Gamblers Arrested and Fined.

Sheriff W. R. Swearingen, Deputy Sheriff D. D. Brunson and Marshal W. E. Ouzts caught nearly a dozen negroes gambling Saturday night about 11:30 o'clock in a negro house in the eastern suburbs of the town. Being just out of the town limits, they were tried Monday before Magistrate N. L. Brunson who fined eight of the offenders $10 each. One of the negroes was shot in the leg as he escaped from the building. For some time Sheriff Swearingen has been on the alert for this bunch of gamblers and working upon a small bit of evidence that they had arranged for a big game Saturday night he set about to entrap them. He and his assistants are entitled to the thanks of the community for apprehending and arresting the offenders.

Death of Mr. Eugene Thurmond.

The Edgefield friends of Mr. Eugene Thurmond were deeply pained by the announcement of his death which occurred at his home Monday. He was not only one of the best citizens of the Red Oak Grove community but of the entire county. His place in the community life can not be filled. He was a man whose sterling qualities were recognized and appreciated by all who knew him, those knowing him best holding him in highest esteem. Mr. Thurmond will not mingle anymore with his relatives, friends and neighbors, but his influence will live long in the lives of those who have come under his beneficent influence. The funeral was held at Red Oak Grove church Tuesday afternoon. The Advertiser extends profound sympathy to the bereaved family.

Death of Mrs. J. R. Hammond.

Monday afternoon Mrs. Hammond died at her home in the Colliers section after an illness extending over a year. During the long months she was a patient sufferer. Before her marriage Mrs. Hammond was a Miss Key, a sister of our fellow townsman, Mr. C. H. Key. This good woman will be missed by her large circle of friends residing in Colliers and adjoining communities. But where she will be missed most is in the home. Her chief joy was in giving happiness to others, especially the members of the home-circle. At the time of her death Mrs. Hammond was in her 61st year, and besides her husband she leaves a son and a daughter.

The interment will take place in the family square at Red Hill church this morning at 11 o'clock.

Wasters Take Warning.

The food waste in the United States is estimated by dietary experts at about $700,000,000 per year.

An average slice of bread contains three-quarters of an ounce of flour. If each American family wastes only one slice per day, it means that 875,000 pounds of flour are being destroyed every twenty-four hours, or enough to bake a billion one-pound loaves of bread. At this rate the wheat yield of 470,000 acres would be lost. Stale bread may be utilized in many ways by thrifty housekeepers, ranging from the savory bread pudding to pancakes made of crumbs.

If every housekeeper in the country wastes an ounce of meat per day, the aggregate loss is 9,100,000 pounds each week.

Finicky eaters are to be discouraged. They insist upon standard meat cuts and staple vegetables. They will not try new dishes. Thousands who had never tasted boiled rice found it palatable when the price of potatoes became prohibitive last winter.

Great waste is due to bad preparation and poor cooking. It is estimated that careless paring destroys fully one-fifth of the food value of a potato. The best mineral salts lie near the tuber's skin.

Overeating is a frequent source of waste among the rich, and also in families of moderate means. Many persons consume more food than the body needs, making for ill health and sluggishness, rather than energy.

Many housekeepers buy too much and throw away the excess, making no attempt to use the left-overs. Too large portions are served, the remnants going to the discard.

Careless or untrained cooks throw away nourishing food in the shape of skim milk, sour milk, gravy, or melted fat and water in which cereals or vegetables have been cooked.

Careless handling wastes much food, from the time it leaves the farm until it reaches the corner grocery-store. For instance, 13,000,000 dozens of eggs spoil annually in cold storage, owing to slightly cracked shells.

High-priced foods are fed to animals—even to useless creatures like lap-dogs.

"You do not need to leave your home to help our armed forces," said David F. Houston, Secretary of Agriculture, in a recent address to the women of the country. "Every ounce of food you save from being wasted is so much gained for the world's insufficient supply. Learn to plan economical and well-balanced meals, and do not encourage overeating or offer wasteful or excessive variety. Make every ounce of food count to its full value."

Home Demonstration Clubs.

[Communicated]

Since the war the government has been giving much attention to the production and conservation of food. In order to promote this emergency, County Home Demonstration Agents have been appointed. If you are interested in fall gardens, raising of fall poultry, canning and drying of fruits and vegetables, home-made conveniences such as fireless cooker, new recipes, join one of the Home Demonstration clubs which will be organized in your county.

It is hoped that a large number of the school children of this county will become interested in this patriotic work—for it is patriotic—and that they will join poultry clubs and plant fall gardens.

Time and place for demonstrations will be announced later, and all interested to attend.

An Irish hod carrier was carrying mortar to the top of a skyscraper which was being built. One day he went up and couldn't find his way down. The boss missed him and called up to him.

"Pat," he said, "why don't you come down?"

"I don't know the way," replied Pat.

"Why, come down the way you went up."

"Faith and I'll not," said Pat; "sure I came up head first."—Globe-Gazette.

ELECTRIC BITTERS THE BEST FOR BILIOUSNESS AND KIDNEYS

Padgett-Young.

On Wednesday, August 22, at high noon, at the splendid Colonial Home of Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Padgett, honored residents of the Trenton section, their eldest daughter Miss Eadora Lilliston, was united in marriage to Mr. Ernest Leroy Young of Fairfax, S. C.

Miss Padgett graduated at the Johnston High School and was an honor graduate of the Columbia Methodist college and president of student government during her last year there, the highest honor that can be bestowed on a student. She taught last year at Fairfax.

Mr. Young is a prominent business man of Fairfax, cashier of the bank and engaged in other business enterprises, and superintendent of the Lutheran Sunday school. He is a graduate of Newberry college, and was a school mate of that institution with Rev. A. L. Gunter, who performed the marriage ceremony, assisted by Rev. Mr. Groseclose, Mr. Young's pastor.

The guests at the wedding were the immediate family and nearest relatives of both families.

The drawing room was artistically decorated in white, the high Colonial ceilings and doors making the effect more beautiful. Asparagus was used to decorate this room where there was no furniture except the massive piano and a lovely altar over which hung the wedding bell. Here the bride and groom pledged their troth, having entered alone and together to the mystic strains of Mendelssohn's Wedding March, softly rendered by Mrs. Leitsy, sister of the groom.

The bride wore a beautiful costume of white Georgette crepe with white satin picture hat and gloves, and carried a lovely bride's bouquet of rose-buds, most tastefully arranged. On the mantel in the parlor were candlesticks, a family hairloom which had belonged to the grandmother of the bride.

The spacious hallway and stairs were decorated in white and ivy, this historic vine being in evidence in most dainty designs, making the stairway a thing of beauty.

The dining-room where the wedding feast was served and it was a veritable feast the colors were pink and white, the bride's table being all in pink, with a large basket of roses in the center and pink chiffon festooned from the corners, and a handsome Battenburg cover over the table.

The lovely young girls who served, all exquisitely dressed in pink, were Misses Helen Leitsy, Willie, Louise and Launella Padgett.

A two course dinner was served, the first course being turkey, ham and salad, and the latter one pink ice cream and Japanese fruit and pound cake.

After the dinner the bride changed her costume for a travelling suit of rich plum, and the happy pair began their journey to the mountains of North Carolina in their handsome new Stevens car.

Guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Young, parents of the groom of Fairfax, Rev. and Mrs. Groseclose and family, Mr. and Mrs. Leitsy and family, Miss Nena Owdom of Springfield, Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Smith of Saluda, Mr. and Mrs. Wilber Johnston and Miss Mina Edison of Johnston, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Ouzts and family, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Mims, and Miss Mary Padgett of the University Hospital in Augusta.
