Bride of Few Weeks Sees Husband Drown.
 G. B. Orr, attorney for the Santa Fe railroads at Atchison, Kan., was drowned at La Jolla beach last week in sight of his bride of a few weeks. The Orrs were on their honeymoon. Orr was lying on the beach watching the breaker as they came toward him. The tide was rising and he remarked to his bride that he would lie there until the waves carried him out. A few minutes later a breaker caught him up and carried him out to sea. He was caught up by the undertow and his body has not been recovered.
 Mrs. Orr is near death.

The Secret of Long Life.
 A French scientist has discovered one secret of long life. His method deals with the blood. But long ago millions of Americans had proved Electric Bitters prolongs life and makes it worth living. It purifies, enriches and vitalizes the blood, rebuilds the wasted nerve cells, imparts life and tone to the entire system. Its a godsend to weak, sick and debilitated people. "Kidney trouble had blighted my life for months," writes W. M. Sherman, of Cushing, Me., "but Electric Bitters cured me entirely." Only 50c at Kaufmann Drug Co., Derrick Drug Store, S. Moccasin on Hen's Nest.
 Mrs. Sallie Brown, of Indian Hill township, went out into her yard not long since to look after her hens. On a nest she saw what she took to be a strange looking hen—Mrs. Brown does not see well, without her glasses—and attempted to "shoo" the hen off. The supposed hen did not like the "shooing" process and began to peck at Mrs. Brown. She went into the house and called her daughter out to run the strange hen off the nest and when the daughter arrived on the scene instead of a hen on the nest she found an immense highland moccasin coiled and ready for business.
 The wonder is the snake did not strike Mrs. Brown when she was trying to make it get out of the nest.
 The snake was on the lookout for a young chick for dinner, but was despatched before he had made his meal.—Abbeville Press and Banner.

Choked to Death.
 At Milwaukee, Wis., his neck wedged between the pickets of a fence, the body of William Lenz, aged 45 years, for thirty years a coachman for August F. Gallun, a rich tanner, was found in front of his employer's residence a few days. Lenz evidently had been strangled. The head projected between the pickets and the arms were resting upon the fence. The knees had crumpled from under him, leaving the body suspended by the neck. The police say he probably leaned over the fence to rest a while, fell asleep and as his throat caught between the pickets, slowly strangled.

The best remedy we know of in all cases of Kidney and Bladder trouble and the one we always can recommend, is DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills. There are imitations placed upon sale to deceive you. Get DeWitt's. Insist upon them, and if your dealer cannot supply you—refuse anything else in place of them. Sold by Kaufmann Drug Co.

Ten Cents Reward.
 M. Mohlenbrock, Mayor of Campbell Hill, Ill., mill owner, banker and real estate man, was at Murphysboro, Ill., a few nights ago and dropped his wallet, containing $25,000 in money and negotiable papers. Frank Will, a youth employed by the Mobile and Ohio railroad as coach cleaner, found the wallet and restored it to Mohlenbrock, who rewarded the boy's honesty by handing him a dime. Mohlenbrock had walked from the train to a hotel, nearly a mile distant, and had not missed the wallet when Will called him up by telephone and notified him of finding it in a car.

"BROTHER, FAREWELL!"
 Written by Simeon Corley on the death and burial of a kinsman, Christian, and son of Temperance, (Capt. Thomas Caughman,) who died August 27, 1852. Republished by request of his only surviving sister, Mrs. Ellen C. Corley.

"Brother, farewell!" thy race is run,
 And all thy labor here is done—
 Earth's cold clods in silence rest
 Above thy noble, manly breast;
 Rest in peace! thy spirit lives
 With Him whose hand each favor gives,
 While we, in sadness, mourn our loss,
 And bear still farther on the cross.
 When spring again shall bring her flowers,
 Bathed in bright, celestial showers,
 And zephyrs wait the rich perfume
 In sweet profusion 'round thy tomb,
 We'll cull the fairest, and we'll strew
 Them o'er thy grave like morning dew
 While mingling prayers and fragrance rise,
 To meet thee, blest one, in the skies.

When summer's sun shall send his beams
 To kiss the waves of limpid streams,
 And warbling birds their strains repeat,
 Of praise to God, in accents sweet;
 We, too, will praise our God and sing
 Around thy tomb our evening hymn.
 When mellow fruit, and ripening grain
 Shall follow summer's golden train,
 And autumn's winds in fury sweep,
 From parent stems the fading leaf;
 And feathered minstrels wing their flight,
 Far, far away from wintry night,
 We'll plume our faith, and fly at even,
 To meet thee in yon azure heaven.

When winter palely drest shall come,
 And spread her mantel o'er thy tomb,
 And stay the streamlet's dancing wave,
 And bind it in an icy grave,
 We'll sigh 'mid desolation spread,
 Far o'er the living and the dead—
 And look, in faith, in hope and love,
 To Him who rules in realms above.

To free us from each earthly dream
 And burst again each frozen stream;
 And send us light and warmth to bring,
 That glorious, bright, unfading spring,
 Which lights our pathway to the skies,
 And lures us upward as we rise,
 To meet thee there and find a rest
 Among the throng of mortals blest.

Where mortal ills shall come no more,
 To mar the pleasures of that shore,
 Where Jusus reigns—and God supreme
 Shall be our everlasting theme!
