At W. D. Bates'

There is a mighty big scramble, a mighty rush, a mighty sale at the store of W. D. Bates in Columbia. It is the happy Christmas season—a season when everybody is wont to make merry—and this season is certainly in evidence at W. D. Bates' store. It is a stupendous sale of all that is new and stylish in Christmas wearing apparel for men, women and children. Ladies' suits, skirts, coats, and everything in dress goods and silks, dry goods and notions, shoes, hats, millinery, etc. Remember, too, that "Bates sells it for less" all the year 'round, and now that a special sale is on, the prices are extremely low. Go to Bates for your Christmas goods.

Mules! Mules!, Mules!!!

By reference to the display advertisement, it will be seen that Matthews & Bouknight, Leesville, have just received a car load of fine Kentucky mules. When you buy stock from this well known firm you run no risk, for their guarantee goes with every transaction.

The "Studebaker" Isn't a High-Priced Wagon

When you consider the quality of the material, and its splendid construction, The price is very reasonable, and lower than any maker could produce a wagon of anything like the same quality for in anything but enormous quantities.

70,000 Studebaker WAGONS

are made and sold every year. Only the purchase of materials in great quantities enables the makers of the Studebaker wagon to market it at the price they do. Talk about value, why there is no wagon made that has the value in it that the Studebaker has. If you like to get your money's worth, buy a Studebaker.
