GREAT EXPOSITION OPENED BY ROOSEVELT

The great Jamestown Ter-Centennial Exposition opened Friday. President Roosevelt, the diplomatic naval and military representatives of thirty-seven of the nations of the world, and the governors of many states participated in the exercises. The exposition which will remain open until the 30th, of November, next, was not at all hindered by the unfinished condition of many buildings and the 30th anniversary of the first English settler in America was the most brilliant event in the history of expositions. From the firing of the sunrise salute of 300 guns by the U. S. army, through the picturesque beauty of the review of the international fleet of war vessels anchored in Hampton Roads, through the ceremonies of dedication at which the President spoke and down to a late hour when the chief executive repaired aboard the naval yacht Sylph to spend the night in the lower bay, the day was crowded with notable incidents.

The ceremonies of dedication were brief, the addresses of President Tucker, of the exposition and President Roosevelt were the only features. The latter at the conclusion of his address, pressed the golden button which formally marked the opening of the commemorative enterprise.

A Rusty Nail in His Lungs.

By using the X-ray apparatus, Dr. LeGrand Guerry has located and removed a five-penny cut nail, a little rusty, swallowed by little Arthur Boyer, 18 months old, and had found its way into the child's lungs. When the little fellow, who lives with his parents in Lexington county, not far from the town of Lexington, was brought to the Columbia hospital, he was suffering the most intense agony, but it seemed almost impossible to determine the cause of his strange illness. Only the Roentgen apparatus could show the location of the unusual foreign body.

The child was brought to the hospital Friday and the X-ray brought into use. It was seen immediately that an operation would have to be performed and the little patient was prepared for the operating room. Dr. Guerry performed the operation beautifully and in a very short while.

So perfect has been the child's recovery that today he is playing about the hospital grounds and will be entirely released from treatment in a few days.—Columbia Record, 30th.

Two Deaths in one Family.

Eastover, April 27.—This community was shocked on Saturday last by the death of Mrs. W. G. Haithcock and her child, little Dolly, aged about ten. The child had heart disease and was seized early in the day with a severe paroxysm. The mother, being in a weak condition, went to her assistance, to find that the attack had been fatal. Realizing the appalling issue, she fell over herself and died in a few moments leaving a young infant.

The double funeral and interment took place on Sunday afternoon at the Good Hope Baptist church, Rev. J. H. Tillinghast officiating. Much sympathy is felt for Mr. Haithcock, who at the time was absent from home.—The State.

ANOTHER HOMICIDE IN RICHLAND.

Mose Tucker, Colored, Killed by Former Coroner W. S. Green in Columbia Friday.

Richland county has another homicide to her credit. Friday morning at half-past 11 o'clock W. S. Green, former coroner of Richland county, shot and almost instantly killed Mose Tucker, a negro hack driver, in the fruit store of Peter Grites on Main street. The facts brought out at the coroner's inquest Friday night, summed up in a nut shell, are about as follows:

On Thursday night the negro carried a passenger, a man from Norway, to a residence near that of Green. Green run the hackman away and assaulted the passenger with a knife. A case was docketed—or was supposed to have been docketed—against Green, and he went to the police court Thursday morning, but upon arriving was informed that the case had been withdrawn, whereupon Green left and in going up town stopped in the store of Peter Grites. The negro, Mose Tucker, happened to be in the store at the time taking down an address with a pencil. Green immediately accosted him with the question: "Mose what did you mean last night?" and almost simultaneously, without giving the negro a chance to reply, drew his pistol and fired. The negro fell, but in a second or two again arose and walked out the back door where he fell dead without saying a word. The pencil and paper was still in the negro's hand.

Green gave himself up and is confined in the county jail. As yet no arrangements have been made for his release.

In Memory of Viola M. Lorick

Whereas, God in His all wise providence, has seen fit to remove from our midst Viola M. Lorick. Be it resolved,

1. That Irmo school has lost an intelligent and obedient pupil, a faithful student, a helpful classmate and a much loved schoolmate.
2. That she was gentle and beautiful in disposition, and we know she has gone to her reward.
3. Though deeply grieved, we bow in humble submission to the Divine will, having faith that the hand of God is in everything. One less at home, at school, around the playground; one more in heaven.
4. That a copy of these resolutions be furnished to the bereaved family and to the county paper.

Leaves have their time to fall,
And flowers to wither at the north wind's breath,
And stars to set—but all,
Thou hast all seasons for thine own,
Oh death!

