Has Faith in His Prediction.

Having unbounded faith and confidence in the certainty of his prediction that the cold weather is a thing of the past and that it will come again no more until next season. one of our citizens made his appearance last Sunday, wearing a straw hat. On what theory he makes his calculations, we, of course, are not aware, but we have heard somewhere, that it is a certain sign of a change in the weather, if a crossed-eyed yaller dog comes lapsided down the street with his pedal extremely pointing toward the dog star, and we may look for hot weather if it does not turn cold and fair weather if it does not rain.
