The Names are Legion.

The Captain dropped in to see us One day last week, and in the course of a pleasant conversation, he mentioned the names of four candidates for Senator; about three dozen for members of the House of Representatives and numerous slates for the other county offices. If the list of alleged candidates increases with that head swimming rapidity from now on as it has in the past every other man in the county will become a candidate for some office before the primary election rolls around.

A Spelling Bee.

There will be a spelling be at the Palmetto Institute on the evening of March 31st inst.

A large number from school and town has entered the lists. An admission fee of 10 cents will

The proceeds of the entertainment will be used for paying the remaining debt on the organ. It is expected that the school patrons and the public generally will

The speakers will take notice that the words will be selected from Web ster's Primary Dictionary and in clude the two yearly reviews in Swinton's Word Book.

To Correspondents.

We have received several anonymous communications which cannot be published in these columns. Our correspondents should remember that in order to have their communications published in the Dispatch they must be accompanied by the true name of the writer as a guarantee of good faith. We solicit communications from every section of the county, but as our space is limited, we must remind those writing the necessity of being brief. Remember that it has been said that "brevity is the soul of wit," so be witty by being brief.

Remember that medicines of all kinds, perfumery, sweet soaps, combs, brushes, etc., can be found at the Death of Miss Ella Bradford.

Our little town was thrown into a state of intense sorrow and gloom yesterday morning at the announcement of the death of Miss Ella Bradford, which occurred at the residence of her brother, Mr. C. S. Bradford, of acute indigestion.

Miss Bradford had been an invalid for years, but bore her affliction with patience and fortitude. The evening before her death she was apparently in usual health enjoying the pleasures of home in her accustomed cheerful manner. There was no sign to warn the family that the black wings of the angel of death were hanging like a pall of darkness over their home, and ere the bright rays of the morrow's sun would warm the bosom of mother earth, that happy family circle would be severed by the departure of the immortal spirit of a beloved member into the realms of the City of God to dwell forevermore in the eternal mansion prepared for these whose robes have been washed in the blood of the Lamb. Being the possessor of a happy, genial and lovable disposition, her presence was like a benediction, sheding the fragance of a holy life and the brightness of the Christian graces around those with whom she came in contact. She was beloved by her relatives and immediate friends and esteemed and respected by the community at large.

Truly it can be said of her "None

Why Not Do So?

We understand that some of the people residing in that portion of the town of Batesburg which lies in the new county of Saluda, are favorable to the proposition of making it a part and parcel of the county of Lexington. Under the new Constitution this can be easily done if the people in that township so desire. The matter depends solely upon their decision. We trust that a petition will be presented to the Governor ask ing for an election on this subject and that the result will be favorable to the annexation. It will be more convenient for the people of the town to be in the same county and Lexington county will be the gainer by the addition of a desirable class of citizens, who will have less taxes to pay.

The article on "Primary Reading" published on the first page of this issue, was read by Miss Gertrude Geiger before the recent meeting of the Teachers' Association at Swansea and is published by the request of that body. We have taken the liberty of changing some of the sentences but, however, without distroying the sense, where the names of publishing house are used. To mention the names of business firms in communications is one of best and most effective means of advertising and firms are known to have paid large sums of money to have their names mentioned only once in some

Five Hundred Millions.

As an exhibition of faith in our Government, and of patriotism in our people, the recent demand for more than $500,000,000 of bonds, netting only 3 per cent. interest for thirty years, was most inspi But, in view of the following facts, the eagerness was amazing.

In 1876 the Equitable Life Assurance Society sold its bonds [Endowment policies] maturing in twenty years, requiring payment therefor in small annual instalments throughout the whole period, with a provision that, should a purchaser die at any time after purchase, his bond should become immediat-ly payable without further payment of instal-

In every year since then some of those bonds have been paid in full, and yet most of those now maturing are realizing much more in interest than can ever be realized upon the bonds sought with so much avidity a few days ago.
