OPENING OF THE COUNTY FAIR. The fifth annual fair of the Lexington County Fair Association was opened yesterday under very flattering auspicies. A visit to the grounds showed that the attendance the first day was very encouraging and was larger than at the opening of any previous fair. The attractions this year consist in innumerable side shows, vender of the California double jointed, Lexington county raised, peanut, the Coney Island sausage man, the orange juice dispenser, the Gypsy fortune teller and various other things too numerous to mention. The music of the band, the hum of voices, the cries of the hawkers vending their wares and the praise of the showmen of their particular performances, all make a scene of merriment that cannot be surpassed even at the State

All the departments are filled with exhibits and the display surpasses anything yet seen in Lexington. The horse department is exceptionally fine and it will compare favorably with the entries at large and more pretentious fairs. Lexingtonians have nothing to be ashamed of in their stock exhibit.

The household and fancy work departments are ahead of any former fair and the ladies of the county should feel proud of their handiwork.

The poultry department is one of the leading features of the fair and the birds show their breeding and are in fine plumage. All the other departments are a credit to the fair and exhibitors The Irene Brass Band is furnishing the music and enlivens the occasion with popular airs throughout the day. This is an excellent band and the members make a good appearance costumed in their handsome uniforms. The following programme of the stock exhibit was observed yesterday: Stallions, two years old; stal lions three years old; stallions, four years old; single harness horses; single harness mares; match horses; match mares: saddle ponies, ridden by girls; saddle ponies, ridden by boys; matches one of either sex; saddle horses; saddle mares; mule colts; mules, one year old; mules, two years old. We go to press earlier today in order to give our force an opportunity to take in the sights. The following is the programme for today: Display of all cattle and halter led horses in the arens; brood mares and colts; colts, either sex, one year old; mare colts, two years old; horse colts, two years old. This exhibit is confined to Lexington county raised. Open to the world: Single harness horses: single harness mares; saddle horses; saddle mares; match horses; match mares. Lexington county raised: Mare and mule colt; single harness mules; double harness mules. Open to the world: Match horses and mares; single harness mules; double harness mules.

The Lexington County Alliance did the right thing at the right time when it passed a preamble and resoution requesting Hon. D Frank Efird, President of the State Farmers' Alliance and a member of the Legislature from this county, to refuse to sign the pledge submitted to him by some alleged farmers in Sumter.

Because a person is an Allianceman is no reason why he should sur render a single prerogative attached to the rights of citizenship. On the other hand by reason of being a true Allianceman better fits him for the discharge of the duties of any civil office he may be called upon to fill. It raises the standard of citizenship and by training, cultivating and broaden ing the mind in the study of the issues of political economy which are among the essential principles of the doctrines, prepares the member to become a more useful and a more patriotic citizen. The officers of the Alliance are correct in their position in refusing to pledge themselves not to become candidates for any political office during their encumbency.

A correspondent writing to the News and Courier from Smoak's Colleton County, under date of October 21, says: The appointment by Mr. Lever of Mr Frank Herndon, one of Colleton's most promising young men, as his private secretary was an act of political foresight and shows the kindly feeling Mr. Lever has for old Colleton. This is the first recognition the county has ever been shown by a Congressman. He could not have made a better selection.

Mr Herndon, like Mr Lever, is an example of what a farmer boy can do. He was reared upon a farm in upper Colleton. On all sides one hears expressed words of confidence in the Representative from the 7th

The agony is over and there is today weeping and wailing in the Republican camp because President Roosevelt has ignored the claims of both factions of the party in the appoin ment of Revenue Collector for this State. Through the medium of the State Fair all branches of industry, including live stock, have been greatly improved The management of the fair and the citizens of Columbia will make ample arrangements for the accommodation of all visitors.

It is announced in Monday's Charleston News and Courier that Judge Benet, of the First Circuit, had definitely made up his mind to retire from the Bench at the expira tion of his present term. He will, it is said, locate in Charleston and will resume the practice of law.
