Virginia Letter.

To the Editor of the Dispatch:

It is with a sad heart that I pick up my pen to write this morning. With trembling hands I opened a letter Saturday morning with black border to learn of the terrible sorrow that had befallen my sister's family at home. Our children broke down at the horrible death that had come to their cousin, Edgar Long. If we could only be there to drop a tear on his grave, and to mourn with the family. But Edgar was a dear, good boy, the pious son of pious parents. To all my friends at home: speak a kind word to my sister and her family in this hour of sorrow.

This letter leaves us well and right down at work, I preached five times last week, besides visited a great deal, met missionary societies, helped train children, etc.

We had a public exercise of the Children's Missionary Society here Sunday night. The church was full, and the children did well. All five of our children belong to it, and four had parts. Pearl is an officer of the organization. From first to last the children conducted the service, even making the appeal and collecting the offering, which was an encouraging one. We are encouraged with our church work. The secretary reported Sunday morning that the attendance in Sunday school for the last quarter was the best in his memory. The average was 103. We meet each Sunday. Still there is room for development.

I have been interested in reports of warm weather at home. This is a high place and it is cooler here than many points further north. I attended commencement at Salem, and I believe there is as much difference between here and there, though only 86 miles away, as between there and home. We made some fire to warm by last week. The thermometer went down to 43 and I have not seen it higher than 86 degrees this summer. The nights are very pleasant. Vegetables are fully as late as in Philadelphia. Beans are just now plentiful. Have no cabbage and tomatoes, and will have none for 3 or 4 weeks. My garden looks well, and is about as early as any in the place.

Tomorrow is my birthday and by invitation we dine out with Mr. Will Buck, whose birthday also it is. Love to all. S. C. Ballentine. Rural Retreat, Va., July 3, 1905.

Bent Her Double.

"I knew no one for four weeks when I was sick with typhoid and kidney trouble," writes Mrs. Annie Hunter, of Pittsburg, Pa., "and when I got better, although I had one of the best doctors I could get, I was bent double, and had to rest my hands on my knees when I walked. From this terrible affliction I was rescued by Electric Bitters, which restored my health and strength, and now I can walk as straight as ever." Guaranteed to cure stomach, liver and kidney disorders; at The Kaufmann Drug Co.'s drug store. Price 50 cents.

Uses Only White Labor.

An enterprise of no small import is the dairy farm, one mile from Kershaw, owned by John R. Baker. He is at present milking 18 head of Jersey cows that he values at from $50 to $75, while his entire herd numbers 43 head. He uses improved machinery; that is, cream separators, etc., shipping most of his products to the large hotels at Camden. He also runs an eight-horse farm with mules worth $200 a head. Last year he planted 31 acres in cotton from which he gathered 42 bales. This year he only has 20 acres in cotton. He never sells any cotton seed; is a large grain planter and uses a lot of machinery on his farm, and white labor exclusively.

Strange, Isn't It?

A woman sees a hat or bonnet in a milliner's window. It is in the latest style, so she determines to have that hat—or one just like it.

No use to try to dissuade her—she wants that kind of a hat! No other will suit her.

There she displays her will power, and probably does the same with everything she buys for herself or her family. She makes, as it were, a feminine "Declaration of Independence."

Is it not surprising, therefore, to find some few women who still allow their grocers to choose for them in important matters like food stuff?

In spite of the fact that grocers as a rule have long ago realized the necessity of catering to their customers' rather than their own desires, there are still a few of the other kind left, who show a marked inclination to persuade customers to take what they do not ask for, or desire.

Take Lion Coffee, for instance, the leader of all package coffees, an established favorite for over twenty-five years in millions of homes, on account of its absolutely pure and uniform quality.

Wouldn't you think it impossible that a single grocer can still exist who would oppose such an invincible argument of merit, by trying to persuade a customer to buy loose coffee in preference to Lion Coffee.

Loose coffee has no standard of quality—nobody can guarantee that it is even clean.

Of course, really independent and intelligent women know this, and so do up-to-date grocers, but if women were as particular about coffee as about hats, no kind of grocer could be without Lion Coffee.

Cholera Infantum.

Child Not Expected to Live from One Hour to Another, but Cured by Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

Ruth, the little daughter of E. N. Dewey, of Agnewville, Va., was seriously ill of cholera infantum last summer. "We gave her up and did not expect her to live from one hour to another, he says. "I happened to think of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and got a bottle of it from the store. In five hours I saw a change for the better. We kept on giving it and before she had taken the half of one small bottle she was well." This remedy is for sale by The Kaufmann Drug Co.

Frenchmen Cheer Men.

Paris, July 6—The unusual sight of a detachment of United States sailors and marines swinging through the central thoroughfares of Paris today aroused great interest and brought out an enthusiastic ovation from the crowds along the line of march. The American naval contingent numbered 500 men and presented a fine appearance as they emerged from the station. They were uniformed as a landing party, wearing the regulation gaiters and carrying rifles with fixed bayonets. They were escorted to the military school by a battalion of French infantry. All along the route the streets were lined with dense crowds eager to see the Americans. Women waved their handkerchiefs and miniature flags and there was a continuous shout of "Vive les Americans." The Americans made a most favorable impression by their sturdy bronzed appearance and the smartness of their movements.
