JOHNSTON LETTER.

W. C. T. U. Meeting Held. Officers Elected. Post Office Improved. Annual Meeting of W. M. U.

The W. C. T. U. meeting was held on Friday afternoon with Mrs. J. P. Bean and despite the exceedingly hot afternoon there was a full attendance and with such interest manifested in the cause, there resulted a splendid meeting. Mrs. T. P. Denny, president, opened the meeting with a short song service and after scripture an earnest prayer was offered by Mrs. Olin Eidson. There were good reports from the officers and superintendents. The subject for the afternoon was "Unfermented wine," and after a few remarks on the subject by Mrs. Denny, a paper on "Unfermented wine" was read by Miss Eva Rushton. Queries on wine in which all participated proved very interesting.

This being the afternoon for the election of officers, this was taken up. The fact that Mrs. Denny would soon make her home elsewhere, and thus removing from the union its president and one of its best members was deeply deplored. She has been the president for a number of years and by her earnest efforts has made the union the strong active organization it is. Her resignation was accepted with much regret. The election resulted as follows: President, Miss Zena Payne; vice-president, Mrs. M. T. Turner; recording secretary, Mrs. Olin Eidson; corresponding secretary, Mrs. J. P. Bean; treasurer, Mrs. J. W. Marsh. The superintendents will be appointed at a later meeting and delegates elected for the convention which meets in Sumter September 29 to October 1. There being no further business a bright song was had and the meeting closed with Aaronic benediction.

Mrs. Hugh Mitchell spent a part of the past week here in the home of Mrs. Will Wright.

Mrs. John Mays of Edgefield was a visitor here during the past week. Miss Elmira Carpenter is the guest of Miss Hallie White.

Messrs. Coke and Olin Hardy of Savannah are visiting in the home of their uncle, Mr. J. W. Hardy.

During the past week the post office has been made more convenient not only for the employees but also for the general public. ## Death of Mr. Felix P. Walker, Sr.

Early Saturday morning Mr. F. P. Walker, Sr., peacefully entered into his last long sleep at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Frank Watson. Mr. Walker was in his eighty-second year and it may be said that his life came to an end as a candle burns out. Because of extreme old age, rather than on account of disease, the organs of the body ceased to perform their function and his spirit left the temple of clay to take up its abode in that heavenly home not made with hands. On account of the encroachment of accumulated years, Mr. Walker had not mingled much with his friends for several years. His Edgefield friends have greatly missed his regular visits to the court house, as it has been more than a year since he was last among them. Mr. Walker has always led an up-right, Godly life and before his strength failed took an active interest in every phase of the community life. He was one of the charter members of Berea church and has been an officer in that church since its organization. He has been missed from the active work of the church since his feeble condition made it impossible for him to attend upon the church services regularly. His funeral was conducted from the church Saturday afternoon by his pastor, Rev. Henry B. White.

Mr. Walker is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Frank Watson and Mrs. Frank Byrd, and two sons, Mr. Abney Walker and Mr. F. P. Walker, Jr.

brilliant touch of color. The guests were greeted by Mesdames J. A. Lott and A. P. Lewis and Miss Helen Lewis introduced them to the receiving line, those standing with the hostess, being Miss Carpenter and Misses Evelyn Martin, May and Loise Cassells, Myrtle and Marion Dunbar, these other young ladies being town visitors. Sweet music was enjoyed as the guests arrived. Progressive games were held, all the tables being decorated in yellow asters and daisies. After an hour with this pleasant diversion gold and white block cream with silver cake was served by the hostess and Miss Helen Lewis.

The annual meeting of the W. M. U., Ridge association, will be held with the Batesburg Baptist church second week in September.

Misses May and Loise Cassells and Misses Myrtle and Marion Dunbar of Ellenton are guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Cassells and on last Thursday evening a most pleasant social affair was arranged in their honor and the young people of the town had the privilege of meeting these young maidens. Progressive conversation was the chief diversion and the five minute call to frequently broke into the little chats. Refreshing ices and cake were served and punch was enjoyed as the guests arrived and departed.

Mr. E. G. Morgan, and his son, Mr. Robert Morgan were visitors here for the week-end and their many friends were glad to greet them, the former being a former Johnstone.

