Arousing a Love of good Reading.

Let it be remembered that the teacher is responsible that the child knows how to read. A little consideration will lead us to conclude that the teacher must instruct the pupil as to what he shall read. There are a vast number of bad books, books that do so much damage that it were almost better the child had never learned to read.

The first step will be to tell the pupil stories of the right kind. These must create an appetite, must excite interest for reading and for investigation. The great mine of classical stories has been worked for a thousand years, and is not yet exhausted. The story of the destruction of Troy and of the wanderings of Ulysses and of Aeneas were told over and over besides the hearthstones of old Greece and Rome.

Then there are historical stories, such as those recast by Jacob Abbot, and which gave him his fame as a writer. The stories of Cyrus, of Alexander, of Alfred the Great, of Washington, of Lincoln, of Grant and Garfield, will never be without interest.

There are stories of inventions that are quite as attractive. The story of Thomas A. Edison is now, while he is alive, a wonderful thing. There are stories of those who discovered and applied the power of steam; of spinning, and weaving, of manufacturing iron and steel of those who invented the steamboat and the locomotive, and of printing machines. The field is a large one.

Stories of travel and adventure are innumerable. The stories of Wesley and Livingstone, of Chinese Gordon and Sir John Franklin, have a tremendous power to day.

Now the point made is that these stories should be the teacher's property; they should be at her tongue's end, as it were. A lady lately wrote: "When at school we often staid after hours to get our teacher to tell us a story." The true way to rouse a love of good literature is for the teacher to be imbued with it. It is not enough to say, "That is a bad book; you must not read it." Nor is it enough to say, "That is a good book; read that." The teacher must give the pupils glimpses of the bright fields of literature.

It is a good plan for the teacher to have the older pupils assist in this "story telling." Let him assign one to tell the story of Alexander, for example, another that of Alfred the Great, and so on. In the course of a school year the names of a hundred actors in the world's history can be made familiar to the pupils. They will want to know more about them.

2. There will be a good deal of reading, and the question will come up continually before the teacher, "What are my pupils reading?" The question should be often put to them personally, and in time they will ask, "What had I better read?" One teacher reports that she has each pupil have a little blank book in which she records the works she reads. Another teacher has a report made viva voce each week. "I am reading 'Ivanhoe.'" "I am reading 'Outre Mer,'" and so on. Then she comments and asks opinions. "Jennie, you had 'The Heart of Midlothian' last week; how did you like it?" The pupil is encouraged to have an opinion, and utter it.

Another teacher puts up a list of books for her Fourth Reader class to read, and encourages them in reading them. In these cases there is access to town or city libraries.

A caution must be observed here; some teacher define good books as those that discuss religion or morals; they think only of those that might belong in Sunday schools. Twenty-five years ago it would have been impossible to have found Irving's "Rip Van Winkle" in a Sunday school library, but it has got into a good many now. "Good reading" means rightly all that class of reading that awakens thought, and tends to give a broader scope to thought, puts the individual into a more complete understanding of his surroundings. Some of this may have a direct moral influence, some may act so only remotely. The play of Hamlet must be classed as good reading—it is exciting, but it does not degrade. Hence the teacher must mark off romances and works of the imagination from his list of good reading.

3. Then the teacher should aim to encourage the owning of a few books by each pupil. A teacher relates: "A stranger came to my school and asked the girls, 'What books do you own for your very own?' I do not mean the Bible. I suppose you all have one. But what book do you treasure and take down and read when you want to have a very nice time?"

Then followed a discussion, and the result was that in the course of a few weeks several of the girls had bought Longfellow's poems.

Nothing will be accomplished unless the teacher makes a business of reading herself, and of getting her pupils to read. A list of books (for pupils over twelve) should be put up in the school room, and then questions asked. "Who have read 'Robinson Crusoe'?" "Who have read 'Ivanhoe'?" etc. The teacher who pursues some such course as is outlined above will surely arouse a love for good reading.

