Burned April 25th; rebuilt July 19, 1894.

G. M. HARMAN, Editor and Publisher.

LEXINGTON, S. C., WEDNESDAY, JULY 1, 1896.

For sometime past Commander Roof and Adjutant Harman have been active in making arrangements for the pleasure, convenience and comfort of those members of Camp Lexington and any Confederate Veteran who desired to attend the sixth annual re-union of the United Confederate Veterans at Richmond, and witness the unveiling of the monument to the memory of the great Confederate chieftain, Jefferson Davis.

About twenty six persons from this place joined the contingent from stations below, who were in turn joined by others at Columbia, making the total number going from this county about forty-seven, as follows: George M. Caughman, Capt. J. H. Counts, Jasper S. Derrick, O. A. Derrick, R. V. Gant, M. D. Harman, D. T. Hare, Dr. C. E. Leaphart, Mike Meetze, T. M. Miller, John J. Reeder, J. W. Reeder, Benjamin Rwl, Capt. S. M. Roof, J. M. Shealy, F. P. Smith, J. C. Swygert, A. E. Wingard, A. O. Wilson, L. O. George, S. P. George, J. J. Lown, W. M. Lown, Paul P. Clark, Wesley Nichols, S. M. Pearson, J. E. Fulmer, J. L. Slice, Rev. Job Edwards, Rev. J. T. Myers, J. S. Hogan, T. C. Smith, F. W. Oswald, M. Crouch, W. E. Matthews, Dr. J. W. Geiger and B. F. Boyd, colored.

The following persons accompanied the Veterans as a body guard: Arthur F. Harman, Singleton Harman, Samuel J. Leaphart, Bob Leaphart, Saumie Roof, Samuel B. George and A. J. Fox.

The whole contingent was chartered by Mrs. M. D. Harman, Mrs. M. M. Miller, and Miss M. L. Miller. Mr. Singleton Harman, writing to the Dispatch under date of June 30th, says that the party arrived safe at Richmond yesterday in good spirits. On our arrival the male portion of our party were taken in charge by a committee who quartered us in the old Exposition building which had been neatly fitted up with bunks and laid with clean straw. Our accommodations are that all could be reasonably expected, considering the vast number of people who have to be provided for and looked after. While the hospitality of this grand old city is severely taxed, she is prepared for all emergencies and is meeting all demands made upon her. Captain Roof's face constantly wears a broad happy smile as he treads the old familiar camping ground which in the days that have passed resounded with the tramp of Lee's immortal host. Occasionally his eyes flash with the fire and vigor of youth as other scenes of the living past pass before him. Uncle Marion, "the Old 20th" as he is called at home, is in all his glory and is as happy as boy when he first puts on long pants.

Dr. Brooker Declines. To the Editor of the Dispatch: Quickly after the appearance of my announcement for the House, a card was forwarded to your office substantially asking its withdrawal. A more formal declination may be more satisfactory to my friends. Being entirely unwilling to re-enter public life, there is only a single exigency under which I could be induced again to offer for public place. The many kindnesses received in other days at the hands of the people—always gratefully remembered—have imposed upon me an obligation so weighty and enduring that, if perfectly sure that a majority of the Democratic voters desired my services, I should then feel that to decline would be a manifestation of ingratitude. That such an emergency has arisen, or is likely to arise, is not in evidence, and as my interests and inclinations are all the other way, with grateful acknowledgment to my friends for their earnest solicitations, I respectfully request that the announcement be withdrawn. The manifest and expressed desire of many good men of the Reform party—with whom I have recently differed—to have me again preferred to a position of public trust, has touched me deeply, and is here acknowledged with a heart overflowing with gratitude. I trust and believe that the time is near when factional strife shall cease, the bitterness of the past be buried and a re-united Democracy, in county and State, a band of brothers as of yore, presenting an unbroken front and feeling the elbow touch, shall move onward together in the march of progress. That men will again be chosen to conserve the people's interest on individual merit without regard to factional differences. Only then will we secure the best results from the best of governments.

The necessity for division no longer exists. The questions which separated us have been eliminated for the most part, and are no longer living issues. The sobriety scheme, which many of us believed to be a dangerous delusion, has been repudiated. The plan for government ownership of railroads and telegraph lines, which would have placed these enterprises under the control of politicians rather than business men, has been abandoned. The dispensary matter has been settled by constitutional enactment. These were the rocks upon which we split. National finance is now all absorbing, and the Democracy of this State is practically united with reference to free coinage. Certainly not divided on factional lines on this issue. The resolutions of the recent county convention in favor of the free coinage of silver and the repeal of the ten per cent tax on State banks were admirable in principle and in spirit, either will bring some degree of relief, but the best results can be had only when the one is supplemented by the other.

The selection of our best men for office without considering past political differences will not only give us the most efficient form of government but will quickly allay the feelings of bitterness which have so unhappily disturbed, in recent years, our hitherto pleasant relations.

