What Others Say of Metropolitan Glee Club.

The Glee Club consisted of four musicians; both their vocal and instrumental selections were of a high class and exceptionally well rendered. They pleased their audience at all times, whether in solo, readings, quartet or with musical instruments. Their work with the Swiss Bells is worthy of very favorable comment, while their trombone quartet was something out of the ordinary.—Lisbon (N. D.) Gazette.

The Metropolitan Glee Club gave an excellent concert, which was much enjoyed by the audience. They gave a clean, interesting and enjoyable entertainment which delighted old and young. Their quartet work is very good. In their work with the Swiss Bells, and in handling the slide trombones, these four young men are unexcelled.—Brunswick (Maryland) Times.

The best entertainment we have ever had was given by your company last evening. Your program was clean wholesome and uplifting, and every number was presented with skill and ability. The tremendous applause after the presentation of each number on the program, certainly indicated to you and your colleagues the appreciation of the audience, and I am sure that they would all come again to hear you.—Secretary Philadelphia Y. M. C. A.

THE CORNER STORE

Smoke Houses and Corn Crib Need Attention.

Richmond, Va., Feb. 11.—Southern farmers must pay more attention to "corn cribs and smoke houses" and reduce overproduction of cotton and tobacco this year. Gov. W. P. G. Harding of the federal reserve board, speaking before probably the largest and most brilliant financial gathering which has met in Richmond in years, declared in an address tonight in the Commonwealth club, which fairly radiated with optimism as to the future.

Governor Harding, who is here as the guest of John Skelton Williams, comptroller of the currency, told a gathering which represented every financial institution in the city and included with two exceptions, the federal reserve board, that the peak of inflation was past and that there was no reason to look to the future with any other view than optimism.

"I have great faith in the American people when they assert themselves," Governor Harding declared, after telling his audience that the "mental intoxication which the public has been suffering is wearing off." Price fluctuations must be stabilized, declared the speaker, and this is one of the many problems which still face the bankers of the country.

He told the bankers that each should make up his mind that it was his individual business to help bring conditions back to normal. He advised all to pull together and restore the equilibrium of the country.

At present a "buyers' market" exists, Governor Harding told his audience, the reverse of what has existed in the past few months. He told the bankers what the policy of the federal reserve has been and took issue with those who have criticised the recent deflations of currency.