Simply Lives to Eat.

The Island of Korea is said to boast the greatest eaters in the world. A traveler says that "more than any of his fellow men, we can say the Korean lives to eat. He is not particular, but eats anything he gets his hands on. Twelve meals a day would not trouble him."

What a complicated impression this gives the South particularly, where dyspepsia is peculiarly the national ailment to such an extent that only through the use of Dr. Westmoreland's Calisaya Tonic do our people find relief. This wonderful remedy is an unfailing relief in loss of appetite, general debility, and has no peer in malarial sections, where its anti-periodic properties dissipate the poison and brace up the enervated system. Where the system is run down, physicians invariably prescribe it. Its formula is applauded in the most eminent medical circles as the desideratum of the age.

How to Kiss Gracefully.

It is quite out of fashion to struggle and say: "Oh, now, you stop!" when you are going to be kissed, writes Clara Belle. Presumably, if you don't intend to allow yourself to be kissed, your manner will not suggest the notion of kissing to the man. Few men will try to kiss a girl unless there is a chance for success. Besides struggling musses your hair and crumples your faces and breaks the flowers you wear, and leaves any number of traces by which the girls can tell just what happened. It's much prettier to just pretend to the last minute that you don't know what is going to happen. In this case you never lose the kiss, as you may if you do the "struggling" act, and it is much more satisfactory than after struggling or during a struggle. You can be awfully "surprised" and gasp "Oh—how—how dare you," and clap your hands over your face and say "Go away," when he tries to soothe you, and "I will never speak to you again, and I hate you," and all that. It is just as effective as before the kiss, and just as pretty and all that, and it does not muss your hair so much. The proud and haughty method is very satisfactory if you choose the right man. You should let the "cool moon" shine full upon your face, and with your lips "curling scornfully," you say: "You would not dare," and look him steadily and scornfully in the eye. You must be sure to choose a man who will not be scared to death at this and wish himself at home. The right sort of man will grab you instantly. Then you can do the "contrast" act, which is very effective, turn meek and quiet and "half timid," or do the tragedy queen business and leave the gentle act for later. Now all men don't go in for "taming" girls, and all men don't go in for catching the coquette, and all don't fancy teaching and encouraging shy girls. The trouble with most girls is they adopt their method and stick to it right through. You should always change your method with your man.

A Warning to the Alliance.

From the Darlington Herald. The Alliance, as a social and business organization, deserves the sympathy and support of all good citizens, but if its intelligent members do not unite in the effort to prevent it from becoming an oath bound political party, its doom is sealed and disintegration is its portion. Secret political parties have never been a success in this country.

Chips from Our Workshop.

The pretense of saintliness deceives no one so much as the pretender. Wm. Sprague Smith, Providence, R. I., writes: "I find Brady's Eucalypti always cures headache."

It is dangerous to exaggerate. A man may tell a lie until he believes it. Catarrh originates in scrofulous taint. P. P. P. purifies the blood, and thus permanently cures Catarrh.

Twenty-two newspapers in Kansas are edited by women. The sun yields eight million times the light of the moon.

De Witt's Sarsaparilla destroys such poisons as scrofula, skin disease, eczema, rheumatism. Its timely use save many lives. At J. W. Long's.

If ignorance is bliss, the wonder is why so many people complain of being miserable.

It takes a good many years for a man to get old, but when he once gets it he hangs on to it.

There are many men who are generous to a fault, but it is generally to their own faults.

Don't storm the system as you would a fort. If held by the enemy, constipation, gently persuade it to surrender with De Witt's Little Early Risers. These little pills are wonderful convicers. At J. W. Long's.

The Waltham watch factory company pays its employees monthly in gold.

It is said that there are now seventy-two women preachers in the United States.

Investigate their merits. De Witt's Little Early Risers don't gripe, cause nausea or pain, which accounts for their popularity. J. W. Long says he would not run a drug store without these little pills.

