S. Shaler.

Australian Desert.
Australia's northern territory is the only large unpeopled tract of habitable land on the globe. It is six times the area of the state of Victoria. The country is fertile, and is watered by numerous splendid rivers.

Keeping Them Off.
"Do you consider such a marriage as that of a man so confirmed a drunkard as Jaggs to a circus performer, a fitting one?" "A perfectly fit marriage. She's a snake charmer."

Music's Range at Enfield.
"Music for sale. Anything from 'Turkey in the Straw' to 'Mr. Dream Man,' and any of the Oh, Oh, Oh, rags; see Benham & Murphy."—Adv. in the Enfield Express.

What They Were.
Little Bessie had been gazing earnestly at the waxed mustache of her father's friend. Suddenly she remarked "Why, my kitty has smellers, too!"—Judge.

Democracy in Death.
While we are reasoning concerning life, life is gone; and death, though perhaps they receive him differently, yet treats alike the fool and the philosopher.

Not Really His Fault.
"I kept an eye on her until Saturday," said a seafaring man, referring to his wife, "and then she slipped her cable while I was on duty."

Public Opinion Supreme.
All free governments, whatever their name, are in reality governments by public opinion.—James Russell Lowell.

Not Illegal.
Household economy seldom goes far enough to be counted a conspiracy in restraint of trade.—Atchison Globe.

Two Points of View.
Young men think old men fools, and old men know young men to be so.—F. Metcalf.

WIDE RANGE IN COATS

FROM LIGHT AND FANCIFUL TO MOST SEVERELY MANNISH.

All, However, Have a Certain Similarity Which Is Demanded by Fashion—Wide Shoulders and Straight Sleeves Imperative.

The new 45-inch coats range from fanciful affairs of light color, with trimmings of silk and oriental embroidery—coats designed for short spins about town or out to the country club—to more practical models, built of mannish worsteds, with correctly tailored detail. Even the latter are more or less trimmed with huge buttons, cord loops, eccentrically shaped collars and sectional belts across back or front. A certain air of smartness is imparted to the garment by oddly placed seams, piped or arranged in slot effect. The dropped shoulder has replaced the raglan design, so fashionable last season, and while very loose and almost baggy across the top, the modern motor wrap invariably tapers inward toward the bottom, wrapping the knees closely over the narrow skirt beneath. A particularly popular model of this type, made of all wool serge, had double revers, the larger ones extending to the low front fastening, of black and white striped or checked worsted, while

HAT AND COATEE TO MATCH

Old-Fashioned Chintz Designs Are Used for Transparent Wraps, With "Picture Hats."

Many sets, hat and scarf or coatee to match are noted here. The old-fashioned Chintz designs are exploited in these transparent wraps designed for lingerie gowns. One set called the "Picture" hat and wrap, justifies its name. Designed in white chiffon with Egyptian design in old blue and large pompadour roses in shades of maize and orange the coatee reaches below the hips, draped fronts and shawl collar of real lace. The "picture hat" is bent in four corners, the top draped with chiffon and a band of old blue velvet ribbon drawn about the crown and a flat bow at the side. Placed under the brim is a yellow velvet rose.

Quite as attractive is a little English sailor hat, with crown draped with Futurist silk and the top of the brim decorated all around with red roses placed at intervals. Entwined about the crown is a band of old blue velvet ribbon. The scarf designed to wear with this is formed in mantle shape, blue velvet ribbon forming the hems on either side of front and down the center back.

Quaint little hats covered with Jovy design in chiffon, trimmed with pleatings of same, with scarf to match, are also shown.—Women's Wear.

TAKE UP THREE-PIECE SUITS

In the Same Material or in Combination of Two Silks They Are Equally Popular.

According to a statement made by the Dry Goods Economist, the vogue for garments of the dressier type is no doubt responsible for the interest recently shown in three-piece suits. Up to the present time the majority of these three-piece suits have been made up in silks or high-class novelty worsteds.

