THE SECOND DEATH BLOW

On November 3rd we dealt the first death blow to high prices in a ten-day sale starting on that date

On December 14th We Dealt the Second Death Blow to "Old Man High Price" in putting on another sale more sweeping than the first one Ending the 24th of December

We positively want the public to know that our first sale was a splendid success, but due to the warm weather during the first sale heavy ready-towear was not in demand; then again as cotton is still being sold at a loss by those who have to sell in order to buy their winter needs, and if they are not helped out in buying their winter clothing they will not have much to buy Christmas goods with. Now, we are in the same boat, and when the farmers lose we lose in other words we serve the public. We are doing all in our power to help the people enjoy a merry Christmas by saving them on their dry goods, in order that they will have money to spend on other things.

Please bear in mind that we are not alarmed at the present depression of things in general, for we realize there are plenty of food supplies in the country that we did not have at other times.
