JOHNSTON LETTER.

Attendants to D. A. R. Conference. Mrs. Kenney Celebrates Birthday. Death of Mrs. Ivey.

Recently, five carloads of pure fish scrap were unloaded here to scores to the farmers, this product being something entirely new for them. This fish scrap was shipped here by the Seminole Oil and Fertilizer Co., of Florida, chiefly to their stockholders.

The town is still under quarantine, owing to health conditions, and Sunday was again a quiet day, there being no religious services. As there is no school, some of the teachers have returned to their homes.

The death of Mrs. Eleanor Ivey, which occurred last week in Greenwich, Conn., at the home of her daughter, Mrs. E. A. Schnell, was learned here with deep regret, and when the body arrived here on Thursday and was carried to her former home, sorrowing friends came to pay a last tribute to her, and to place flowers on her bier.

Mrs. Ivey was one of the earliest residents of this place, coming here from Winston, N. C., with her husband, Capt. John R. Ivey.

She was a woman of much intellect and talent, and was of the old school of the type of polished, refined and cultured women. She was a writer of merit, and her non-de-plume was "Daisy Dean." The productions of her pen have brought great pleasures to numbers, her chief productions being popular fiction, plays and articles on current events.

During her days of activity, she was always identified in everything that was for the good of the town.

She was a pioneer worker of the W. C. T. U., and what she has done in interest of this, has been of lasting good. She was a member of the Methodist church and was faithful to it, and was always found in her pew as long as her health permitted.

About three years ago she became so feeble, she went to stay a while with her daughter, Mrs. Schnell, but was never sufficiently strong to return.

Her children were devoted to her, and every attention and luxury was given her that she might be happy and comfortable. Although so far away, the other two living children, Dr. Hugh Ivey of Atlanta and Mr. Preston Ivey of Columbia, made visits to her when she wanted to see them. The loving care of her daughter, Mrs. Schnell, was beautiful.

The funeral services were conducted on Friday morning by Rev. Kellar of the Methodist church in the home and later the body was tenderly laid to rest beside the grave of her husband, two sons, John and Rainsford being buried here also.

There were many beautiful designs, among them being the Methodist church, U. S. and the U. D. C.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenney had two daughters, Misses Frances and Eleanor Ivey, of McBean, G. attend the funeral of Ivey.

Mr. Willie Lee Wright has gone to Atlanta to take a course in pharmacy.

Mrs. David Moorer of Columbia, has been the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Kenney.

Mrs. Horace Wright has returned to Georgetown after a visit to her sisters, the Misses Sawyer.

Mrs. Walter Hendrix and Miss Floride Hendrix of Leesville were visitors here during the week.

Mrs. Sallie Stanfield and her son, Mr. John E. Stanfield of Columbia have been visiting in the home of the former's brother, Mr. J. M. Turner.

Misses Lizzie Kate Anderson and Rachael Simmons were visitors in Augusta the first of the week.

Messrs. Raymond and Norman Siftly of Orangeburg have been visiting relatives.

Mrs. Harriet Kenney celebrated her eighty first birthday a few days ago, and a very pleasant dinner party was arranged for her. Her sister, Mrs. Lou Carter of Aiken, was with her, which was an added pleasure.

Mrs. White did many things to make the day a happy one for her aunt and a delicious birthday dinner was served.

Miss Ella Mobley of Columbia is expected soon for a visit to her sister, Miss Lillian Mobley.

Mrs. J. L. Walker and Miss Zena Payne attended the State D. A. R. Conference held Thursday and Friday in Columbia at the Jefferson.

Miss Payne was the alternate of the regent, Mrs. W. F. Scott, and Mrs. Walker was the delegate.

Prof. W. F. Scott spent a part of last week in the lower part of the state on a hunt. He has a farm located there on which he hunted.

Mr. Jim Bledsoe and family of Fruit Hill have moved here.

Mr. Charlie Crouch of Trenton is spending some time here with relatives.

Mr. Furman Mobley was here recently, the gue of his brother, Mr. Edwin Mobley. It had been a year or more since he was here.

Miss Geraldine Kammer of Blackville has been visiting in the home of her uncle, Mr. J. N. Lott.

Rev. W. S. Brooke attended the State Baptist Ministers' Convention held in Columbia last week.

Miss Annie Crouch, who came home about two weeks ago from North Augusta, where she is teaching.

Mr. Pruitt...

section was buried here last Tuesday, his pastor, Rev. A. C. Baker of Philippi Baptist church conducting the services. Mr. Pruitt was a christian gentleman and was active in all that pertained to good for the community, and will be greatly missed. He leaves a wife and two daughters and a large circle of relatives to mourn him.

