Tribute to Mr. Whitfield Glauzier.

Whitfield Glauzier was born in Edgefield District July 17, 1825, and died Aug. 5, 1920. His parents were John and Mary Glauzier. The names of his brothers and sisters as given by himself to this writer, were Margret, Jacob, John, Patsy, Betsy, Mahaly, William, and Asbury.

Though his education was limited he had a good mind and a good memory. He was an honest, industrious, Christian man, had the confidence of all who knew him, and died in peace with God and men. He wrote out the scripture text that he wanted used at his funeral, and selected the hymns he wanted sung. The text he selected were Psalm, 116:15, and 2 Timothy, 4:7 and 8 verses. The hymns were "Jesus-Lover of My Soul," "What a Friend we have in Jesus," and "Asleep in Jesus." Such a man is worthy of a place in our thought and memory.

Child Cured of Bowel Trouble.

A child of Floyd Osborn, Notary Public of Dungannon, Va. was taken with bowel trouble. Mr. Osborn gave it Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy and it quickly recovered. In speaking of this remedy he says "It is the best I ever used."

"BACK TO GOD'S COUNTRY"

From the Story "Wapi the Walrus," by James Oliver Curwood. Sixteen Varieties of Wild Animals.

NEVER A FILM LIKE THIS.

The story is taken from the novel by James Oliver Curwood "Wapi the Walrus," and included in the scenes are the most thrilling episodes that have ever been featured. Nell Shipman, the famous star, in company with a large cast, for months lived and traversed the barren wastes of ice and snow that surround the North Pole, and induced the great Dane Wapi to love her to the extent of saving her life, despite his fierceness and atavistic cruel tendencies.

In the picture are shown bears who fight one of the most wonderful boxing matches that ever thrilled great crowds, whose prowess caused them to be named Dempsey and Willard Cubby, and the mountain lion, the lynx, and in fact sixteen different species of wild animals, all taken in their native haunts, where man and beast battle for life in the ice fields and snow wastes of the Arctic.

One cannot commence to elucidate the dangers and patience that marked each step in the picturization of this film, but the fact the Nell Shipman was awarded the Carnegie Medal for saving lives three times during its course, will give an idea of the actual terrors that faced them.

The excitement that thrills, the comedy that relieves, the nature beauty that causes wonder, the dark and gray and snowy wastes where the Eskimo lives, and the fierceness of hunger-driven animals are all shown in this wonderful picture. As an extraordinary film of unusual beauty, the critics have been unstinted in their praise. When Nell, the star, places her arms round the savage Dane, who is tearing to death two traders, one's hair rises on end with the sheer courage of the girl. In fact the elements that go to make up this strong drama were so unique and terrifying that Ernest Shipman, the man responsible for the picture, swore an affidavit which reads as follows:

County of New York,
State of New York.

Personally before me, a notary public in and for the above state and county, appeared Ernest Shipman, who upon being duly sworn deposes and says, to-wit, that all statements, comments, facts and notices, that he may publish or cause to be published at any time or from time to time, in connection with the moving picture entitled "Back to God's Country," by James Oliver Curwood, and produced by the Curwood-Carver Company, and to be released by the First National Exhibitors' Circuit, Inc., are in every form, shape and manner the absolute, authentic and positive statements, comments facts and notices and are in no form, shape and manner exaggerated or overdrawn.

(Signed) Ernest Shipman.
Sworn and subscribed before me this 26th day of August, 1919.
