A Powerful Sermon.

one of the most powerful sermors in the Methodist church last Sunday morning, that we have heard delivered at this place. He laid the foundation of his remarks from the words, "Why persecuteth thou me."

The leading thought of his discourse was the importance of conversion.

He contended that there was something more necessary in order to ob-at enmity with the pure commands of God's law and no amount of human culture can reconcile God to man or the most finely educated men of his day and times: he was active and zealous in the service of his God according to the training and traditions of his fathers; that in the persecution of the Christians he was conscientious; that his efforts to arrest the spread of the teachings and doctine of Christ which were, without the experinces and teachings of this change of heart and nature wrought by conversion, were at variance with the doctrine of the old dispension; that the obedience of the law was the outward manifestation of the approval of God, and from this outward obedience, his cducation taught him to look for an out-prostrated him on the ground and made him blind for the space of three days, to convince him of his fatal error and conversion, or regeneration of the heart, to change his of Christ which he afterwards did.

Saul's education made him a persecutor of Christians; but Paul's conversion and change of nature made him an humble follower of the lowly Nazarene desiring to know nething but Jesus Christ and him crucified.

You may educate a hog, by way of illustration, to such an extent as to enable it to play cards and win at poker, but allow that hog to follow the inclination of his nature and he will get up from the table, go out and return to his wollow in the mire.

Another thought advanced by tle preacher was, that in order to persecute Christ it was not neccessary to stone, load the Children of God with irons and incarcerate them in prison, burn their bodies at the stake, or rack them in torture on the rack; but Christ could be effectually perse cuted by mocking, scoffing and treating lightly his religion and by ridicul

Along the River Side.

To the Editor of the Dispatch: I shall have to criticise the sub-Supervisor who has change of the public highways in this vicinity. He is a dignified chamo; go and see the floor of the Hollow Creek bridge, known as the Hayes bridge which he has had repaired. I am sure if you will go and look again you will find that a new bridge is needed instead of repairing the floor of the old one. Any insane man will tell you that; when you can't reach solid wood in a bridge sill with a sixty penny nail, it is dangerous to cross and needs a new one. I am informed that his idea is to use the lumber which is put on the old one on the new, but I should like to inform him that he don't regard the cost of double labor. The labor will cost as much on a new bridge with those new planks lying on the old one as it would cost if it were all new, so you may see the sum paid for repairing the old one is (I must sav) paid unwisely, I should not commit this criticism to public print, but it is public matter and I feel it a duty to do so. So let us have a new upright braced bridge. What has got or been the matter with our board of equalization? I am sure that we have an honest upright set of gentlemen on the board, but why is it that they can't see the difference in the value of land? The land on Saluda in this township is rated a $5.00 per acre also the land in and around Priceville is rated at the same when the the sells at five and forty dollars per acre and the lands in this vicinity only brings 7 or 8 dollars per acre. Can't you come nearer rating it equal, gentleman? or how do you do this equalizing?

The trustees of this school district which is No. 10, has met with many of the patrons present, and agreed to large and attentive congregation last run three schools. We take notice of the rapid increase of scholars, as the district was too small last winter to cut in half an run two schools but it has now grown to the immense size of a three school district. I think probably in a few months more, we can run another as three is an uneven number.

I shall have to compliment Prof. S. S. Lindler on the professional style in which he is keeping the Star | before her. he has now added two stars the yard which is a perfect ornament, and makes it thrible star. I am truly Ella, S. C., Nov. 25th, 1895.
