He has not recovered from the shock but the only apparent injuries are a cut under the chin and slight abrasions of the nose and ear.

Something to Wash Down.

One day last July little Freddie and his mother went to visit the boy's cousin, Martha. The day being very warm, Martha served lemonade and cake. Freddie, who was very fond of cake, ate all of his piece before he had drunk any lemonade. Martha, noticing this, said:

"Freddie, drink some of your lemonade and it will wash the cake down."

Freddie took a little lemonade and sat looking longingly at the cake on the table and finally said:

"Please, Martha, can I have one more piece of cake, so as to have something to wash down with this lemonade?"—Judge's Library.

It Was Awful.

Quite So. Two members of the Princeton faculty during a recent hurried trip to New York were on a Broadway car when it was stopped by a blockade. As they were near their destination, they decided to get out and walk. The blockade was, however, soon lifted, and the car overtook them.

"When we left the car," said one of the "highbrows," who, by the way, has a bit of the Celt in him, "I thought we should get on better by getting off. But after all we should have been better off if we had stayed on."—Harper's Weekly.

Hard Luck. "They say that when Mr. and Mrs. Sproggins were in that shipwreck he actually fought to have his wife put in the first boat that was lowered. Then he remained and was almost the last man to leave the sinking vessel."

"Wasn't it too bad," remarked Mr. Henpeck, "that after taking such precautions he and his wife had to be restored to each other within three days?"—Chicago Record-Herald.

A Housecleaning Weapon. "He's awfully clever with a gun." "A good shot, eh?" "No. I don't mean that way." "What do you mean then?" "Why, he couldn't find the hammer yesterday, and he drove the tacks into two carpets with his new revolver."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.