June 26, 1896. W. T. Brooker. Superior to All Other. GERENTO, MISS, May 6th, 1892. Although I never used any secret remedies before, I prescribe Dr. Joseph's Sarsaparilla in my practice as I would any prescription of my own compounding, and any physician who will do the same will be greatly pleased at the results achieved. In my opinion it is superior to all others and has been especially useful to me in Rheumatic and Scrofulous cases.

Richmond Captured.

The Confederate reunion opened at Richmond yesterday with charming weather, clear and cool. An immense throng of people was present and the exposition grounds, where the convention is held in a large auditorium erected for the purpose, was crowded. The auditorium is handsomely decorated. As General Gordon showed his face on the rostrum this morning, a mighty Confederate yell went up and the battle scarred veteran received an ovation. Governor O'Ferrall and other distinguished men went up and grasped his hand, and the bands played "Dixie," and the people shouted.

Before the convention was called to order, General Gordon was presented with a ravel made from a tree from the battlefield of Chancellorsville. Rev. J. W. M. Jones offered a fervent prayer to the God of Lee and Jackson and Davis. General Gordon, without making a speech, introduced Governor O'Ferrall, who on behalf of Virginia welcomed the veterans.

GENERAL HAMPTON SPEAKS. A veteran was passed to the front bearing an old battle flag that had been shot through in many places and waved it before the vast assemblage. When General Hampton was permitted to speak some one cried, "Louder!" "Louder!" "I used to be able to speak loud enough to make you charge," replied General Hampton. "Words," he said, "could not express his gratitude for the great honor which had been given him. He had come to mingle with the veterans, perhaps for the last time, and do honor to the memory of that great man, President Davis. The General said he would be still fighting now if the Confederate flag was waving. (Great applause.) He had no apology to make for his course. When his State called upon him he went into the war as a private and served his country as best he could. The speaker paid a beautiful tribute to the private soldiers and in conclusion said the only epitaph he wanted written on his tombstone was that he was a Confederate soldier."

GENERAL GORDON'S RESPONSE.

General Gordon responded to the address of welcome and received the building on behalf of the veterans. The General's clear voice penetrated every part of the hall. He said: Governor, Mr. Mayor and General Wise, ladies, and my Confederate comrades: You will not wonder that I am literally overwhelmed by the flood of emotions which this scene evokes. As we look upon the grizzled locks and furrowed brows of these stalwart men, who thirty years ago were soldiers of an army which they immortalized by their deeds, how utterly inadequate are the words of our lips to express the emotions of our hearts. Let me say to these gentlemen who in the name of this great people bid us welcome that full and cordial as is our appreciation of this splendid reception we are in no sense surprised at its princely munificence. We are not surprised because we know Virginia and Virginians. We are the recipients of the honors soldiers of the victorious armies bring to a grateful people, the trophies of their triumphs. The world would comprehend the meaning of such a welcome as is here extended; but they were not the victors in that Titanic struggle. They are the shattered remnants of long since disbanded armies which leave to posterity no accretions of territory, no receptions of public wealth or political power. The legacy which these men leave to their children and people is a record of untarnished honor and of the most heroic defensive struggle in human annals, and the sole compensation for their services and sufferings is that reward which noble natures feel in such recognition by their grateful countrymen.

On the other hand, no popular assemblage of intelligent and high spirited citizens in the world's posterity were freer from partisan zeal, or self-seeking spirit, or ignoble jealousies or sinister intention, and the muse of history will yet embalm in one of her sweetest stories the absolutely unselfish character and exalted aims of these Confederate gatherings. The pathos of that recital will be deepened by its simplicity and beauty and heightened by the lesson which it will teach to humanity. That story will record the simple but sublime truth that while the reunions occurred year after year, at every stage of their proceedings, neither embittered by disappointments nor dwarfed by ignoble passions, neither warped by political ambitions nor narrowed by sectional prejudice, not blinded to the common interests of the country by selfish aims but made useful through suffering, banded and enabled in the fires of affliction, they embraced as a brother every true lover of their country and acknowledged no superiors in devotion to the common weal and unflinching support to the laws, the flag, the honor and the freedom of this American republic.

white robed army of comrades who have gone before us to the better land, but whose spirits are with us today; and voicing the sentiments of the thousands who long to be with us, in their name and as their representative, I lay at Virginia's feet the sincerest tribute of our grateful hearts.

The speaker's tribute to Virginia and Virginians was greeted with prolonged applause. Various committees were announced and Gen. Stephen D. Lee read a lengthy report from the committee on history.

Richmond is to be congratulated in the manner in which she prepared for the entertainment of her visitors. There has been no delay in the assignment of the great host of veterans to comfortable quarters and the city is amply prepared for the entertainment of as many more.

Dots from In and Near Leesville.

To the Editor of the Dispatch: The candidates are coming out in full force. Go it, boys, I hope to hear some of your political views very soon.

Many of Mr. Irby's friends in this section were sorry to hear of his withdrawal from the race for United States Senator.

