

In Far Away China.

By A Wayfarer.

As you have long since heard, the first mayor of Canton City, with its two million or more inhabitants—the largest city on the continent of Asia—is a clean, sensible, progressive, attractive Christian Chinese gentleman, a graduate of one of the big American universities, and with several years of post-graduate work to his credit. Like his mother, he and his wife are members of the Macao Baptist church.

Mayor Sun and his wife live in the part of Canton City known as Tung Shan meaning "East Hill." Here at Tung Shan, a great and growing suburb has grown up around our Baptist compound (campus). We American Southern Baptist missionaries were the first to settle here, having moved from our cramped quarters further in the city, so that our work could expand. And how it has expanded! With rickshas, and now even automobiles, running past our doors, and on through the crowded and more crowded thoroughfares of the metropolis. Tung Shan that a dozen years ago was well outside of the city, is now a most important part of the city's life; and right in the center of things are our Baptist theological seminary, boys' and girls' academies and feeders of lower grade down to kindergarten and Bible and training schools, schools for the blind, and orphanage, with about fifteen hundred students—a busy Baptist campus. Then right here at Tung Shan are the Baptist hospital for these two Southern provinces (states) and the China Baptist Publication Society for all China. Here millions of pages of Christian literature in the Chinese language are printed every month, from the New Testament down to the simplest sheet tracts. Here, from all over South China, come our Baptist brethren and sisters and their sons and daughters to be trained for kingdom work and, in increasing numbers, come the sick for healing.

Here at Tung Shan meet almost every year the Baptist Association of South China, and an Association within that, of the Baptists of a large territory. Here meets annually the Woman's Missionary Union of South China, and also our Bible Women's Conference. Here, three times a year we hold our preachers' institute. The commencements of the different schools take up more than a week at the end of every spring term. Oh, this is a busy place, and it is always a busy time.

Here at Tung Shan live our Baptist mayor and his wife. I could throw a stone from our yard into his—but I never do! Instead of that, he sends me regularly the New York Independent and other American publications of the best type, and I always send him in return the Baptist Courier or the Christian Index or some other religious periodical or book. He finished reading the copy of Trumbull's "Anthony Comstock" (which my wife gave me for a Christmas present) a few days before his city government issued the first warning I have ever seen in a Chinese newspaper against obscene pictures and printed matter. He has just finished reading also a book on Christianity and Reform, given me by our erstwhile mayor of Charleston, S. C., Maj. T. T. Hyde—the mayor of Canton, China, reading a book from the mayor of Charleston, S. C.—both Baptists.

At the South Carolina State Convention in Bennettsville, I had the pleasure of introducing a brilliant young Chinese gentleman, born and educated in New York, whom I had helped to ordain to the Baptist ministry in Canton. As I mentioned in a letter some time ago, our friend, Rev. Frank W. Lee, is pastor of a church here in the city, president of our boys' academy, editor of a daily newspaper that stands for the right, and Commissioner for Foreign Affairs of this province (state) of thirty million people! I could throw a stone from our yard into his yard until he bought his new house just beyond the mayor's, but instead he and I also exchange papers every day, and last night I attended, in his home a meeting of our Tung Shan town council, which consists of seven members, elected annually by the citizens. One of the members is usually a member of our mission—it happens to be this wayfarer just now—and the other six are all Chinese Baptists, all ordained preachers or officers in our hospital or our boys' academy, or active in some form of our work here. Was there ever such an opportunity for missionaries of the cross, foreign and native?

What would he have thought, in 1807, when Robert Morrison, the first Protestant missionary to China landed in Canton? What would he have thought when I. J. Roberts, ordained in my home church in Edgefield, S. C., came as the first Baptist missionary to Canton, in 1844? What would Dr. R. H. Graves have thought, and Dr. Simmons, and Dr. Greene, who have all died within the past ten years?

Is there anything that we here and you there should not be willing to do to make all Canton and all China what we hope Tung Shan is destined soon to be?—not only a center of Christian life and light, but wholly Christs.—Baptist Courier.

Johnston Lady Receives Distinguished Honor.

Mrs. Andrena Williams of Johnston, S. C., has been selected from about 10,000 students of the Woman's Institute of Domestic Arts and Sciences in ten southeastern States to attend as a guest of honor the dedication of the Institute's new million dollar building in Scranton, Pa., on September 29. She is one of ten chosen from the Institute's 125,070 students in all parts of the world to receive this distinction.

The Woman's Institute, which teaches dressmaking, millinery and cookery by mail, is the largest woman's college in the world. It has a staff of 546 instructors and other employees and with its new building it covers 68,000 square feet of floor space.

Other guests of honor at the dedication will include Admiral Austin M. Knight, of the United States Navy; Governor Sproul of Pennsylvania; Miss Neysa McMein, the magazine artist who recently painted President Harding; Mrs. Sally James Farnham, the sculptor who made a bust of the President while Miss McMein was doing him on canvas; Dr. Thomas E. Finnegan, Pennsylvania State Superintendent of Public Education, and Miss Mary E. Sweeney, president of the American Home Economics Association and dean of the Department of Home Economics in Michigan Agricultural College.

Tired

"I was weak and run-down," relates Mrs. Eula Burnett, of Dalton, Ga. "I was thin and just felt tired, all the time. I didn't rest well. I wasn't ever hungry. I knew, by this, I needed a tonic, and as there is none better than—

CARDUI

The Woman's Tonic

... I began using Cardui," continues Mrs. Burnett. "After my first bottle, I slept better and ate better. I took four bottles. Now I'm well, feel just fine, eat and sleep, my skin is clear and I have gained and sure feel that Cardui is the best tonic ever made."

Thousands of other women have found Cardui just as Mrs. Burnett did. It should help you.

At all druggists.

Whenever You Need a General Tonic Take Grove's

The Old Standard Grove's Tasteless chill Tonic is equally valuable as a General Tonic because it contains the well known tonic properties of QUININE and IRON. It acts on the Liver, Drives out Malaria, Enriches the Blood and Builds up the Whole System. 50 cents.

Produce Both With Purina Chows

Why do Purina-fed hens lay more eggs right through the moult? It's because they get more protein and it takes lots of it for feathers and eggs. Feathers run as high as 90% protein. Whites of eggs are nearly all protein. Feed a balanced ration—

Enough Protein for Feathers and Eggs

Purina Chows keep the hens from robbing their flesh to get the materials they need. Get a shorter moult and more winter eggs. Ask about the Purina Guarantee—

More Eggs or Money Back

ONE BRAND— ONE QUALITY— One Size Package

All our skill, facilities, and lifelong knowledge of the finest tobaccos are concentrated on this one cigarette—CAMEL.

Into this ONE BRAND, we put the utmost quality. Nothing is too good for Camels. They are as good as it's possible to make a cigarette.

Camel QUALITY is always maintained at the same high, exclusive standard. You can always depend on the same mellow-mild refreshing smoothness—the taste and rich flavor of choicest tobaccos—and entire freedom from cigaretty aftertaste.

And remember this! Camels come in one size package only—20 cigarettes—just the right size to make the greatest saving in production and packing. This saving goes straight into Camel Quality. That's one reason why you can get Camel Quality at so moderate a price.

Here's another. We put no useless frills on the Camel package. No "extra wrappers!" Nothing just for show!

Such things do not improve the smoke any more than premiums or coupons. And their added cost must go onto the price or come out of the quality.

One thing, and only one, is responsible for Camels great and growing popularity—that is CAMEL QUALITY.
