The Free Mail Delivery.

Extract from an Interview with "R M. L. Representative Stokes made special visit at the Post Office Department this moning to look after the bidding on Star Route contracts in South Carolina. It will be remembered that for the first time in the history of the country, the experiment in making for the free delivery of mail along S:ar Routes, and South Carolina is the Statselected for the experiment. It waselected in recognition of the efforts of Representative Stokes, the originator of the system.

Gen. Shallenberger expressed great satisfaction at the results of the bidding so far as ascertained. They fully verify the claim of Mr. Stokes a year ago in the house and in the department that the system could be put into operation at little if any increased cost; and it is only a question of short time when free delivery will be extended to all the 22,000 routes in the United States. If Mr Stokes never accomplishes anything else in Congress this should entitle him to the gratitude of the rural population, not only in South Carolina, but in the nation. Mr. Stokes also finds reason to believe that the proportion of local bidders who have captured contracts direct from the Government, much longer than heretofore, and this result heattribit s to a system; t coffort on his part last summer to arouse interest in bidding among the local contractors and sub-contractors all over South Carolina. He wrs in correspondence with every contractor in the State giving instruction and suggestion. Of course this greatly increased his correspondence and labor, but he feels amply compensated for his trouble in the light of

The School and the Community.

Exchange.

There remain three sorts of knowledge and training the school ought to promote to a mark degree. One of these has to do with conduct in the ordinary social relations. The principles of practical ethics, not merely for the sake of intellectual perception, but for the sake of their incorporation into the very texture of character, should be one of the foremost concerns of school life. This fact has become to be very widely recognized.

All schools cannot teach the use even of the simplest tools, and much less, therefore, can turn out skilled craftsmen. But schools at can least be so conducted that they do not positively unfit their scholars for those very kinds of praceal work by which it is rectain that the great majority must obtain their hving when their school days are done. A successful country teacher will not of necessity turn the district school into an agricultural college but it is true, never beless, that the wise country teacher will so train the boys and girls of the district that refrigerator.
