THIRD ANNUAL CORN SHOW BIG SUCCESS.

J. A. Eleazer Wins First Prize With 147 Bushel Yield—The Other Winners.

That Lexington soil will produce corn equal to that of the other counties of South Carolina was amply proven on Friday by the large number of exhibits at the third annual corn show, which was held under the aus pices of the Lexington County Corn Growers' Association, With a yield of 147 bushels, J. A. Eleazer, of the famous Dutch Fork section, won the cash prize of $25 offered by Congress man Lever. With a production of 187 bushels, L. K. Eleazer, of the same community, carried off the second brize, a ton of guano, given by the L. D Sullom Co., of Batesburg.

In the boys' contest, which was inaugurated by the Boys' Corn Club, J.

H. Lowman, of Ballentine, won the first prize of $25, which was given by the Lexington Savings Bank, he having produced 85 1-2 bushels one acre.
Ralph Hendrix, of Lexington, raised 88 1-6 bushels, and was awarded the ton of guano given by the Matthews & Bonknight Co., of Leesville. Raymond Hendrix, of Lexington, won the third prize, ten dollars, given by Dr.
J. J. Wingard, of Lexington, and the Citizens' Bank of Batesburg. He produced 87 1-4 busnels.

For the best ten-ear exhibit, J. M. Lowman, of Irmo, won the first premium, 500 pounds of cottonseed meal, given by the Batesburg Cotton Oil Co. S. E. Lowman, of Irmo, was given the second prize, 12 months' subscription to the Leesville News and the Progressive Farmer. The third prize, 12 months' subscription to the Batesburg Enterprise, was won by J. A. Eleaser.

Prof. Her Jen, of Clemson College, delivered a strong address, as did Prof. Ira W. Williams, of the United States farm demonstration work. Messrs. G. A. Derrick and James W. Shealy, who have charge of the demonstration work in this county, made brief addresses. T. C. Callison, Esq., Dr. E.

ard also spoke.

The association passed resolutions of thanks to the various papers in the county for their help in pushing the work of the corn growers; also to those who gave the prizes, and to the

C. Ridgell and Col. J. Brooks Wing-speakers of the day.

Ata meeting of the Association held immediately after the prizes were awarded, Dr. E. C. Ridgell, of Batesburg, was re-elected president, and J. A. Barre, of Lexington, was re-elected secretary.

J. E. Haltiwanger, for Com.

CONSIDER THE GROUCH.

E wears no simulated smile
At every time and place.
Sometimes you see for half a mile
The frown upon his face.
He isn't much at shaking hands:
His manner's sharp and shortIn fact, he scarcely understands
The way to be a sport.

He very seldom buys a drink
Or blows the tunch for smokes.
He seems to want to spend his chink
Upon his wife and folks.
The merry grafters call him "close;"
The lushers say he's "tight."
They dub him groueby, sour, morose,

And doubtless they are right.

But when you're broke and need a friend,
Why, he's right there, you bet!
He'll stick right with you to the end
Through trouble, woe and debt.
He'll swear at you most heartily.
But stake you when you're flat.
It's pretty good, it seems to me.
To have a friend like that.

He loves his children and his wife,
And, though his face is grim
And though he doesn't grin through life,
His friends all swear by him.
His workers love his very frown
And for his goodness vouch,
And—well, I'll let you put me down
As one who loves the grouch.

William Crout.

William Crout departed 'his life November 23, 1911, aged 32 years, five months and five days. He leaves an aged widow, 7 children, 47 grand children, 55 great grand-children, with a wide circle of other relatives and friends.

He served through the Civil war in Co. K. Two nties have regiment. Returning from that fierce conflict he spent the remainder of his life in quietness and peace.

Brotl: Croat was a lifeloug and faithful member of Nazareth Lutheran church. He was a kind husband and father, a peaceable citizen, a devout christian.

We laid his body to rest in the family cemetery to await the return of the Lord.
