Trustees, Notice.

Our first meeting of county teachers' association will be in the court house Saturday, 27th inst. We especially urge trustees to be with us as a feature of the meeting will be for them.

W. W. Fuller,
 Co. Supt. Education.

Very Pleasant Occasion.

The ladies of Stevens Creek church gave an oyster supper at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Allen Friday night last, the occasion being a distinct success. The amount realized was about $38, which will be used in improving the church building. The spacious home of Mr. and Mrs. Allen is an ideal place for any social gathering, and especially for one that is largely attended. We trust that success will continue to attend the efforts of the good women who compose Stevens Creek church.

Thief on Gang.

Sheriff Swearingen recruited the ranks of the chaingang Saturday with one Jim Brunson, colored. He was convicted in the Magistrate's court at Johnston for stealing a watch and 30 days on the road. After serving this term he will be tried for a more serious offense. Jim formerly resided in the Cleora section. Some months ago he stole another negro's wife and betook himself to Johnston to make his home. His next arraignment will be for stealing the ginger-cake colored fraud, who, by the way, being a willing victim, will likewise have to explain some things in court.

A New Plant

Mr. O. B. Anderson purchased some seed and planted them in the summer, thinking they were turnip seed. But when they came up it was altogether a new plant, being something of a cross between vetch and turnips. He has sent a specimen of the plant to Clemson college but the horticulturist there says there is nothing like it in his collection of 400 seeds. A specimen has also been sent to Washington to the agricultural department. It is hardly probable that Mr. Anderson was the only one who purchased and planted the seed. Who else in this section has some of the new plant? Please report it to The Advertiser.

Major J. W. Aiton Dead.

We were informed Monday morning of the death of Major Aiton which occurred Thursday last at his home in the Callison section of Greenwood county, formerly Edgefield. He has been a regular subscriber of The Advertiser for more than 60 years, being in his 86th year at the time of his death. For the past 10 years or more The Advertiser has been going to Mr. Aiton every week gratis, with the compliments of the editor.

Major Aiton was a good man, a valuable citizen. For many years he was a deacon in Mountain Creek church, from which church he was buried Friday afternoon. He was noted for his faithfulness in every duty assigned him. Notwithstanding the fact that he resided some distance away, no member of the church was more regular in attendance upon public worship than he. Unless prevented by sickness, Maj. Aiton was always in his place. Even the weight of years which gradually grew upon him did not interfere with his faithful discharge of religious duties. In the active years of his life Major Aiton was one of the leading factors in his community life. Nothing was undertaken without his counsel and he always rendered a full measure of service. As he has been such a loyal member of The Advertiser circle of readers so long, it is with profound regret that we strike his name from our list.

Major Aiton is survived by his wife, five daughters, Mesdames J. M. Rogers, Walter Rogers, A. W. Rogers, Sebe Agnew and Bart Dorn, and three sons, Thomas, William and Samuel Aiton.

D. A. R. Meeting.

Mrs. James R. Cantelou was the hostess for the Old 96 District Chapter, D. A. R. on Tuesday afternoon at the regular November meeting.

All of the organizations of women in Edgefield are in a flourishing condition, and enthusiastic along their respective lines of interest. All the recent meetings have been of special importance because of the three state conventions which have taken place so recently, the Woman's Missionary Union in Spartanburg, the Daughters of the American Revolution in Greenville and the Daughters of the Confederacy in Aiken, delegates from each of these occasions bringing back enthusiastic accounts of the conventions. The regent of the local D. A. R., Mrs. N. G. Evans, presided and business having been attended to, Mrs. Evans gave a very comprehensive and interesting account of the D. A. R. Conference in Greenville. Mrs. D. B. Hollingsworth, also in a very entertaining manner, described other features of the conference.

The new year books were distributed, which will greatly facilitate the work of the ensuing year.

Mrs. Tillman, as historian, took charge of the remainder of the programme, and a very interesting incident was the display of the South Carolina Flag which the chapter had presented to the Edgefield High School, and which had been carried to Seattle and used on the platform Jubilee night when Mrs. Tillman and Mrs. Tompkins represented the state of South Carolina at the national convention of the Christian Temperance Union. So the South Carolina Flag owned by the Edgefield High School and the gift of the local chapter D. A. R. proclaimed to the United States at Seattle the freedom of South Carolina from the shackles of King Alcohol, as had in the long ago floated to the breeze proclaiming the freedom of the colonies from the tyranny of Great Britain.

As the day of the meeting was so near Thanksgiving, something of the spirit of the season pervaded the occasion. The members responded to the roll call with a Thanksgiving sentiment, and the chaplain, Mrs.

J. L. Mims, read a poem on that subject.

The first Thanksgiving was a very suggestive and interesting paper read and prepared by Mrs. Maner Lawton. William Jones sang a Thanksgiving song, a reminiscent sketch of William Royall was read by Mrs. J. W. Peak. The chapter found this paper of great interest, and a relic of the past belonging to this distinguished gentleman was an old copy book one hundred and three years old which was an object of great interest to the chapter, and was viewed by each one.

At the close of the historical programme, the chapter was invited to the dining room, where seated around the table, a most delightful season of social enjoyment was spent. The table was spread with a veritable banquet, an elaborate salad course with whipped cream and coffee, and a second course of delightful cake and nut-jelly with cream.

The December meeting will be a very pleasant one, and will have as its subject, "The Indian," and will meet with Mrs. Mamie N. Tillman.