The little son of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Padgett of Augusta, died at their home on last Tuesday, and the remains were brought here on the mid-day train, and later, the interment was made at the Mt. of Olives cemetery, the services being conducted by Rev. W. S. Brooke.

Wounded Men of the Thirtieth Return.

The Greenville Piedmont of Monday states that a Hospital Train passed through Greenville Sunday en route to Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., where they will be placed in the Base Hospital until they are sufficiently recovered to return to civil life. The troop train contained eight cars and the number of wounded soldiers was approximately four hundred. All of them were said to be members of the Thirtieth Division. This was the last contingent of wounded of the Thirtieth Division, according to Major Hathaway who was with the 117th Infantry when that outfit was at Camp Sevier.

Mourning Brassards.

The families of those who have lost their loved ones in the War have been provided by the Red Cross with brassards containing a gold star for each member of their family who gave up his life in the service of their country. These are given to the parents, and the wife of the soldiers. A number of these have already been delivered. If there are those in this county who have not received them, apply to Miss Sarah Collett who will secure them for you.

Miss Florence Mims Writes of Her School in Boston.

Boston, Mass.
January 16, 1919.

Dear Advertiser:

Down on the lower Fenway, a park in Boston, is situated a school named for the great Leland Powers. I am at this school. One of the other students and I were discussing the other day before I came, I saw the words—"Beauty, Truth, Power." I did not know then exactly what was meant by them. They do not remain on the outside however, but find their way into the truthful, beautiful and forceful presentation of our art of the spoken word. Yet more than that, they show themselves in the minds, the hearts and the actions of the faculty.

I came to the school to learn what I love, expression. I hope I shall remain for even a bigger and better reason—to learn to interpret the best that there is in life, from good literature to anyone I may read to.

There is such a spirit of good will and good fellowship that the new student feels at home and the old student feels like the member of a big family.

The building is indicative of lofty thought with its pictures and statuary. There is room enough and love enough for all, and what we want is time enough—a lifetime, in which to appreciate our school. Three cheers for the Leland Powers School!

Florence Mims.

To the Dyspeptic.

Would you not like to feel that your stomach troubles are over, that you can eat any kind of food that you crave? Consider then the fact that Chamberlain's Tablets have cured others—why not you. There are many who have been restored to health by taking these tablets and can now eat any kind of food that they crave.

Uncensored.

"I can not tell you where I am," wrote a British soldier to his family. "I am not allowed to say. But I venture to state that I am not where I was, but where I was before I left to go where I have just come from."—The Argonaut.

A Faithful Army.

May the Lord bless the faithful mail carriers! They brighten many a home these cold, dreary days by carrying to their very thresholds, every morning, something new and fresh to read. It may rain, hail, sleet and snow, but in the splash of mud and ice, this army of humanity-blessers never fail nor falter. And whatever

TRENTON NEWS.

Many Delegates Attend Asparagus Growers' Association. Influenza in Full Force. D. A. R. Meeting.

The town of Trenton, which is little more than a collection of miniature farms, with the residences of men who own larger, outlying farms is fast getting into the bustle of the farming interests.

The asparagus growers of this section are looking to their interests, and a large delegation attended the annual meeting of the South Carolina Asparagus Grower's Association that met at Williston on Monday of last week. Those going from here were: Messrs. B. J. Day, A. H. Day, D. R. Day, J. M. Vann, B. R. Tillman, L. C. Eidson, T. P. Salter, F. P. Salter, H. D. Salter, P. C. Black, J. F. Black, J. H. Courtney, J. M. Swearingen, I. A. Webb, Mrs. L. C. Eidson and Miss Ruth Salter. That some ladies should have gone was quite appropriate as the ladies of Trenton have, from the beginning, taken keen interest and an active part in the profitable work of asparagus growing.

With the exception of the above, little out of the ordinary was going on in our town the first part of week excepting sickness. Many cases of "flu" developed, but these, I suppose should be called the ordinary events. Some of those to "pass under the rod" were Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Moss, Messrs. Wallace and George Wise, Henry Wise and his daughter, Miss Flossie; Miss Lola Hunter, Mr. I. A. Webb and his daughter, Miss Cornelia Webb, and no doubt, of whom your correspondent has heard.

That highly esteemed lady, Mrs. Manget, has been a weary sufferer for weeks from that painful disease known as "shingles." She shows as yet, no sign of improvement.

On last Friday afternoon, the Missionary Society of the Methodist church held its regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. W. W. Miller.

The Baptist ladies, though ordinarily fond of water, did not prove it on this particular afternoon. The el-
