Election Results.

Much interest was felt in last Tuesday's election in several states for the reason that the results were supposed to forecast in some degree what the presidential chances of 1912 would be.

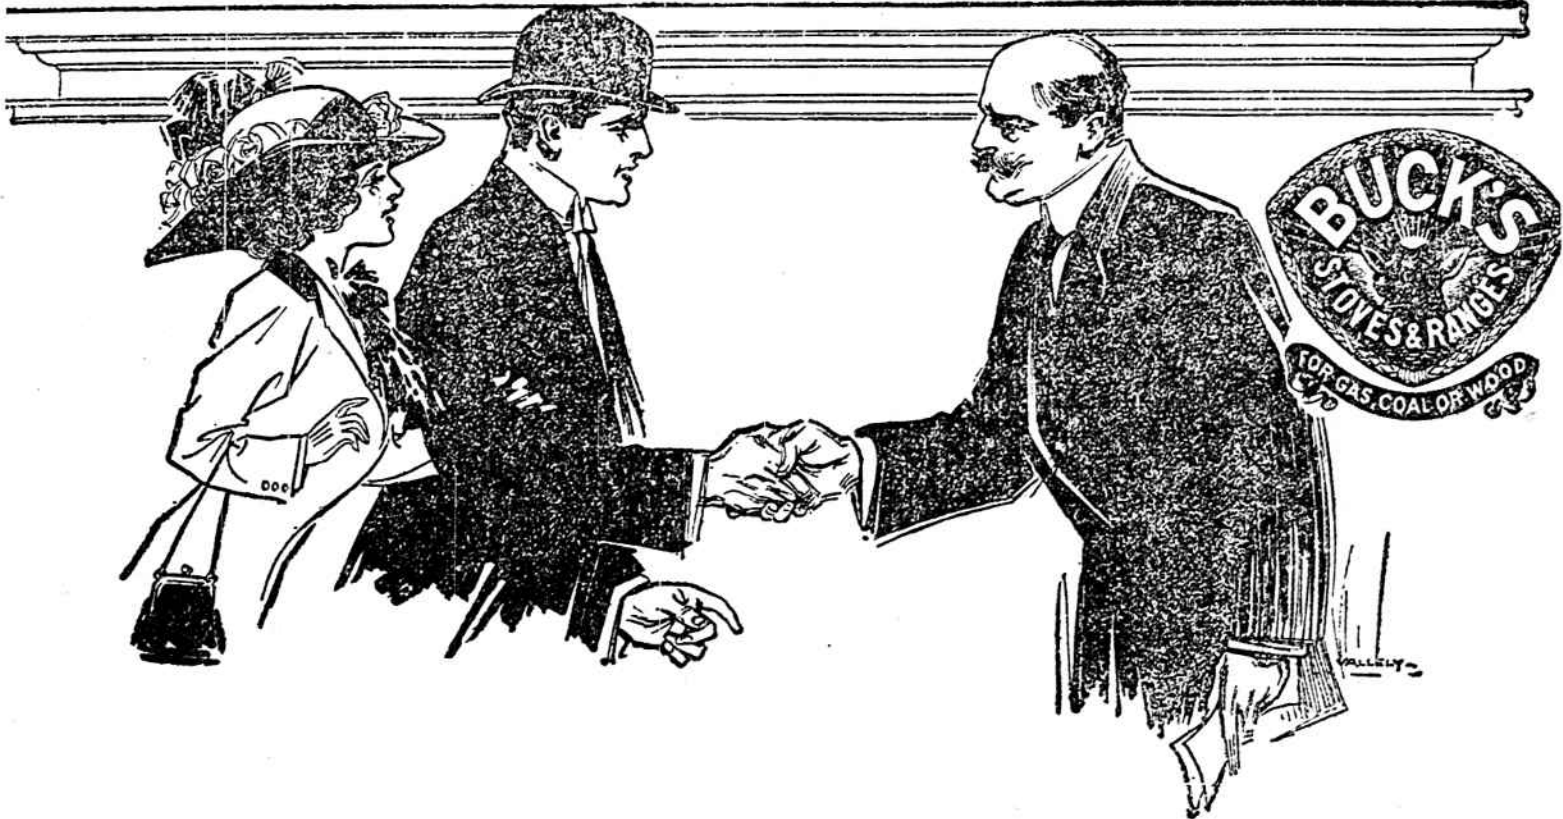

In Massachusetts Eugene Foss, Democrat, was reelected governor, but by a majority smaller by 12,000 than that of two years ago.

Rhode Island remains Republican. New York elected a Republican majority in the state legislature of about 30. In New York city Tammany candidates were elected, but by reduced majorities.

Mississippi elected a Democratic governor and state and other officers, as a matter of course.

In New Mexico—its first state election—a Republican is elected governor, and the legislature is Republican, ensuring two Republican senators.

Kentucky comes back in line, Jas. B. McCreary, Democrat, being elected governor with an entire democratic state ticket.
