Sweetly Passed Away.

Another little grave was made in the Shiloh cemetery Sunday evening, September the first. Time has dealt heavily with Mr. and Mrs. P. G. Taylor in not driving off death from their home. That grave monster bore away the loving infant of these fond parents in the dark hours before day September 1st. Dark indeed are such trials, though they come; but they are not without assurance that it is well with their sweet little babe. S. Ella, S. C.

Stops the Cough and Works off the Cold.

The half moon bridge spanning factory pond is to be taken away and a neat iron bridge 60 feet long will be substituted and the remainder of the space will be filled in. This bridge has long been an eye sore to the people and lately has been in a dangerous condition and we are glad that it is to be torn away.

Every voter in the county should go to the polls on the 10th of September and vote for Lever. County pride as well as the other considerations should tell them to do so. If it is ever expected for a Lexington man to represent the District in Congress now is the time to see it realized. There is no time for splitting hairs and we must all lay aside our personal preferences and for the honor and glory of Lexington vote for Lever.

The wife of Mr. James Shealy died at her home in the Ballentine section of Dutch Fork, last Saturday, after a short illness. Her mortal remains were laid away to await the second appearing of the Lord in Bethel cemetery, while the beautiful immortal spirit winged its everlasting flight to the city on high where the ransomed of God bask in the sunlight of his reconciled countenance. She was a woman whose beautiful life was a benediction to the neighborhood in which she resided and sunshine in the circle of home and friends in which she mingled.

You Know What You Are Taking

When you take Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic because the formula is plainly printed on every bottle showing that it is simply iron and Quinine in a tasteless form. No cure, no pay.

When in town call to see us.

Only a Fisherman's Prerogative.

To the Editor of the Dispatch:

Well, boys, my brother fisherman, Josh, is always telling you about our fishing on Black creek, and like that little green lizard on the fence—good lack-a-day how he can stretch his blanket when he has anything to say about Uncle Jake. Don't you believe a word about my being a champion fisherman. I told a Broad river man not to believe a word of it. He answered: "Oh! I have been knowing for sometime that Josh will lie when telling his fish yarns."

Now, while I am defending myself I must defend Brother Josh. Editors have a way of talking through their hats and must be interpreted accordingly. They know how to oil up the little side wheels to their printing press as well as pandering to the oligies, isms and wild theories that can lead to nothing else but Hamilton's centralized government—ruled by money and bayonets—all for a popular paper in all homes. If people cannot let expansion theories, colonial systems and all such rot severely alone and come together for home rule and honest government of the people, by the people and for the people, the time is near, if not at their doors, that they can no longer sing "the land of the free and the home of the brave," a land of liberty.

My friend, ye's editor is a little off on McLaurinism. The fact is he cannot see far enough ahead to see the chasm to which it leads. In our long rides over those sand hills, with our talks around the pond, I know at heart he is a true Democrat.

I have been on our annual fish for so these many years, and fished with hook, line and pole every time and never caught a fish until several weeks since, when I landed five—I mean in the boat. Well, boys, don't get the heartache, or any other kind of ache when I tell you that one afternoon a very nice young lady and I went fishing in a boat. She beat me badly—5 to 2—and one of her's was a long, wriggling and twisting fellow that both of us hated with a deadly hatred. After pulling through the water for some time she drew him against the boat. I took the paddle and hammered him until I could keep him somewhat quiet. I gave her my knife and his head was nearly severed from his body, the hook out and he was dropped back from whence he came. We did not want such a snake looking thing among us.

One day when passing that old tramping and camping ground of other days before a portion of the dam washed away, I sat under that juniper tree, sad thoughts loomed up in my mind of the charmed and gipsy like life with its panoramic scenes to be enjoyed no more on that dear old spot. Under that tree we lolled at noontide. Just in front the planks lay partly laid with grass and weeds where we scattered straw, stretched our tent, unrolled our bedding with gripsacks, etc., along the sides. From the signs an expert might conjecture that under the straw and in some of said sacks some rattlesnake coiled to be concealed. Hardly stood another juniper to which that god old table was firmly fastened—and, oh! when we gathered around with pans full of delicious fish, pickles, and so forth, with each a brimming pint of steaming strong sweet black coffee! How we did enjoy it only those that have been there know.

The Board of County Commissioners was in session Monday and transacted some important business which is of interest to the public generally.

In passing upon measures tending toward the improvement of the roads and bridges of the county, the Commissioners have taken a broad and liberal view of their public duties and have taken the commendable position that the comfort and convenience of the people should be the first consideration of a public servant, and in this they will win the gratitude and support of the people.

The Board laid out a new public road from Irmo to this place by way of J. H. Counts; thence to the Nunnemaker old place, crossing this land to Miss Katie Myer in the Kleckley neighborhood, thence by J. W. Kleckley, the Barr old mill site, Frank Corley, D. M. Drafts and intersecting the Ridge road at J. P. Corley's thence on to this place, making the distance to Irmo much shorter.

The Commissioners to lay out this road are Major J. H. Counts, H. W. Kleckley and D. M. Drafts, who will proceed as early as possible to stake off the route after which the road bed will be thrown up and the road opened to the public.

The Commissioners are considering the practicability of the proposition to establish and maintain a first class ferry at Wyse's.

ECZEMA.

That torturing and disgusting disease has its cause in an impure condition of the blood. The impure condition of the blood often arises from a diseased condition of the stomach, and allied organs of digestion and nutrition.

When digestion is imperfect, the nutrition of the body is inadequate to its needs. The blood becomes thin, poisons accumulate in it, and these poisons often manifest themselves in some eruptive disease.

Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It eliminates poisonous substances from the blood, purifying it and increasing its quantity and richness. The "Discovery" cures perfectly diseases of the blood and other diseases which originate in a diseased condition of the stomach.

The "Discovery" is absolutely a non-alcoholic and non-narcotic medicine. There is nothing "just as good."

"For three years I have suffered with that dreaded disease, eczema," writes Mrs. J. Koepf, of Heron, Oregon. "I was told to try Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which I did, and after I had taken four bottles I was permanently cured. It has been a year since I stopped taking your medicine and it has never appeared. I think your medicine a wonderful cure and hope others suffering as I did will take it and be relieved of their suffering."

Doctor Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are powerful aids to the cleansing of the clogged system. By all dealers in medicine.
