Beloved Young Woman Has Passed Away.

Mrs. Annie Elizabeth Daley Halthiwanger, the beloved young wife of Mr. D. R. Halthiwanger, assistant editor of the Dispatch, died at her home on South Main street on last Wednesday evening at 8:25 o'clock, after an illness extending through a period of several weeks. Her death was nevertheless a great shock to her family and friends, and a dark gloom spread over the whole community when it was whispered from one to another that the beautiful life was no more.

Eight years ago she was married to D. R. Halthiwanger, who, with two bright sons—Rufus Daley, aged six, and William Charles, aged three—survive.

Here she played as a child, developed into beautiful girlhood; here she married and helped to establish a home; it was here that her busy life was spent, her battles fought, her faithful service rendered to the world. In this dearest of all places to her, she lies down at length to sleep and rest. Beautifully appropriate such a resting place, where her loved ones sleep.

To her the struggle and burden bearing of earth are ended, and we confidently trust that like one who awakes from a troubled dream she has awakened to see life's endless morning break and knows herself at home with loved ones, missed from earth, safe about her. Her home instincts were strong, and her affection for friends and loved ones was tender and abiding.

Among us all she ranked always as a woman of culture, refinement, sympathy, a kind neighbor, devoted mother, a loving and dutiful wife and a true friend, and with all a woman of heroic mould in bravely meeting the stern requirements and often the disappointments of life.

Her remains were laid to rest in St. Stephen's cemetery on Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock, with impressive services conducted from the church by her pastor, the Rev. T. S. Brown, in the presence of a large congregation of sorrowing relatives and friends. The following gentlemen acted as pallbearers: Congressman A. F. Lever, Frank W. Shealy, W. D. Dent, Alfred J. Fox, Samuel J. Leaphart and W. P. Roof, Jr.

Gone from our sight, but because life and love are stronger than death she is ours still. She is still the mother of the dear children, upon whom she doted with such clinging fondness, and the companion still of him who mourns earth's greatest loss, and may she not by this very transaction wield over them a stronger force for goodness and truth than before.

Please Pay Up.

We want to urge upon our subscribers the importance of paying the printer. We have carried a number of names on our list through the dull summer months, and now we feel that our efforts should be appreciated. Besides, we need the money to meet our own obligations. A dollar or two does not amount to a great deal, but in the aggregate it means a lot to the publisher. Please pay up now. Cotton is a good price and better times are ahead.

Notice.

Snelgrove Bros. have two suction pits in first-class running order, and guarantee satisfaction. Bagging and ties furnished at lowest prices. They charge 25c per hundred pounds. 47

LEXINGTON, S. C.

Confederate Infantry.

To the Editor of The Dispatch.
The State of South Carolina has provided a most comfortable home for veterans, who have no home of their own. It is beautifully located. It is well kept, and its rules are easy and the inmates have perfect freedom to come and go as they please. They forfeit no rights as citizens, and no pensions as soldiers.

Food, clothes and shelter is given. Medical attention and nursing for the sick of the very best. If you have a man who needs this home let the chairman know and he will send you a blank form to fill out, which is very simple. Write soon before the vacancies are filled.

If your paper would like to help some needy soldier, please publish this.
David Cardwell,
Chairman.

Columbia, Sept. 10.

Mrs. Emeline Mack.

On Saturday, the 10th of September, Mrs. Emeline Mack, after a conflict with life's battles for nearly 85 years, yielded to death's demands and gave up her life and entered into the reward of those who have the promise beyond life's troubles and when these fleeting years are all over. She had been a constant sufferer for several months and carefully and tenderly cared for in the home of her son, R. E. Mack, 'til Saturday morning, the 10th, she peacefully and quietly came to her eventful end.

On Sunday following, at 11 o'clock, she was laid to rest in the Swansea cemetery beside her husband, John Mack, who had preceded her about 30 years.

She was the daughter of Nicholas Coleman and born and lived her entire life near where she now rests. Her family on both sides have been an old line succession of the Baptist faith, and the text of Rev. Rodgers of Paul's testimony to the Corinthians Christians of the blessed realities of the resurrection and of the unending happy life beyond the grave was a comforting and timely subject with which to end this life that had lived over 80 years a consistent member of the Baptist church.

In her life she gave birth to twelve children, ten boys and two girls. Three of her sons were soldiers in the Confederate army, one of whom, Hiram, was killed at Cold Harbor, in Virginia. To these children have been born 103 children and grand children. She was born February 27th, 1827, and died September 10th, 1910.