Mrs. W. J. Hatcher is at home from Atlanta after a visit to relatives.

Mrs. Brunson of Augusta is visiting in the home of her brother, Dr. J. A. Dobe.

Miss Garvin of St. Matthews is the guest of Misses Elliot and Conya Hardy.

Rev. Brooke announced on Sunday morning that some time during the month of November a revival service would be held in the Baptist church.

Miss Hortense Padgett is spending awhile with her sister, Mrs. Alex Watson, near Meeting Street.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Nickerson arrived Friday evening from their honeymoon and are spending a few days here with the groom's mother, Mrs. Fannie Nickerson. On Friday Prof. and Mrs. W. H. Ha. of Columbia parents of the bride, motored over to spend the day here with them.

HARDY'S HAPPENINGS.

Splendid Revival at Sweetwater. A Number of Accessions to the Church. Barbecue and Picnic.

We have had quite a wind and sand storm and then wind and very hard rain about 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon. The rain was very much needed and will do a great deal of good. After the first half hour of down pour it rained gently for an hour and half longer. It has been extremely hot for the past week and as we came home from church noticed a lot of thunder heads and remarked, we would very likely have a thunder storm as it was so hot.

Sunday was service day at Sweetwater church and there was almost as large an attendance as was there for the memorial service in May. They had a splendid protracted meeting in July and the baptizing came off at this service. There were 8 baptized. Mr. and Mrs. Henry Cooper, Mrs. James McClain, Miss Williams, Messrs. Alvin and Walter Stevens, Mealing Bunch and Fred Barker. We were so glad to see so many come over on the Lord's side. Very sorry to hear Dr. Briggs has malarial fever and could not be baptized too. Hope he will use some of his skill on himself and soon be well.

Mr. and Mrs. George Briggs and daughters, are visiting his mother, Mrs. Ellie Briggs.

Mrs. T. J. Briggs and Mrs. Geo. Briggs spent the day Wednesday with Mrs. Georgia McKie and stopped to see Mrs. Sallie Bunch on their way home.

Mrs. James Adams, Mr. Pick Adams, Mrs. Tom Adams and Mrs. Baz Matthews spent Saturday with aunts, Mrs. Mat Shaw and Miss Melvie Lanier, also Mr. and Mrs. John DeLaughter and Miss Lena DeLaughter spent Friday and Saturday with their aunts, the same two ladies.

We are sorry Mr. George Medlock had to be taken to the hospital Friday. Mrs. Medlock and Mrs. Townes went to see him Sunday and think him a shade better.

Mr. Henry Medlock and baby will spend this week in Edgefield with Mrs. Carmichael.

Mr. and Mrs. Ingram and children have moved in with our bachelor deacon, Mr. Martin Medlock, so we suppose he is not so lonely now. We hear Mr. and Mrs. Ed Fouche will move in with them also very soon. Mr. Fouche and Mr. Ingram have a lumber plant on Sweetwater creek near the mouth, on Mrs. Emma Roper's place where they saw and ship the lumber to Augusta by water.

We attended the picnic and barbecue at Mr. Tom McKie's mill on Thursday last. There was about 200 people there, every one in the best of humor and all enjoyed the entire day immensely. The dinner was grand. Mr. Joe Hightower being the cook, those who have eaten his barbecue and hash know what that means. The ladies had done their best cake and pie making and salad also pickles. Mrs. J. M. W. Glover told the young folks fortune and of course they enjoyed that. Many of the older ones also had theirs told. Many young folks and children had lots of fun bathing in the pond. Every one there voted Mr. and Mrs. Tom McKie, and all who took part in the giving of the picnic, their heartiest thanks for such a delightful entertainment.

Mrs. Drew Mealing is just back from New York, where she carried her daughter, Julia, to enter the finishing school for young ladies. Mrs. Mealing had a very enjoyable trip.

Mr. and Mrs. McKie Bailey spent a few days last week at the hospitable home of Mrs. Georgia Hammond.

Miss Lucy McKie leaves in a few days to visit a friend in Asheville, N. C.

Mr. George Wright will leave Wednesday for a visit to relatives in Lynchburg, Va.