Silks have been particularly good and many smart three-piece suits of moire, faille, poplin, charmeuse and brocade are now being shown, as well as a combination of two silks, such as moire and faille, brocade and faille, etc.

Although some three-piece suits have been brought out to retail at a moderate price, very little attention has been given to cheaper grades. This is because houses that are able to turn out a good popular-priced tailored suit seldom have an organization that is capable of making an equally attractive dress and vice versa.

MADE TO SUIT ALL COSTUMES

Waists of Various Materials Intended to Complement the Skirt With Which They Are Worn.

The waists now being featured for wear with tailored suits are, according to the Dry Goods Economist, made of matching chiffon, crepe de chine, satin or messaline. White net and lace waists are also good style for supplementing the more dressy tailored suits. In many departments the models designed for special wear are grouped together on one table, or in the part of the counter.

Waists for traveling, for athletic wear or for general utility purposes are made along the lines of the mannish shirt. In New York stores, such waists in dark-colored crepe de chine, messaline, brocade and fancy silks are strongly featured.

In the washable varieties of crepe de chine, Jap silks and corded silks the ground is usually white, marked off with stripes in bright colors. Middy blouses, finished with a broad band over the hips, are strongly featured for slender young women and girls. They are advertised by retailers as Balkan middy blouses.

PRETTY HAT

Black straw forms this wide-brimmed hat. The trimming is composed of blue velvet ribbon, which is pleated round the crown. A velvet rose at the front completes the trimming.

Substitutes for Muslin.

It looks as though the dry of muslins for underwear was on the decrease simply because crepe de chine, Chinese silk, Italian silk and mercerized knitting serve to keep the figure more slender than any fabric which holds starch. Women who do not care to be lavish in their lingerie adopt combinations that are cut off at the knees and the bust and have the flat shoulder straps made from wash ribbon; these are inexpensive and do not add much to the laundry bill.

Italian silk is expensive, but it is one of the most pleasant fabrics to wear that has been invented for women's convenience. It also washes easily and wears well and does not add to the thickness of the figure by a fraction of an inch.

Navy Blue Silk and Rubber.

smaller revers and a collar of faille silk appeared on the revers of worsted. Other coats of wool serge have shawl revers and deep cuffs of ratine in contrasting colors; and still other models show revers and cuffs of the material, edged with Bulgarian printed silk, a narrow collar of black satin, trimmed with small buttons, lending a note of sharp emphasis and relieving the gaiety of the Bulgarian trimming.

Very chic are three-quarter coats of shepherd checked worsted lined throughout with bright colored plaid silk, the latter material showing on the turned back collar and revers, while the sleeves are finished with narrow, turnover cuffs of the coat fabric. All such coats have wide shoulders and straight coat sleeves set into large armholes and the fronts usually lap across each other, fastening quite low with two or three large buttons, while the coat edges slope away in cutaway effect below to show the skirt of the dress.

MARY DEAN.

Neckwear Styles.

The fact that a large distribution of low collars is expected during the coming season is resulting in the presentation of a host of new styles, according to the Dry Goods Economist. Deep shoulder-pointed numbers continue in the lead. Cream batiste of the sheerest quality beautifully embroidered, with fine hemstitching and dainty beadings and laces, are used in the development of the foremost models. Cream batiste is also used in some of the handsomest flat collars with jabots. The collar portions follow largely the deep shoulder point idea and the jabots are of conservative size and style. Flat pleated jabots are especially liked. Net, figured and dotted crepes, plain and fancy voiles and crepe de chine are among the other prominent materials employed.

Rage for Cerise.

Four out of every five smart women are wearing cherry color, a tint that has been fashionable for over a year, and yet maintains its popularity. It is worn with almost any color. For instance, a blue silk gown in a shade approaching the well-known "royal" has a wide sash of cerise ribbon, and with it a dark-haired girl would wear a cherry colored band in the hair. On the other hand, a pale blue skirt and a heliotrope evening bodice have also a cherry colored band, and no violence is done to the vision of the spectators by combining these three emphatic tints.
