

TILLMAN IS THE MAN.
Ben Tillman's side is winning. Deny it if you can. It was lost from the beginning. For Tillman is the man.
Who are these men that howl and snarl? Defeat him if you can. We'll teach you as you should be taught. That Tillman is the man.
Now who would vote for Col. Earle? See him parade the stand. He thinks that he represents the world. Ben Tillman is the man.
And Bratton with his nose a flame. Think he some chance may stand. We'll show him that he'll miss his game. For Tillman is the man.
And so we'll vote for Capt. Ben. And he'll in office land. And show them all that we are men. And Tillman is the man.
Then shout upon the passing breeze. Proclaim through all the land. We'll put in office whom we please. For Tillman is the man.

Tillman and His Movement.

A Conservative Talk About the Great Reformer.
Col. Aldrich was in Charleston one day recently. He was called on by a World reporter and the following is what Col. Aldrich said to the World man.
"Four-fifths of our people," said Col. Aldrich, "are for Tillman."
"Is there likely to be any change in this condition between now and the election?"
"Yes."
"What?"
"The other fifth will be for him then."
"To what do you attribute the strong support the Tillman movement is receiving throughout the State?"
"There is a tide in the affairs of men which, taken at the flood, leads on to fortune. There has been a wave of popular discontent with our party methods gathering in the State for years. Capt. Tillman has done a great deal to work it up, and at the opportune moment he leaped upon its crest, and it is bearing him into the gubernatorial office."
"Then do you not think it is dissatisfaction with our State government or officials that inspires this support of Tillman?"
"Certainly not. We have had since 1876 a clean, economical government, and our officers have been filled by good men—I may say our best men—and there is no ground for discontent on that score; but our methods have been faulty, and it is against these that dissatisfaction has been growing for years, and Tillman offering the occasion, the people are responding with earnestness and enthusiasm to secure a change. After all that may be said, the underlying principle which controls the actions of our people is a love of liberty, and they are not going to submit to the despotism of a party any more than they will to the despotism of a government, any longer than they can help it. For years past our conditions have been decided in Columbia. I do not mean by the State officers alone, or by any ring—there is no ring that I know of—but by public men from all parts of the State, who meet there periodically, and who shake up and give direction to events, under our eyes."
"What will be the result of it all?"
"The immediate result will be the election of Capt. Tillman. That is a matter of small import. Men like him, while bold and aggressive in the fight for power, are proverbially conservative once they have gained it. He will administer the duties of the office as they are prescribed by law; no more, no less.
"There has been one marked good effect already; the people are more cheerful; they are working more hopefully; their farms and crops are in better condition than for years past, and generally life has taken the place of stagnation. But the ultimate result will be of the greatest good to the State. Hereafter, when men aspire to office they won't go to Columbia to make interest for themselves by the employment of the wiles and arts of the machine politicians, but they will go to the people, where the broad general principles of the statesman tell on the longer run. Our young men will be taught to cultivate these, and the people themselves will be elevated and educated. Look at Georgia, where the people themselves unsided by cliques and caucuses and conventions, have always elected their officials, Governors, Presidential Electors, Congressmen and State officers after thorough canvasses under the leadership of great men. The ordinary farmer in that State, at a cross road store, can tell you more about the political history of that country, and understands the theory of the Constitution, and the government under it, better than half the lawyers in South Carolina, and under the paralyzing influence of our system over here, hundreds of Crawford and Berrien, Toombses, Cobbs, Stegans, Herschels, Johnsons and Ben Hills have been born, lived and died without knowing it themselves."
"You think, then, that hereafter all candidates will have to get down to personal electioneering for the offices they aspire to?"
"I do not think it much of a descent to get on the plane of the sovereign people. Some men elevate themselves upon an imaginary pedestal and pretend to look down upon the great body of their fellowmen. But they have always appeared very silly to sensible people. If you mean that hereafter candidates will have to go out among the people and address public meetings, and visit the people in their homes, and present their views, and hear the views and opinions of the people on public questions, (which many of our so-called public men could do with much profit to themselves,) in order to secure public favor, that is exactly what I mean, and the man who questions the integrity of the people, or doubts that the people will do right when left a fair and unfettered opportunity to do so, is unfit to represent a free people, for he has no confidence in free institutions. That the people will do right is the keystone upon which the whole fabric of free government rests."

