Mr. Madison B. Tucker and Miss Clio Perry Married in Thomson, Ga.

Of great interest to a large number of Edgefield friends was the wedding on last Thursday evening of Mr. Madison B. Tucker and Miss Clio Perry of Thomson, Georgia.

The First Baptist church of that place was tastefully decorated with palms and ferns with large clusters of pink and white hydrangeas around the altar and tall candelabra-throwing a soft light from the numerous candles on the beautiful scene.

Preceding the ceremony a lovely musical programme was rendered by Miss Sarah Gardiner, violinist, cousin of the bride, and Mr. Charlie Curtis and Mrs. B. F. Riley, who sang several appropriate selections.

As the notes of Lohengrin's Wedding March were sounded by the organist, Mrs. E. C. Hawes, the bridal party entered and were grouped in an artistic manner around the chancel. The groomsmen were Mr. J. W. Tucker, LaGrange, Mr. Crosland, of Bennettsville, S. C. and Mr. Boyd Baston. The maid of honor, Miss Kate Perry wore turquoise blue tulle and her flowers were Killarney roses, showered with sweet peas. The bridesmaids in dainty pink tulle dresses carried bouquets of pink gladioli and roses and were Miss rick. Elsie Tucker of Conyers, Miss Rosa Gardiner and Miss Frances Scott. The two little flower girls, Martha West and Eleanor Binns wore lovely pink organdie dresses and scattered white flowers as they preceded the bride who entered with her brother, Mr. Dempsey Binns of Washington. She was met at the altar by the bridegroom attended by his best man, Mr. Mercer Walker of Conyers, the Rev. T. Howard performing the cer-

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents where a large number of friends gathered. A salad course and ice cream and cake were served. In the living room a beautiful array of presents was shown and of especial interest were tokens from many of the members of the Sunday school class and Junior B. Y. P. Mrs. Tucker is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Perry, is an accomplished musician and is greatly beloved by her many friends who expressed much regret in giving her up as she leaves for her Carolina home.

For several years she has taught in the Thomson High School and has taken an active interest in the work of her church as a Sunday school teacher and member of the choir.

Mr. Tucker is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Tucker of Conyers and since his return from France has held a responsible position with the Addison Mills. He has made many friends t since adopting Edgefield as his home, where he is held in high esteem. Recently he was elected a deacon of the Baptist church. A most cordial welcome awaits the happy couple on their return from their wedding trip to Washington and New York. For the summer months they will be at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Cantelou until the completion of an attractive bungalow which they will occupy in the fall. The Edgefield party who motored over the splendid Georgia roads to Thomson and enjoyed the gracious hospitality of its people were Messrs. T. A. Hightower, E. J. Norris, J. O. N. Tillman.

Additional courses will be offered in special classes and the curriculum will be broadened and enriched with studies in missions, church history and doctrines, modern application of the social teachings of the Bible, and other branches of study which will make work of the school unusually attractive. These courses of study are being planned in detail and will be introduced when the remodelled building makes this work practicable. It is hoped that it will be possible to inaugurate these new courses in the fall.—Augusta Chronicle.

TEACHING THRIFT TO THE CHILDREN.

THE EDGEFIELD ADVERISER

The parents and teachers of every child wish him to have the benefit of greater advantages than they have had. That is one of the reasons why parents often make great personal sacrifices to educate their children school will remain at the head, being for mo ; congenial work than they themselves have enjoyed and interest supervision as before. Mr Hardy will in his pupils in one of the few compensations for the trials and insufficient financial returns of a teacher's

> To make the principles of thrift effective to the child, they must be put into constant practice both at home and in school and must have a direct connection with his daily ilfe.

> Every educator realizes the tremendous value of teaching thrift and industry to little children both for their immediate benefit and in anticipation of their future success. Parents who have not had a training in personal economy are anxious to have their children realize that the practice of thrift and an appreciation for the value of money are essential to success and self respect. Thrift principles enter into every relationship and problem of daily life.

Training in economy is equally necessary for the child of parents in poor or moderate circumstances and for those who are rich. In our complex American life it is possible that the poor child of today may be the rich man of tomorrow, and that the child born with a silver spoon in his mouth may sometime be thrown upon his own resources.

It is never too early in a child's training to begin the teaching and practice of thrift. Tales of the habits of animals and insects furnish many examples of this quality. The simple story of the red squirrel will interest any child. Tell him that before cold weather begins the red squirrel builds a comfortable and durable home, that during the summer and fall he gathers nuts and acorns to provide food for the winter time when snow covers the ground. Contrast the habits of the spendthrift rabbit, who saves nothing and who consequently suffers from hunger.

The thrift and enterprise of the bee and the ant may be contrasted with the laziness of the grasshopper and the butterfly. The Book of Proverbs and Aesop's Fables contain many a story which shows the stupidity of extravagance and laziness.

Thrift may also be taught by the careful use of materials, in the school room by economy in handling chalk, clay, paper and other articles, and in the home by careful use of furniture and the elimination of waste in household necessities such as fuel and light.

In every walk through the streets to and from school, material for consideration presents itself. The example of the fire department, a source of interest to every child, may Four are in the race for railroad be used to show how loss of life and property is prevented. The public Lexington, D. L. Smith of Walter- cans for rubbish are another public economy, for by their use we decrease the duties of the street-sweep-

The means of practicing the principles of thrift are numerous. Children may be encouraged to buy the govenment Thrift Stamps issued by Other entrants than the incumbent the United States Treasury, or to being: George W. Warren of Hamp- have accounts in Postal or Savings ton, W. C. Irby of Laurens and W. P. Banks. Through these channels the systematic saving of money may be brought home to the child in an at-Congressman Byrnes of the second tractive and profitable way, and the district, Congressman Stevenson of sums so saved conserved and invested. Americans have been called a nation of economic illiterates. They are spendthrifts by habit. It may not be possible to eradicate the vice of extravagance in this present generation but it can be stamped out of the boys and girls of the future by continued instruction.

The influence of economy is farreaching, and instruction in thrift is a personal, a municipal, and a patriotic duty which both parents and teachers owe to children, the community and the country.
