

Citadel Experts to Represent State at the Camp Perry Matches.

South Carolina will be represented at the annual National Matches for 1921 at Camp Perry, Ohio, by fourteen men from the Citadel to contend for rifle and pistol marksmanship honors against the picked teams of all other states in the union, the Army, the Navy, the Marine Corps, the National Guard, the R. O. T. C. and the rest of the best performers in small arms firing in the whole country.

The M. C. S. C. team has been selected from among all the members of the Military Colleges and rifle organizations of the state, as the most expert shooters, to uphold South Carolina's honor at the event of the year in small arms firing proficiency.

Will Name Team.

The governor of the state, through his military representative, Brig. Gen. W. W. Moore, the Adjutant General of the state, will commission the team with the authority to go to Camp Perry, Ohio, in August, to win for the state the highest possible position in rifle and pistol efficiency against the crack shots of the United States and its territorial possessions.

The choice of fourteen men who compose the team, has been made after exhaustive tests carried out at the local rifle range at Mt. Pleasant during the last three months. From over three hundred men firing, twenty remained by sheer excellence in marksmanship scores, to furnish the first team of a captain, a coach, ten firing members and two alternates. Also a second team of substitutes, in case of unavoidable absence of any members of the first fourteen. The men have all signed papers stating that they will be present as chosen, barring accidents of serious troubles.

The fourteen men going to Camp Perry to compete in the national matches will probably have had the most thorough schooling of any team that was ever sent from this state. The men have qualified for their positions on the team by their superior knowledge of small arms, both the service rifle and the service forty-five army automatic pistol, and by their ability to hit the bulls-eye at any range and keep on hitting it. In keeping with their other ability, finer specimens of physical manhood would be hard to find.

To qualify in the rifle game as shot at Camp Perry during the famous national matches needs all of the above virtues and then a few more.

In qualifying these men as shooters Col. Stogsdall and his most capable staff of fellow officers who direct the Citadel's course of action put the men through the new regular army qualification course of firing during the encampment recently held at the rifle range at Mt. Pleasant, thereby bringing to the front ranks the expert riflemen, sharpshooters and marksmen which the whole command contains.

Experts on Team.

The experts compose the last twenty firers who have faithfully reported at the range every week since the encampment, and have received the finer instructions which a national match team must know.

Under the guidance of Cadet Capt. Edwin C. Perry and Coach M. B. Paine, and with the help of the former national match team members from last year's Citadel team, the men were taken through the difficulties of all ranges, two hundred, three hundred, five hundred, six hundred and one thousand yards, rapid fire, slow fire, and the pistol course of twenty-five yards.

The scores made and the work done on all the ranges were very gratifying and the men improved rapidly up to the last stages of the game, the two hundred yard standing off hand and the one thousand yard range, the "ultima thule" of the riflemen's exertions for supremacy.

The two hundred offhand standing position fire with the service rifle is particularly difficult and much knack, patience and practice is required to fire the rifle at the proper instant when the position of the sights is such as will give bulls-eyes.

Special Mention.

In this qualification especial mention is made of Cadets Asbill, Byrd, James, Everts, Hutchins. Scores of 46 out of fifty were made by some of these and the average of all of the team was well over forty out of fifty. The winning score of the last national matches was 48 out of 50.

The work of these same men at the one thousand yard range was even better as good number of 49's out of 50 and many 48's, 46's and 45's denote to a knowing rifleman that such scores with ordinary service ammunition, is a sure sign that there is a sure enough shooter back of the rifle.

It takes a real rifleman, an extra fine starguaged rifle and special ammunition to better these scores, and these men going to Camp Perry will have the latter two, so their records will be heard about. The making of the winning scores contains many angles and combinations, not the least of which is the men who attend to the targets and see to it that each shooter gets good service and correct marking of just what he shoots. and right here may be mentioned the very loyal, faithful and commendable work of the 22 or more men who pulled the targets and signalled the hits to the men behind the guns, during the team try out at Mt. Pleasant. These 22 men deserve credit and thanks for the way they stuck to their work to the last shot on the last day, and through the heat of a summer sun, and the wet of the summer showers, they raised and lowered heavy iron frames with enormous thousand yard targets and strained their eyes and nerves to show accurately to each shooter where the elusive shot hole was. Without their good work the best shooters in the world would have had their efforts set at naught. To the Citadel's success at the national matches at 1921 will be a word of thanks to the boys in the butts for faithfully helping achieve it.

The Team.

When the last shot was fired and the records all in on May 28th, and the evidence had all been carefully weighed by a thinking committee the team resulted as follows:

Major LeTellier, in command, M. B. Paine, national match instructor as coach, Cadets Edwin C. Perry, captain, alternate; Clarence H. Hutchins, assistant captain; David S. Asbill, Thos. W. Williamson, Norman F. Everts, B. R. Fuller, Jr., Ralph M. Byrd, Hugh M. James, Quincy Gasque, John L. Gramling, Whitfield W. Watson, Carl F. Ende, Francis P. Mood, Abe Barnett, William H. Barnwell, James B. Edgerton, Hartford P. Gougaware, Cadets Pegues and Peterson.

Fourteen of the above men will go to Camp Perry, Ohio, from August 27th to September 26, 1921, to participate in all matches to which they are eligible. This team with others of the Citadel and resident members of the N. R. A. have been enrolled as a rifle club affiliated with the National Rifle Association of America.

The Citadel has this year succeeded in winning the state rifle team match for the fourth time, and with the wonderful material in the present team under careful guidance and instruction should make the highest scores ever made by this state in a national match.

