Hoar on the South.

An Interesting View of the Race Situation and Southern Conditions.

The following is a portion of Sena tor Hoar's speech recently made be fore the Union league club, of Chicago, on race conditions in the South. Coming from a Massachu setts man highly honored by the country, the following words have unusual significance:

"I know how sensitive our South- ern friends are on this matter of social equality and companionship, and I think I might say fairly and prop- erly—and that perhaps I have a right to say it—that it is not wise for the people of the North to undertake to deal rashly or to even judge hastily of a feeling so deeply implanted in their bosoms.

Time, the great reconciliator, will reconcile them to that if in the na- ture of things and in the nature of man they ought to be reconciled to it. And if in the nature of things and in the nature of man time does not reconcile them, it will be a sign that they ought not to be reconciled to it, and that some other mode of life for them must be devised.

Now, my friends, having said what I thought to say on this question, perhaps I may be indulged in adding that although my life politically and personally has been a life of almost constant strife with the leaders of the Southern people, yet as I grow older I have learned not only to re- spect and esteem, but to love the great qualities which belong to my fellow citizens of the Southern States. They are a noble race. We may well take pattern from them in some of the great virtues which make up the strength as they make up the glories of the free States. Their love of home, their chivalrous respect for women; their courage; their delicate sense of honor; their constancy, which can abide by an opinion or a purpose or an interest for their States through adversity and prosperity, through the years and through the generations, are things by which the people of the more mercurial North may take a lesson. And there is another thing—covetousness, corrup- tion, the low temptation of money has not yet found any place in South- ern politics.

Now, my friends, we cannot afford to live, and we do not live, in a state of estrangement from a people who possess these qualities. They are friends of ours; born of our burning; flesh of our flesh; blood of our blood, and whatever may be the temporary error of any Southern State, I, for one, if I have a right to speak for Massachusetts, say to her, "Entreat me not to leave thee nor to return from following after thee. For where thou goest I will go, and where thou stayest I will stay also. And thy people shall be my people, and thy God my God."

A Prominent Minister

Recommends Chamberlain's Colic Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

Rev. Francis J. Davidson, pastor of the St. Matthew's Baptist church and President of the Third District Baptist Association, 2731 Second St., New Orleans, writes as follows. "I have used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for cramps and pains in the stomach and found it excellent. It is in fact the best cramp and cholera remedy I have ever used. Also several of my parishioners have used it with equally satisfac- tory results." For sale by the Kauf- mann Drug Co.

Tillman in Charleston.

Senator Tillman was entertained in Charleston last week and was the guest of honor at a banquet at the Charleston hotel. Wednesday night. According to the News and Courier, he spoke briefly on the occasion. His remarks are synopsisized of fol- lows. He said he had come here as the guest of the Medical college faculty, and he added that it afforded him great pleasure to meet the peo- ple of the city once more. "I have had the pleasure and displeasure of visiting Charleston on many occa- sions and under many different auspieces," he said, "and in my tim- I have had unique experiences here. I appreciate the courtesy extended to me, however, and I can only express the hope that if we did have any un- pleasantness in the past it has all disappeared. I want to say in jus- tice to myself that I have been mis- understood by the people of Charle- ston. The revolution of 1890 was run on the principle that there were other parts of South Carolina besides Charleston. I thought that the rest of the State had been in ob- curity long enough. But I never tried to injure your city. I never allowed myself to forget Charleston, or the part she had taken in shaping the his- tory of the State. I had to fight you because you fought me. (Ap- plause) In that respect I was like the man who was once taken prisoner by the Indians. They were escorting him to the place where he would furnish the amusement for the dance of death, but he remembered that he had a bottle of whi-key in his pocket, and he quickly got them drunk. Afterward, he said that he had killed as many of them as they had killed him. And this warrants me in saying that I whipped you as often as you whipped me. When I was governor, I was not allowed to deal with you like other sections of the State. You were so much in love with yourself down here that you couldn't see beyond Ten mile Hill, and you didn't seem to know that there was anybody else in South Carolina. If I had to resort to harsh methods, it was only done to carry out the law. I want to claim for myself that since I have been in the United States senate, I have tried to represent South Carolina as a whole, and to look to the best interest of every community. If I have helped Charleston, it was simply a matter of duty and not because I was trying to get you to change your attitude toward me. I didn't care whether you gave me your votes or not. I never wanted your support unless I could get it with your own consent. If I can ever serve Charleston, I trust that you always find me ready to do it. I bear no ill-will to you. I want to say once and for all that I recognize you as South Carolinians and I hope you recognize me as one. I have great love for Charleston, just as I have a pride in the entire State. But at the same time you must remember that you are not the whole shooting match down here."

A Great Sensation.

There was a big sensation in Lee- ville, Ind. when W. H. Brown of that place, who was expected to die, had his life saved by Dr. King's New Dis- covery for Consumption. He writes: "I endured insufferable agonies from Asthma, but your New Discovery gave me immediate relief and soon thereafter effected a complete cure." Similar cures of Consumption, Pneu- monia, Bronchitis and Grip are nu- merous. It's the peerless remedy for all throat and lung troubles. Price 50c. and $1.00. Guaranteed by The Kaufmann Drug Co. Trial bottles free.

Bribery and Boodle.

New York, April 2.—Stories of bribery and boodle were never so persistently told as today. Governor Odell and Republican managers are trying to hush the scandal resulting from the exposure of sixteen alder- men who bolted the Republican caucus and were whipped into voting for the excise bill by threats of hav- ing criminal proceedings brought against them. In order to save the party the notoriety of a scandal no official investigation will be made.

The Glory of a Saintly Face.

Speaking of the glory of saintly faces, the Scottish Reform says: "Sometimes, in passing through a crowd, we see a face that attracts us by its sweetness of expression. Per- haps it is an old face, crowned with a glory of hoary hairs yet love, joy and peace shine out of every dot and wrinkle in it. Sometimes it is a young face that beams with health and purity and beauty. But whether young or old, when we see that un- mistakable soul light in a face, we know that the heart behind it is pure, the life is good, and the body thus illuminated is the temple of the Holy Spirit. To keep the mind occupied with good, pure, useful, beautiful and divine thoughts precludes the possi- bility of thinking about, and thus being tempted by, things sinful, low and gross. It is because Paul knew this that he said so earnestly: "Fi- nally, brethren, whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honest, whatsoever things are just, what- soever things are pure, whatsoever things are of good report. . . . think on these things." In the well informed habit of thinking pure thoughts lies the secret of being pure in heart; and in the daily and nightly meditation in the law of the Lord is a safeguard against many of the sins which defile the carnal heart and de- base and blacken the countenance."