"We know when moons shall wane,
When summer birds from far shall cross the sea;
When autumn's hue shall tinge the gold grain—
But who shall teach us when to look for thee?"

Is it when spring's first gale
Comes forth to whisper where the violets lie?
Is it when roses in our paths grow pale?
They have one season—all ours to die!"

Her teacher,
Her classmates,
Her schoolmates.

Irmo, S. C., April 26, 1907.

Not W. E. Perry.

The man recently caught in Washington, supposed to be W. E. Perry, wanted in this State for the murder of Mr. Langdon L. Boozar at Chester in 1905, and for whose arrest there is a standing reward of $1,000, was not Perry and has been released. The whereabouts of Perry are still unknown.

Lady Rural Carrier.

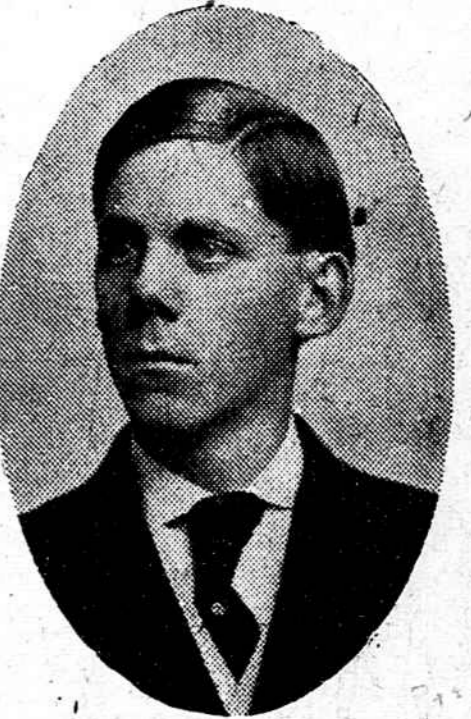

Orangeburg county can boast of one lady rural mail carrier. Miss Florence E. Livingston is the carrier on route No. 3 from North. Miss Livingston is a young lady of intelligence and does her work in all sorts of weather to the entire satisfaction of the people on her route as well as the post-office department.—Times and Democrat.

Lexington Again Honored.

B. J. Wingard, Son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Wingard, Second in State Oratorical Contest.

Lexington county has once again been honored. Mr. B. J. Wingard, the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Wingard of Lexington, was second in the State Oratorical Contest at Greenwood Friday night. There were nine contestants, Mr. W. W. Carson, of Wofford College, being first and B. J. Wingard, of the University of South Carolina, second.

Mr. Wingard's many Lexington friends are proud of the high mark he has made at Carolina, and predict for him great success in whatever field he may pursue. The following in The State, written by Eugene H. Blake, also a student at Carolina, will be read with interest:

BROOKS J. WINGARD.

"The University of South Carolina was represented by one of her best orators in the person of Mr. Brooks J. Wingard of Lexington.

Though a resident of this State since early childhood, Mr. Wingard was born in Virginia in 1884. His mother was a Miss Hutchinson, connected with the famous Daniel family of that State. His father is the Hon. B. J. Wingard, a prominent member of the Lexington bar.

Mr. Wingard was prepared for college at the Lexington Collegiate institute and entered the university in fall of '03. A member of the Clariosophic Literary, he has enjoyed honors at its hands and in turn has won for it many honors. He won the declaimer's medal offered by his society in '05. Won Roddey medal debate in '05 and the intersociety oratorship in '06 and represented his society in both the State and Southern preliminary contests this spring; banquet speaker at junior-senior banquet '06 and senior class orator for '07. He has taken an active interest in the Y. M. C. A. of the college, representing it at various intercollegiate conferences. He is now editor-in-chief of The Carolinian, and is engaged in getting out a spring number that will be perhaps the largest edition ever issued by a college magazine in the South.

Mr. Wingard was for several years business manager of the University Glee club, that will furnish music at the contest, and has done much to bring it up to its present efficient state."

Interesting Case.

One of the most interesting cases that has been tried in the Magistrate's court here in some time was that of the Rhea Live Stock Co., Columbia, vs. Eli Spires, in which the plaintiff took out attachment proceedings against the defendant, to receive a difference which was to have been paid in a mule trade, the principal question being, if the difference in trade (boot) was really part of the purchase money. Magistrate Derrick has decided in favor of the plaintiff, that the difference was part of the purchase money and the case will be carried to the higher court. Mr. Allen J. Green, of Columbia, represented the plaintiff and W. H. Sharpe, the defendant.
