Swindlers Use Tillman's Name

Washington, D. C., Feb. 19.—Swindlers, it is alleged, have been using the name of Senator Tillman so adroitly recently that it was necessary to-day for him to make the matter public in the Senate, and to state that he had asked the postoffice department for a fraud order so that such operations might cease.

The matter is thus explained in Senator Tillman's own words: "Mr. President, in the last three days my attention has been called to a very adroit scheme of swindling in which my name is used as a decoy. Letters have come to me from Connecticut, Wisconsin, Virginia and Michigan, indicating the widespread manner in which the swindler's circulars have been sent out. This circular states that I have taken eleven quarters of Oregon land for myself and my nearest relatives. As a matter of fact, I have not invested one cent, nor have I located a single quarter section for myself or anyone. My attention was directed to these lands last September, and I began to investigate the present tenure and method of purchase. Finding the situation to be as it is. I have introduced the resolution here directing the department of justice to take steps to restore these lands to the public domain, so that purchasers can buy them. That is all. I will state further that I have called the attention of the postoffice department to this swindle and asked that a fraud order be issued. I make this statement on the floor of the Senate for the purpose of warning the people of the country to keep them from being inveigled into sending money for the purpose of playing this game."

Worth a Fortune; Died in His Little Shack.

Possessing a fortune of at least $150,000, John McMillan, aged 86 years, died a few days ago in a hovel in the outskirts of Chattanooga, Tenn. He had for years lived in apparent poverty. When away from his shack he invariably carried a chip market basket, which it has been learned since his death contained cash and papers worth over $100,000. At one time he owned a great deal of real estate but six years ago his son committed suicide after which the old man converted most of his property into cash. So far as known he left no will.