Miss Madge Mays and sister and Calhoun Mays will leave Wednesday for a visit to Mr. Ben Mays and family in Washington, D. C.

Miss Adilee McKie returned home Sunday afternoon after a week-end visit to her grand parents. She and Miss Georgia Reese attended the

HOME WEDDING.

Miss Elizabeth Folk Hollingsworth and Mr. William Simpson Anderson Married at Bride's Home.

The ancestral home of Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Hollingsworth was the scene of a brilliant wedding Wednesday evening. At eight-thirty o'clock their youngest daughter, Elizabeth Folk Hollingsworth, was given in marriage to William Simpson Anderson of Leesburg, Fla. With its long and spacious piazzas that should be measured or spoken of in terms of yards rather than feet, this ideal country retreat is a typical home of the old south. Departing from the usual custom, that of holding the marriage ceremony in the parlor, their troths were pledged on one of the piazzas of the home which was as roomy as a pavilion. Here as well as in the parlor, halls and dining-room of the home the hands of artists wrought a complete transformation. Smiles was draped in such great profusion from the ceiling and wall and entwined about the numerous columns as to make the guests feel that they had been transported to fairland.

As the guests were awaiting the appointed hour, sweet strains from the parlor fell upon their ears, Miss Fannie Sheppard presiding at the piano, with violin accompaniment by Miss Rosela Parker. After playing "A Perfect Day," Lohengrin's wedding march was sounded and the bridal party came upon the scene giving added beauty to this fairyland. Dr. E. Pendleton Jones, the officiating minister, emerged from the parlor and took a position just in front of graceful palms and ferns that were embanked against the wall and two little ribbon girls, Cinnie Brunson and Lois Dobson, entered the main piazza from a side piazza, the north and two other Misses Eva and Effie Adams of Leesburg, Fla., and Miss Mae Tompkins. Next came the matron of honor, Mrs. W. D. Allen, a sister of the bride, and the dame of honor, Miss Adelaide Bell of Prattville, Ala., a college friend of the bride. Master George Edward Sheppard, the ring bearer, was followed by little Elizabeth Nicholson, who scattered rose petals in the pathway of the bride. The bride was accompanied by her brother, John Hollingsworth, and the groom was accompanied by his brother, T. W. Anderson, as best man. During the ceremony, the ring ceremony being used, Miss Sheppard and Miss Parker played "Somewhere a Voice is Calling" in soft notes. The bride and groom made their vows beneath a large silver crescent and three stars, this being a replica of the bride's Sorority or college society pin. From this beautiful emblem green tulle was draped to the columns and ceiling, the effect being altogether pleasing.

The bride carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses and the bridesmaids' bouquets of yellow and white. The bride was lovely in her rich gown of chiffon embroidered in silver and the waist was embroidered in pearls and lace handed down from her paternal grandmother. Her veil was arranged with drapery of orange blossoms and a baudou of lace from the bridal dress of her paternal grandmother. Her going-away dress was of old blue embroidered in white and green flowers and leaves. Her hat was sailor shape with hand-embroidered band to match the suit.

After the conventional shower of congratulations and good wishes the guests leisurely passed into the south parlor where the bridal gifts were arranged on large tables. One seldom sees anywhere a greater or richer variety of silver, cut glass, hand-painted china, cutlery, and paintings than those presented by admiring friends and loved ones to these widely beloved young people.

Among the gifts was a letter, from the president of the bank of which the groom, Mr. Anderson, is cashier in Leesburg, to which was attached a check for $100.00 as a gift from stockholders and directors of the bank. This was a silent testimonial to the worth and sterling qualities of the groom from those with whom he is intimately associated in business.

While the guests were being served with a salad course, followed by block cream and cake, the bridal party were being served in the dining room which was artistically decorated in green and yellow, yellow roses being used. Green tulle was gracefully draped from the ceiling to the bride's table to the windows, the beauty of the scene being enhanced by soft light from scores of candles. In addition to the chandeliers in the halls and parlors numberless candles shed their light here and over the long piazzas.

At the conclusion of the repast, the bride tossed her beautiful bouquet among the eager bridesmaids and, despite the desperate efforts and struggle of the others to get possession of the coveted prize, it fell into the outstretched arms of Miss Fannie Sewell, a cousin of the bride.