Mrs. Nichols, who has been quite sick for sometime, is spending a few days with her sister, Mrs. J. Edwards, and is under the skillful treatment of Dr. D. M. Crosson. Mr. P. D. Risinger will begin his summer school at Cedar Grove very soon. David is an excellent teacher. Mr. Luther Etheredge has gone on a "business trip" to Rock Hill. He will return in a few days and teach a summer school near Ridge Spring. Mr. Etheredge is a student of Newberry College.

Mrs. James D. Kinard has returned from Peak, where she has been visiting relatives. The young folks had a picnic near here last Friday. Everybody reports a huge time. Have your tax receipt and be ready to register in July. This is a right we all have and it is our duty to enjoy it. Z H. E.

Notes Made on the Wing. Dr. George Smith on a recent trip through portions of Hollow Creek, made the following notes: Mr. J. Walter Dreher has the most convenient and neatest dwelling in that section, which reflects credit on Messrs. Charlie Harman and George Hayes, contractors and builders. Pricville is not behind by odds in fine crops and prosperity generally. Mr. Henry Price has built a handsome and commodious dwelling and the painter is now putting on the finishing touches. At an early day it will be occupied. Mr. Henry Price is truly a model farmer. He has the finest corn and cotton crops that I have seen. He also has the best and most convenient ginning and packing arrangements, by which he can gin and pack a bale every hour. Others have good crops but rain is much needed.

County Alliance Meeting. The next quarterly meeting of Lexington County Alliance will be held at Lexington C. H., Friday, July 10, 1896, at 10 o'clock a. m. A full delegation is desired. P. H. CAUGHMAN, President. Jno. D. FARR, Secretary. June 5, 1896.

CANDIDATES.

The price for announcing candidates in these columns is $3 for the round trip, invariably in advance.

FOR SOLICITOR. Thanking the people of Lexington county for their support in the past, I hereby announce myself as a candidate for re-election to the office of Solicitor of the Fifth Judicial Circuit. The friends of WENLEY HARSEY announce him as a candidate for County Supervisor, and pledge him to abide the result of the Democratic primary.

After maturely considering the solicitations of many friends to make the race for Supervisor, I hereby announce myself a candidate and will abide the Democratic primary. LEWIS J. LANGFORD.

We are authorized to announce S. L. SMITH as a candidate for re-election to the office of County Superintendent of Lexington County. He is pledged to abide the result of the Democratic primaries.

The Hon. J. H. COUNTS is hereby nominated for the office of County Supervisor for Lexington County. The many noble qualities of Mr. Counts are too well known for any comments, but for the benefit of those who may not have had an opportunity to know his real worth, we desire to say that he is a gentleman of high moral character, excellent judgment, plenty of power and a true Retainer. In our opinion he is the man for the place, and we beg of the voters of the county a liberal support for him in the ensuing election. FRIENDS.

FOR CORONER. The friends of J. M. CRAIGS announce him as a candidate for Coroner. Mr. Craigs is capable of any duty assigned to him. He will abide the result of the primary.

JEWELRY!

ALL IS NOT GOLD THAT GLITTERS, nor is everything Sterling Silver that is stamped "sterling." Of course in the crucible of the chemist it is easy to tell the pure metal from the dross, but people can't carry chemists and crucibles about with them when they go shopping. Guard against mistakes then by buying from dealers of known reliability. I have sold Reliable Jewelry in Columbia for a great many years and it is a gratification to me to know that my patrons have received full value for their money and have always "bought what they bargained for."

WOMAN'S RIGHTS.

MEEN, who hold the purse strings, often deprive women of articles of inestimable value. The wife pleads with her husband for a Piano or an Organ, which is tenfold more essential than the cigar and other luxuries in which he indulges.

The daughter asks father, or guardian, to buy an Instrument to enable her to cultivate that beautiful talent, music.

Does any sane man not realize this a reasonable right to plead and ask for? Reflect a minute! Think of the means expended for instruction and the many tedious hours employed in practice by wife and daughter, and their glowing anticipations subsequently to be realized.

Now, father, husband, or guardian, are you going to lose all these bright anticipations by denying them of this merited right—simply the gift of a Piano or Organ?

Give your wives and daughters their merited rights in the home, which is "Woman's Kingdom," then she will cease to clamor for political suffrage. Don't plead inability when such liberal terms and prices are available.

My prices are right, terms easy, and quality of Instruments unsurpassed.

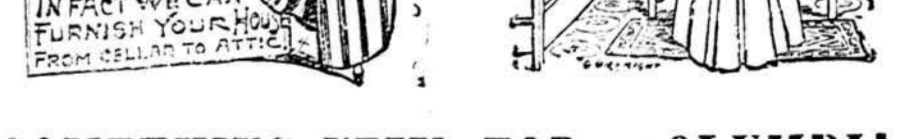

If you desire prices and catalogues, please write me a letter or postal card, and same will prompt attention.

I challenge any house in America to do better for you, as I represent the Manufacturers, have no jobbers to pay, and can save you Agent's commission. Old Pianos and Organs taken at fair value in exchange for new ones.
