So It Is!

An exchange gives vent to the following wai: A man that is married to a woman is of many days and full of trouble. In the morning he draws his salary, in the evening it is gone. It goes he knows not where. He spendeth shillies in the purchase of fine linen to cover the bosom of his family, yet he is seen at the gate of the city with but one suspender. He riseth in the garments of the night and seeketh his paregoric which healeth his off-pring. Yet he is altogether wretched and full of misery. Wide is the way and broad is the gate of matrimony, and many there are who go in there at."

The Beer Question.

Columbia Evening Record,

The State board of dispensary directors have not yet met and passed upon the legality of the present system of the beer dispensaries, but Attorney General Gunter has, at the request of the board, cleared up several legal questions which arose at the hearing held some months ago. As a result of that hearing, the following questions were submitted to the Attorney General:

1. Is the present system of royalty paid beer dispensers legal in lieu of salary?

2. Are bottling plants legal?

3. What constitutes "premises?"

To the first Mr. Gunter decided that the dispensary law distinctly stated that the county boards should fix compensation for the various dispensers, and if they should fix a royalty as compensation this would be legal under that section.

As to bottling plants, the law states that these can be established in certain cities of the State, and they are therefore legal.

As to what constitutes "premises" and the drinking thereon, that is largely a question of fact and one which a jury would have to determine. It is a curiosity of the law that anyone could open a bottle of beer in any dispensary provided it was not drunk in there, but they could not open a bottle of whiskey in the same dispensary. The question of premises, however, is not one which can be decided except by a jury.

Later—The State board of dispensary directors will adopt a resolution which will be sent to the county boards informing them that the law as to drinking on the premises must be strictly enforced. This means that the beer dispensaries in South Carolina must be run on a somewhat different plan and that there will be an entire change in the present system.

The board takes the ground that buying beer in one room and drinking it in another is in a sense drinking on the premises, and as a result is a violation of the dispensary law. There were three sections in the opinion given by Attorney General Gunter. The first related to the royalty paid beer dispensaries, and this was settled as laid down in the law. The second, relating to bottling works, was also settled, and the board only discussed the third proposition which related to the definition of premises. This, Mr. Gunter decided, was a matter to be mainly settled by each county board, but the resolution today call attention to the fact that unless there is a change, and should there be a complaint as to drinking on the premises, the county board violating the law will be removed. The resolution is a very important one and will attract considerable attention.

Labor Strikes.

The Chicago strike leaders presented their side of the controversy to President Roosevelt yesterday, the main feature of it being a protest against the employment of federal troops. The President replied that no request had been made for troops, and they cannot be constitutionally employed unless the proper State authorities make such a request. Mr. Roosevelt plainly intimated that should such a condition arise he would not hesitate to act. He declared very emphatically that unions must obey the law just as individuals are required to do, and that mob violence must be suppressed. This was the right sort of talk, and if officials would act fearlessly in accordance with it there would be a great deal less violence in such cases, and individual and public rights would be more surely secured and protected.

Cruelty to Animals.

Section 031. It shall be the duty of all Sheriff, Deputy Sheriff, Deputy State Constables and Police officers and one deputy for each township, who shall be appointed by Sheriff of each County to prosecute all violations of this Chapter which shall come to their notice or knowledge, and the Township Deputy shall have the ill-treated or injured animal in evidence at the prosecution when brought by him, and shall have authority to bring or cause to be brought such animal or animals; and all fines collected upon complaint or information for violation of the Chapter, shall inure and be paid over, one half to the South Carolina Society for the prevention of Cruelty to Animals, in aid of the benevolent objects for which it was incorporated, and in case such prosecution is brought by the Township Deputy, one half of the fund collected shall be paid to him, and the other half to the County for general County expenses, except in towns or cities where there is a Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, when one-half goes to said society as aforesaid provided.

Approved the 9th day of March, A. D. 1905

To the many who are often heard to inquire as to the laws for the prevention of cruelty to animals the above will no doubt prove to be both enlightening and interesting. It is the law introduced by Hon. W. McD. Green in the last Legislature and later enacted by that body. It shows very plainly that there can be protection for animals and that perhaps the reason why dumb brutes are allowed to suffer is that the law is not enforced.—Rock Hill Herald.

A Creeping Death.

Blood poison creeps up towards the heart causing death. J. E. Stearns, Belle Plaine, Minn., writes that a friend dreadfully injured his hand, which swelled up like blood poisoning. Bucklen's Arnica Salve drew out the poison, healed the wound, and saved his life. Best in the world for burns and sores. 25c. at The Kaufmann Drug Co's, drug store.

Lexington Soldiers.

The State, May 20.

Mr. S. L. Black is ill at his residence, 1723 Garvais street. He has long been a sufferer but recently has grown much worse. The living members of the Fifteenth South Carolina regiment, Kershaw's brigade, will remember Mr. Black as a valiant soldier. An instance of his bravery is told by a comrade. On July 3rd, 1863, during the second day's battle at Gettysburg, a federal regiment charged Kershaw's brigade and was repulsed. The repulse was so severe that the federal colonel, who was shot down, was left by his command about a hundred yards from the Confederate entrenchments. During a lull in the battle his cries for water were heard, and Mr. Black and Mr. Derrick, of Lexington, raising their canteens above their heads, and not heeding the protests of their comrades that they would be killed, ran to the succor of the wounded officer. The colonel drank one of the canteens dry and the other was left beside him. He begged the two Confederates to take a $10 greenback, but they declined, and amid cheers from both armies retired to their entrenchments. Both Derrick and Black had been wounded and knew the sufferings of a man in that condition without water.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy the Very Best.

"I have been using Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and want to say it is the best cough medicine I have ever taken," says Geo. L. Chubb, a merchant of Harlan, Mich. There is no question about its being the best, as it will cure a cough or cold in less time than any other treatment. It should always be kept in the house ready for instant use, for a cold can be cured in much less time when promptly treated. For sale by The Kaufmann Drug Co.

Lucky for Him.

"I was reading in the paper a short time ago," said Mrs. Enpeck, "about a poor man who was arrested on his wedding day and sent to the penitentiary for life. Wasn't that awful?" "Um—yes," answered Mr. Enpeck, meekly, "it was awfully lucky for him."