There has been a frost in Connecticut every month this year, except the present one.

Stonewall Jackson, was, it is said, the worst rider in both armies. He wobbled about in his saddle like a drunken man, and seemed every minute about to fall off his horse.

De Witt's Sarsaparilla cleanses the blood, increases the appetite and tones up the system. It has benefited many people who have suffered from blood disorders. It will help you. At J. W. Long's.

True courage is cool and clam. The bravest of men have the least of brutal bullying insolence, and in the very time of danger are the most serene, pleasant and free.

General Booth's encouragement to back-sliders is: "It's a pity you fell, but it's no use lying there. Get up!"

People with impure blood may be said to exist, not live. Life is robbed of half its joys when the blood is loaded with impurities and disease. Correct this condition with De Witt's Sarsaparilla, it is reliable. At J. W. Long's. 33-1y

The time when people need religion most is when they can't have their own way about things.

We could all be great men if we could be measured by the great things we intend on to-morrow.

Commercial agencies throughout the country are predicting a lively business season the coming fall.

You never tried De Witt's Little Early Risers for constipation, biliousness, sick headache or you would not have these diseases. At J. W. Long's.

The man who hasn't the capacity to attend to his own business always finds others to do it for him, remarks the Galveston News.

Truthfulness is a corner-stone in character, and if not firmly laid in youth there will ever after be a weak spot in the foundation.

We can not afford to deceive you. Confidence is begotten by honesty. De Witt's Little Early Risers are pills that will cure constipation and sick headache. At J. W. Long's.

The Kingdom of Heaven is large enough when you get into it, but the gate is so small that you cannot come, save on your own knees.

When the Japanese hitch a horse in the street, they do so by tying his fore legs together. Hitching posts are never used in Japan or Corea, except by foreigners.

Perfect action and perfect health result from the use of De Witt's Little Early Risers, a perfect little pill. At J. W. Long's.

Meeting a commercial traveler who was pretty full of old Robinson county, Gubbins remarked to his wife: "Tight as a drum, ain't he?" "Worse'n that," she replied, "he's tight as a drummer."

There are 12,500,000 families in the United States, 10,250,000 of whom occupy farms and homes that are unencumbered, while the other two and a half million live on mortgaged homes.

Rheumatism is so bad that James Irvin, of Savannah, could hardly walk from pain in his shoulder and joints of his legs. P. P. P. (Prickly Ash, Poke Root and Potassium) was resorted to and Irvin is well and happy.

Terrible blood poison, body covered with sores, and two bottles of P. P. P. (Prickly Ash, Poke Root and Potassium) cured the disease, making the patient lively as a ten-year-old.

English and New England capital is very much displeased at the South's clamor for more silver. They are threatening to boycott the South by withholding their money from use in this section.

"My dear Julia," said one pretty girl to another, "can you make up your mind to marry that odious Mr. Snuff?" "Why, my dear Mary," replied Julia, "I believe I could take him on a pinch."

A Connecticut weather prophet foretells along and cold winter, because the nut crop promises unusually large. "Nature," he says, "never takes the trouble to prepare a crop of nuts unless they are going to be needed."

Canada only lacks 237,000 square miles to be as large as the whole continent of Europe; it is nearly thirty times as large as Great Britain and Ireland, and is 500,000 square miles larger than the United States.

The average height of clouds from the earth is about one mile.

Turn to the right medicine, if you're a weak or ailing woman. It's Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. If you're overworked or "run-down," it builds you up; if you're afflicted with any of the distressing derangements and disorders peculiar to the sex, it relieves and cures. It improves digestion, invigorates the system, enriches the blood, dispels aches and pains, malnutrition and nervousness, produces refreshing sleep, and restores flesh and strength. In the cure of all functional disturbances, weakness, and irregularities, it's guaranteed to give satisfaction, or the money is refunded.