"What of Capt. Tillman's charges against the State government and officials?"
"Capt. Tillman is an untrained man, and of course he has made and will make mistakes. The most adept politicians and practiced statesmen make them. What wonder, then, that a man fresh from the farm should do likewise. But I have noticed that whenever he is convinced of his errors, he has the manliness to acknowledge them and make suitable reparation. He has made some very reckless charges; for instance, the one against Judge Izlar was shocking and painfully and totally unjustifiable. Senator Izlar took an oath to support the constitution; that means he was to support it as he construed it or understood it, and that his construction differs from Capt. Tillman's furnished ground for the charge of perjury is absurd. But, after all, how does that stand? Day after day, wherever you go, you hear men whose opportunities to know better have been equally as good as Capt. Tillman's, asserting the conduct of others who don't happen to please them, to the vilest and most criminal inducements. The only difference is that they do it in a sneaking, cowardly way, and Tillman does it openly and above board. Hundreds, yes thousands of the supporters of Tillman condemn these things as positively as his opponents do, but all the same, there he stands as the great champion of popular rights, and the people are going to receive him with open arms in his mission of bringing to their own, with all his imperfections."

School Trustees Exempt From Road Duty.

Judge Norton decided at the court this week that school trustees exempt from road duty. The exemption was granted because the road was not a public road, and was not a highway, and was not a road for the use of the public. The court held that the road was a private road, and that the trustees were not liable for its maintenance. This decision is a relief to many school trustees who have been burdened with the expense of road duty.

Charleston and Columbia's New Road.

Columbia Register.
As a matter of interest to our citizens, who are naturally interested in the new Columbia, Newberry and Laurens Railroad, place is given the following report of an interview with the Master of Transportation of the railroad which is to operate the new line:
"In an interview with a reporter of the Charleston News and Courier, Mr. Dunlap, Master of Transportation of the South Carolina Railway spoke as follows:
"This new line will be another good feeder of the South Carolina Railway, it will naturally be worked in the interests of Charleston. The cotton which has formerly gone to other points from the territory penetrated by the Columbia, Newberry and Laurens Railroad will most likely all come into Charleston. Then there are a great many saw mills being built along this line. At Irmo, a station on the line, there is at least a million feet of sawed lumber awaiting shipment. Besides, with the new facilities, if the local merchants make the proper effort, they ought to do a good business in this country. The South Carolina Railway will alter Monday run an accommodation freight and passenger train over the new road, and will increase the facilities as the business demands."
"One of Dr. J. H. McLean's Little Liver and Kidney Pills, taken at night before going to bed, will move the bowels; the effect will astonish you."
"This year the summer girl is so sweet for anything, except the summer man."
"Ladies, if you want your stoves to look as good as new, use Lustru Stove Polish, only 10 cents a box. And your kitchen tables, tin ware, etc., to look neat and clean, try the kitchen soap, at the Bazaar."
"It is estimated that about one-half of the cotton crop is raised by white labor. Before the war it is said that not more than 15 per cent. of the cotton was raised by white labor."
"Pimples, boils and other humors are liable to appear when the blood gets heated. The best remedy is Dr. J. H. McLean's Sarsaparilla."
"A syndicate, headed by Lord Wallace, has been organized in London with a capital of £1,000,000, to acquire possession of the phosphate fields of the United States."
"The wealthiest man in Alabama is probably Josiah Morris, of Montgomery. He has a fortune of $3,000,000 that was made for the most part in operations in real estate."

Caughman Items.

Well, the Tillman fever has not caught us yet; but then we hardly ever are caught by an epidemic disease of any kind. We don't know whether the target is too insignificant or whether our system is too robust and strong. You know that whenever a person's system is in thorough health and vigor the liabilities to contract diseases is reduced to a minimum, and, probably, that is the case with us, at any rate, we have not been able to see the whys and wherefores of all this hue and cry about Ben Tillman. We have never denied that reform may be needed in the machinery of our State Government, and that there may be some departments open to improvement. We firmly believe that the Farmers' Movement is intentionally a good move, but our opinion about it is that they committed an unpardonable blunder by putting Ben Tillman at the head of it. Our reasons for this opinion are, first, he is too wholesale in his accusations, and secondly, he is not a man of his word. He claims to have the prosperity of the State at heart, and tries to show to the people the corruption of the State in order to carry his point. He brands officials as "perjurers and convicts at crime," who are as upright and honest as any State has ever held office in our State. As far as a means of seeking his own interest is concerned, if any of us were in office we would be the same, Ben Tillman among the number. He is doing nothing more than seeking political glory, just the same as any other politician, and all you who have so clamorously idolized him and so industriously whooped him up will find this to be only too true.
In the second place he is not a man of his word. How long has it been since he declared not only that he did not want office of any kind, but that he would not take an office under any circumstances? Now, if you please, see where he is and what he is working for. Besides, he has denied before a public audience many of the accusations which he had previously made. All this goes to show that he is entirely too washy and blustery for Governor of our commonwealth. And, now, what is all this Alliance talk about getting "anti jute" bagging at 5 and 6 cents a yard, when hemp and flax are quoted at 6 and 10 cents per pound? From what we learn some of the business agents of the Alliance have contracted for large quantities of bagging which proves to be nothing more than second-hand jute. Look out Alliance men or you will use jute if you don't mind! Now, that if you have successfully fought the jute question, why not see that you don't substitute? To do otherwise is nothing more than "cutting off your nose to spite your face."
