Autumnal Leaves.

Miss Annie Wolfe has returned home from an extended visit to her sister, Mrs. S. W. Henry, of Pendleton.

Several of our boys and girls attended the dedication of Andrew Chapel church, on the 29th of October. The occasion was a success notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather.

We have enjoyed a late fall which has enabled most of the farmers to finish their harvesting and a few have enjoyed some of spring's choicest fruits—the second crop this year—a beautiful bunch of raspberries. Eight large full ripe and seven green berries were broken from a vine in Mrs. F. M. Geiger's garden.

After a long and painful illness Mrs. Catherine Kaigler passed away on the 29th of October. Although she had lived to the age of 90 years with her loved ones they were greatly stricken when the end came. The many relatives and friends of Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Davis extend deep sympathies in their sorrow. Jack. Bakersville. S. C., Nov. 8, 1905.

Governor Heyward has decided to leave two constables in Oconee county to look after the enforcement of the dispensary law.

Thomas Godfrey was convicted at Spartanburg recently of the murder of his next door neighbor, Thomas Jones. The jury recommended mercy, and the defendant goes to the penitentiary for life.

Walter Thornhill shot and seriously wounded Russel Strickland in Greenville on Monday. Thornhill's wife some time ago deserted him and her two children and went to live with Strickland—and the shooting grew out of that.

Bilious Attack Quickly Cured.

A few weeks ago I had a bilious attack that was so severe I was not able to go to the office for two days. Failing to get relief from my family physician's treatment, I took three of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets and the next day I felt like a new man. H. C. Bailey, Editor of the News, Chapin, S. C. These tablets are for sale by The Kaufmann Drug Co.

W. S. Lloyd, a member of the Senior class of the University of Georgia at Athens, killed himself accidentally Sunday night while handling a pistol in his room. He was the son of a farmer of Fayette county.

If girls cultivate their dispositions as assiduously as they do their complexion there would be fewer old bachelors.

A Trip on the Congaree.

The State, Nov. 1.

Acting in the interest of all concerned, General Manager Withers took a party consisting of congressmen, government engineers and businessmen of this city down the Congaree yesterday on the steamboat "City of Columbia."

While the trip was a delightful outing, the beauties of the fall foliage from the changing tints of the willows at the water's edge to the brilliant colors of the sweet gums, hickory and poplar on the high hills, skirted by the winding stream, being particularly appreciated by panned-up city folk, it was not a picnic but a business jaunt.

The importance of water navigation is daily becoming more deeply impressed on those considering Columbia's future and the development of South Carolina. They realize that the navigation of the rivers between Columbia and Georgetown must henceforth be considered from a broader standpoint. It is the affair not only of Columbia and Georgetown, but of the State at large, and it contemplates not the operation of one boat between those two terminals, but of a half dozen boats that will develop a vast and rich territory which is now practically bottled.

During the drought that has prevailed for two months, the navigation of the Congaree has been difficult, at times impossible. The channel in many places is obstructed by snags, and sandbars have proved barriers at other points. The stoppage of developing traffic by such trivial impediments is intolerable and it was to show the congressmen and the engineers the easily surmountable difficulties that this trip down the river was made yesterday. There were in the party Congressman Lever and Ellerbe, Capt. G. P. Howell, U. S. engineer, who is in charge of all government river work in this section; Reid Whitford, with headquarters at Georgetown, assistant engineer; W. O. Whitescarver, assistant engineer in charge of the government work at Columbia; Mr. John M. Bates, connected with the Santee Lumber Company, and about a dozen of the business men of Columbia.

The party was conveyed in automobiles to the Granby landing and the City of Columbia cast off at 9:50 o'clock. The river was minutely inspected by the interested passengers, and although an excellent lunch was served and there were several sharp bends in the stream, there was never but one river in sight from either deck or pilot house. There were several guns and rifles on board and they were frequently used, but the few ducks that excited the sportsmen were at last accounts in the land of the living. The City of Columbia passed through the draw of the Southern railroad at Congaree at 4 o'clock and proceeded down to within a short distance of where the Congaree and Wateree unite to form the Santee. A mile or two from the confluence the snag boat Great Pee Dee was met at work, and after its inspection by the United States engineers the party returned to the railroad station at Congaree and took the night train for Columbia.

The view of the river opened the eyes of engineers and congressmen. They saw its possibilities and Columbians hope they appreciate its needs. Capt. Howell says that the matter of removing dangerous snags will have immediate attention and that a survey of the river from Columbia to its mouth, with the view of determining what is required in the way of permanent improvements, will be begun tomorrow. Congressman Lever has already demonstrated his active interest in this work, but the inspection of the Congaree gives him additional inspiration and ammunition. And Congressman Ellerbe, whose district is intimately affected, promises every assistance that he can render. Altogether this day on the Congaree was well spent.
