Free Bridge Proposition.

Mr. N. O. Pyles is meeting with much success in his efforts to secure signatures to the petition for a free bridge over the Congaree and the Broad rivers. Each day adds new names of freeholders to the list of those who desire that an election shall be ordered to vote on the question of an issue of bonds not to exceed $75,000, for the purpose indicated.

The only difficulty Mr. Pyles experiences in his work is in finding the people he wishes to see. Only freeholders are eligible to sign, and during the day he finds few of these at home. Some of them work at places where he can not well reach them, and some who own property in the county live elsewhere. Practically every one eligible to whom the petition is presented signs it—The State, 20th.

Traspass Notice.

This is to notify all persons not to trespass upon our lands, by fishing, hunting, or in any manner whatsoever. The law will be rigidly enforced against all violators of this notice.

Orchestral Oversight.

The snare drummer happened to catch a selection that called for the use of half a dozen or more instruments. To make the shift from one to another he had to hustle in a fashion that might have impressed persons sitting near. When he had finished the lively operation he was puffing and blowing and the perspiration was coming out in streams. A man just outside the orchestra rail leaned forward and, pointing to the score, remarked:

"That was good work, old man, but you missed one place."

"I did!" responded the drummer in surprise. "Why, I thought I played everything that came my way."

"No," the other resumed, "you didn't do everything, and I saw the leader glance at you. Right there, in the middle of that measure, is a place where it says you should have gone down cellar and shaken the furnace, and you didn't pay any attention to it!"—Providence Journal.

Suited His Theory.

"When I hear of a new theory," said a scientist, "I am reminded of the two geologists. At a certain summer resort one brilliant afternoon the younger geologist from his bedroom window saw the older man rolling a great rock down the side of a mountain.

"He watched the work for nearly three hours. The old geologist, thin and little and white whiskered, had a hard time of it to guide that rock almost as big as himself. But he persevered. He got the rock down where he wanted it just as the dinner bell rang.

"The younger man said to him wonderingly at dinner:

"What were you doing with that rock this afternoon, professor?"

"Why," the professor answered, "the fact is the thing was 600 feet too high to suit my theory."

Death of a Good Man.

Mr. Jonah Hite, one of the best citizens in the county, died at his home about one mile south of Batesburg, on Friday morning after an illness of about a year. Mr. Hite was many years in the mercantile business at Batesburg and was highly successful.

He is survived by his wife and three sons as follows: Mr. Thomas Hite, of Augusta, and Messrs. E. J. and Milton Hite, of Batesburg.

His remains were laid to rest on Saturday in the presence of a large assemblage of relatives and friends.

The Law Being Violated.

It is stated, on good authority, that some of the merchants in this county are violating the law in reference to selling pistol and rifle cartridges. The law requires that a licence of $25.00 per annum be paid. The penalty for violating this law is a fine of not exceeding $500, or imprisonment for one year, or both in the discretion of the court.

Some of the merchants have paid the licence to the commissioners and it is neither just nor right that others be allowed to sell without complying with the law. It is said that an investigation will be made, and those who have not paid will be brought to account.

The Income Tax.

County Auditor Dent a few weeks ago, following the instructions of the comptroller general, mailed several income tax blanks to different taxpayers in the county. Some of these blanks have been returned, some have not, and it is highly important that these blanks be returned at once, properly filled out, so that the auditor can make his report to the comptroller general.