M. B. Paine is Coach.

The team in its local range practice has had the help of Mr. M. B. Paine as coach he having been rated by the war department as a national match instructor in small arms firing. Mr. Paine has participated in national match work before and was personally suggested to the Citadel by Brig. Gen. W. W. Moore, the vice-president of the National Rifle Association of America, and on the board of directors of the national matches.

Mr. Paine expects to go with the team and be with them through all their work in shooting the coming national matches.

The management of the team as a whole by Major Le Tellier will assure a co-operation of effort in striving for a high standard of efficiency in every respect in keeping with the renowned reputation the military college of South Carolina has for the military standing of its men.—Charleston American.

Daniels Says Harvey Has Slandered America.

Anderson, S. C., June 3.—"Not in the history of diplomatic relations has any man so slandered the American nation and people as the present ambassador to the court of St. James, when he recently said in London that America entered the war not to save bleeding Europe and the world for democracy, but to save her own interests," declared former Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels, in addressing young women graduates of Anderson College commencement exercises last night.

"It is a slander aimed at every American mother who sacrificed and worked that her son might go to the front to fight the foes of democracy, freedom and equity among nations of the earth," he continued, "and my heart is glad to see the American press, the people and the party of this man are not behind this scandalous statement."

"Our boys in colleges are weighing the constructive idealism of Woodrow Wilson and measuring it with President Harding's opposition to the theories and practical tasks for practical America," Mr. Daniels asserted.

"Failure of the United States to ratify the peace treaty is responsible for the anxiety in America today, depressed conditions and the low price of cotton," he said.

NOT THE GIRL OF HIS HEART

For a Moment Lonely Youth Had Hopes, but Alas! Joy Was Not for Him.

It is not good that a man should live without a woman in his heart. And on that particular spring day—one of blue and gold—I bore a strangely sorrowful heart because of my utter loneliness. I sat at my window, and stared out without seeing anything.

There was no one in the house but the landlady, myself and the landlady's daughter—a beautiful, brief thing, whom I called the "Pongee Princess" by reason of her blonde hair, an acquisition precipitated through a reckless use of peroxide.

She was calm, pretty and silent. The more I thought of her, the more she intrigued my fancy. I remembered she was downstairs at this very minute rearranging the pillows on the davenport that seemed to have spent a sleepless night. I thought to myself: "Ah! if she were only here by my side that she might pass her cool, white hands over my eyes, my depression would be lifted as if by magic."

I was interrupted by a timid knock on the door. I was startled for a moment. It was foolish to think that—and yet—

I called eagerly: "Come in." It was the landlady with my waste-paper basket.—Iowa Frivol.

NOT HARD TO WIN SUCCESS

Mistake to Imagine It Calls for Extraordinary Skill and Ceaseless Endeavor.

There is a glamor about success and the men who have succeeded, but both also have a dark side, which is too often emphasized. It has been our observation that from their elders the young men and women of today have received the impression that success is difficult to attain and comes only as the result of extraordinary skill and ceaseless endeavor. Hence the cry: "The world is against me!" or the pitiful wail: "I wish I could do something big, but I can't."

As a matter of fact this is an easy world to get along in. All that is required of any one is a willingness to work and to learn. To be honest, to be cheerful, to be patient in adversity and kind to the troubled; to be fair with your neighbors and true to yourself are not difficult tasks, yet these are the guide posts to happiness and success.

Most of our leading men and women are ordinary people who have done all these things well and have borne their responsibilities to the best of their ability.—Detroit Free Press.

ALL HE HAD IN HIS HAND

Pat Certainly Held No Weapon of Offense, but It Was Deadly for His Case.

In the courthouse an Irishman stood charged with stealing a watch from a fellow citizen. He stoutly denied the accusation, and brought a countercharge against the accuser for assault and battery committed with a frying pan.

The judge was inclined to take a common-sense view of the matter, and regarding the prisoner said:

"Why did you allow the prosecutor, who is a much smaller man than yourself, to assault you without resistance? Had you nothing in your hand to defend yourself?"

"Bedad, yer honor," said Pat, "I had his watch, but what was that against his frying pan?"—London Ideas.

Balky Pegasus.

An attendant, perspiring freely from sundry trips to the flying field to carry gas and oil for the planes, had reached the end of his patience. Each trip he had been delayed by inquisitive persons who bombarded him with foolish questions, Nos. 1-1,000, inclusive. Finally an old lady stopped him:

"Young man," she said, "what do you do when a machine gets up in the air and runs out of gasoline?"

"Confidentially, ma'am," he replied, "that's just what's happened now. There's a couple of them stalled up there and we've got to take gas up in the emergency balloon to take them down."—American Legion Weekly.

Transgression.

The youthful Softleigh seemed so depressed that his friend Moreleigh was moved to ask the reason.

"Alice has broken our engagement," said he of the downcast look.

"Sorry to hear that," said the friend. "Why did she break it?"

"Because I stole a kiss."

"What! A fiancée object to her fellow stealing a kiss from her!"

"The trouble was," Softleigh explained, "I didn't steal it from her."

Information Bureau.

A man sent his bumptious son to college and in a month or so wrote inquiring how he was getting along in the grind of knowledge. He got this characteristic reply:

"Fine. Write often and ask me anything that puzzles you."—Everybody's Magazine.

Spellbound.

"Why don't you go on writing my speech?" said the orator.

"I am spellbound," replied his typist.

"Has my eloquence such an effect?"

"Yes, sir. I never worked for a man who used so many words I can't spell."—Boston Transcript.
