Wednesday, August 30, 1911.

G. M. HARMAN, Editor and Publisher
D. R. HALTIWANGER, Assistant Editor.

Entered at the Post Office at Lexington, S. C., as second class matter.

CIRCULATION 2,300.

Notice Subscribers,

A Red X on your paper denotes your subscription expires in the issue crossed. A Blue X shows that you are in arrears. Please make settlement.

By the way, what has become of Col. Thomas B. Felder?

Who said that Sam Leaphart and Lem Sox had the hockworm?

Lexington leads all other towns in pretty girls.

All roads lead to Lexington—the garden spot of the universe.

For "firstclass" barbecues, Lexington county is in a class by herself.

Lexington should tribute her population until the next census, and she will if everybody will work together.

Lexington will soon be as a city set upon a hill—the electric lights are coming.

When the telephone poles are removed from Main street Lexington will have the prettiest street of any town in the State. Now see!

There has not been any sensational happenings around the State capitol during the past week—so far, as has been reported. Gov. Blease is evidently taking a rest.

Did you ever go out of your way to speak to or make happy an aged man or woman? If you did you know how much the act was appreciated, and you are forever rewarded with the memory of their smiles and happiness.

The husband, who honestly tries to be kind and gentle to his wife and seeks to please and cheer her up, does not come into the house with muddy shoes and does not lean his head back against the wall; and his wife wouldn't stand such conduct, unless she was as untidy as her husband.

It has been stated by Postmaster General Hitchcock that the federal postal establishment will become self-sustaining before the close of another fiscal year. If this can be accomplished, penny postage for first-class mail will become a fact. Indeed, Mr. Hitchcock is almost prepared to assert that one-cent postage is in sight as a practical business proposition.

Some of our regular readers may feel inclined to criticize us for carrying so many advertisements. Even if we would not need the money coming from these "ads," we would nevertheless insert one and all, and that for our readers' own benefit. A keen and thorough newspaper reader will study the advertisements as well as the editorials. These two departments of your newspaper are the most helpful intellectually. The "ads" especially will inform you what commercial progress is being made in your own community. They contain a great deal of information not found in the news columns. Read them, and you will be surprised.

Just a word to our subscribers. The cotton season is here—the season when nearly everybody has money (except the newspaper man), and right at the beginning of this season we want to impress upon our subscribers, especially those who make it a rule to settle for their paper when they sell cotton; that we will greatly appreciate their remembrance this year. We have always made it a rule to accommodate our friends—our subscribers—by carrying their subscriptions through the summer months. However, the postal laws will not allow us to carry a subscription over one year; and this, of course, forces us to stop many papers that we would otherwise be glad to continue. We hope, then, that every subscriber will bear us in mind when they sell their first bale of new cotton.

It is indeed refreshing to know that the county board of commissioners will soon erect another steel bridge across the Saluda river. We rejoice in the fact that the county is in a most prosperous condition; that the people everywhere, from one end of the county to the other, are experiencing a season of unprecedented prosperity. Our farmers are learning not to complain over small matters; and, happily, we are coming into our own.

Lexington is just now getting to the point where she should have been several years ago. This is a progressive age—an age of improvements in all lines of industry—and Lexington is keeping pace with the sister counties in this wonderful and rapid development. When this bridge is completed let us keep going forward as rapidly as our finances will permit until every bridge and ferry in the county is made free.

New Advertisement.

Attention is called to the advertisement of D. E. Hammond, of Gilbert, in this issue. He carries a complete line of general merchandise—everything to be found in a first-class store. He is calling attention this week to his large stock of furniture, buggies, wagons, etc. Call to see him for your wants. He will treat you right.

Mrs. Jas. L. Huffstetler.

Mrs. Jas. L. Huffstetler, aged about 70 years, died at her home near Piney Woods church on Saturday, and her remains were laid to rest in the Piney Woods churchyard on Sunday, the Rev. E. J. Sox performing the last sad rites. The deceased is survived by her aged husband and a number of children, all grown.

A Card of Thanks.

We hereby express our sincere thanks to all who have lent a helping hand during the sickness, death and burial of our beloved companion and mother. Kind friends, if the world were ours to pay you with, it would not satisfy our aching hearts. God's blessings alone can satisfy. May He lead you in such a way that you may enjoy that heavenly rest.
J. C. Lindler and Family.

Big Sunday School Picnic and Educational Rally.

There will be a Sunday school picnic and big educational rally at Hulon school house, near Baxter, on next Saturday, September 2. In the forenoon Sunday school addresses will be made by Col. E. L. Asbill, of Leesville, and Dr. E. C. Ridgell, of Batesburg. In the afternoon State Superintendent of Education John E. Swearingen, County Superintendent of Education A. D. Martin, Prof. D. W. Daniel, of Clemson college, and Prof. W. H. Hand, of the University of South Carolina, will speak on education. E. A. McGregor, in charge of the government's station at Batesburg, will close with an agricultural address. The Hulon school is one of the foremost schools in the county, having been awarded a number of prizes for making the greatest improvements. It will be a big day for the people of that entire section and a large crowd is expected to be in attendance.