Refreshing punch was served throughout the evening by Miss Ella Bell Scurry and Miss Lydia Brunson on the northern end of the long front piazza and by Miss Edith Ouzts and Miss Grace Tompkins on the southern end.

Comparatively early in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Anderson boarded an automobile amid a shower of rice and hid themselves away upon their wedding journey.

Leesburg, Florida, which is to be the future home of Mrs. Anderson, will be enriched and ennobled by this new acquisition to its social and religious influence life. Reared in an atmosphere of culture, refinement and religious and possessing inherent talent, graduating too from one of the leading female colleges of the South, Mrs. Elizabeth Hollingsworth Anderson is fitted for any sphere and will prove her worth in her adopted home. Although another tie binds South Carolina and Florida, Edgefield will never altogether forgive William Simpson Anderson for his taking her away to reside permanently.

Among the out of town guests present were Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Anderson of Oconee, Ga., parents of the groom, T. W. Anderson and Lock Williams of Leesburg, Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Jenkins, of Greenwood, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Sewell, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Brunson, Miss Emmie Brunson of Augusta, Mr. and Mrs. Shelton Perry of Batesburg, Miss Huff of Ninety Six, Miss Adelaide Bell of Prattville, Ala.

CLARK'S HILL.

Helpful Agricultural Meeting at Modoc. Sunday School Flourishing. Tribute to Mrs. Broom.

The harvest time is now on us. Peas are ripe, and some have been gathered. Cotton is opening fast. Some fodder has been pulled and hay cut. We have had a very short rest this summer. By the time we finished plowing we commenced to gather.

Two pretty homes are rapidly going up for H. A. Adams and John G. McKie, E. T. Christian of Parksville directing the work.

J. O. Marshall is moving his store, which will give his wife a pretty front and side yard. She is thinking of giving the young people a tennis court on part of it. She is always ready to give the boys and girls pleasure.

We were delighted with the agricultural meeting at Modoc last week, under the management of Clemson college. They sent us some good speakers. I am sure it is going to do good. They told us to quit killing this Bermuda grass trying to grow cotton. Said for us to put good fences around it and cover the hills with beef and dairy cattle. Told about the many creameries that were going up all over the State, and the good price cream was bringing all the time. Advised us not to buy cotton-seed hulls—they were not worth over $2.00 per ton—but to grow pea hay and velvet beans. Told of one man in the upper part of the State that built a large barn and cut four windows. He planted a velvet bean at each window, and when they began to grow he opened the windows and let the vines run in and in a short while the barn was full of nice hay for his cattle.

We had a good crowd out at Sunday school. We had good singing and a splendid collection. We were glad to have so many visitors present, about ten in number.

All the young people of our town went for a straw ride Saturday night, about twenty in number. Mrs. H. A. Adams, who is ever ready to go with them, chaperoned the crowd. They took lunch and melons with them, and what a good time they did have.

W. M. Rowland left some days ago for Battle Creek sanitarium up in Michigan, where he will take a month's rest.

Mrs. W. M. Rowland is spending the week with friends and relatives in Spartanburg.

W. S. Middleton and L. G. Bell were off last week on a campaign tour. Mr. Middleton has returned, but Mr. Bell did not show up at Sunday school. Before he got in politics if he was absent from Sunday it was easy to guess where he was, but now he has the advantage of us, or he thinks so.

Misses Eva and Effie Adams of Leesburg spent Saturday and Sunday with Mrs. S. T. Adams.

Miss Vera Fowler leaves this week for North Carolina to visit friends and relatives.

Mrs. Dr. B. T. Sharpton left for Atlanta Tuesday. She is assist manager of the ladies' ready-to-wear of one of our large department stores.

Rhodes-Adams.

A recent issue of the Atlanta Constitution contained the following announcement, which will be of interest to many of The Advertiser's readers:

Mr. and Mrs. James D. Rhodes announce the engagement of their daughter, Martha Jacqueline, to Mr. Robert Eugene Adams of Washington City, the wedding to take place September 8.

Mr. Adams is an Edgefield boy, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Adams of Meriwether. He graduated from Clemson college in the class of 1909, and is now in the employment of the Southern railroad, at the head of one of the engineering departments in Washington.
