When we hear nothing we say nothing.

Lexington is an ideal place for the home seeker.

Opportunity is knocking at every man's door. Will he seize and make the most of it.

If you want to find a profitable investment for your surplus capital investigate the claims of Lexington first. They are very attractive.

The Lexington Enterprise made its appearance January 1, 1913. It is a neatly printed six column quarto and is published by the Enterprise Pub. Co., Inc. Mr. John Bell Towill is the editor and manager. The Dispatch greets its neighbor.

Lexington, the home of opportunity and great possibilities. Persons seeking desirable sites for home building should first investigate the claims of Lexington before deciding to locate elsewhere. There is no better place on earth, nor none that offers so many inducements for the investment of capital and such attractive propositions for labor than Lexington.

Now that our Senior is back in harness and with the assistance of his long experience and ripe judgment in newspaper making we propose to make the Dispatch a better paper and a more welcomed visitor into the homes of the people of Lexington than ever before. This is no idle boast, but the living truth. Watch and see.

We are still of the opinion that one of the great needs of Lexington is an active, working Civic League. With the ladies of the town thoroughly organized into such a league we would soon see a decided improvement in civic and health conditions. For proof that such an organization is needed in Lexington we have only to glance into some of the back-yards as we pass along the streets, as well as notice the waste paper and trash which accumulates on our main business thoroughfare. There should be receptacles before every store as well as dwelling for the placing of this waste and debris so that the scavenger cart (if we have one and if we have not, we should have one right away), can remove it each morning. Let us all lend a helping hand in making beautiful Lexington more beautiful.

Columbia's Opportunity.

The government has been since the memory of man ranneth not to the contrary expended millions of dollars each year for the improvement of the rivers and harbors of the country. All to do is to dig a 2x4 ditch and then interest the immediate representative in congress in the improvement (?) and the next thing $10,000 or $15,000 is appropriated. But here is a meritorious proposition of great possibilities of development and if carried through successfully, it will be of incalculable benefit to a large portion of the State, and we hope to see the day when ocean going vessels will come up to Columbia, and load and unload their passengers and freight, at or near the foot of Gervais street.

The vessel will enter the canal at its mouth, and come up to the city. A handsome appropriation for this purpose and the deepening of the channels of the Congaree, and the Santee, can easily be secured, if the Chamber of Commerce and the business interest of Columbia get busy. No doubt South Carolina's delegation in Congress lend a helping hand and give their influence to this laudable undertaking if they were urged to do so by those more directly interested for while Columbia would be greatly benefited by the completion of this important undertaking but Lexington, in fact about two-thirds of the State of South Carolina would share in that benefit to a greater or less extent in one way or another. The saving in freight is almost beyond estimation, which in turn would mean a considerable reduction in the price of commodities to the consumer. We throw this out a suggestion—that's all.

BIG CORN SHOW.

The Fifth National Corn Exposition at Columbia.

SIX ATTRACTIVE FEATURE DAYS

The Exposition Will Continue Two Weeks Commencing on January 27.

Tuesday Will be South Carolina Day. School for Prize Winners.

Columbia, S. C., January 2.—(Special.) With six feature days, each carrying a special programme of addresses by distinguished speakers, the opening week of the Fifth National Corn Exposition will offer a splendid variety of topics of especial interest to every visitor. This great agricultural event, stressing every phase of agricultural progress, and the culmination of two years' careful planning and preparation, will open on the 27th of this month. With only three weeks remaining before the buildings will be thrown open to the public, the hundreds of details are rapidly nearing final perfection.

The National Corn Exposition will continue two weeks, closing on February 8th. Like the first week, the second week will have a number of feature days, but it will also be characterized by conferences on rural life and community work, which are expected to prove of great benefit to all visitors interested in the social development of the rural community.

Monday, January 27th, will be strikingly celebrated in a significant manner as the Opening Day of the Exposition, Tuesday will be South Carolina Day, when special events representative of this State will be featured. Wednesday will be National Live Stock Day, Thursday, National Farmers' Union Day, and Friday National Educational Day. On each of these days there will be special addresses by prominent speakers on pertinent topics. Saturday will be Boys' Day, marking the close of the Exposition School for Prize Winners, to be conducted during the first week of the Exposition.

The programme for the second week is rapidly being completed, and the full list of speakers for the two weeks will be announced in the near future.

Related Locals.

During the progress of the fire on the 26th of December last, we lost our note book and as a consequence several interesting news items escaped our memory last week. Among them were the Sunday school Christmas trees at the Baptist, Methodist and Lutheran churches, as well as the one at Hebron Methodist church. These were all very enjoyable affairs and the exercises were intensely interesting. The scholars, teachers and superintendents of the several Sunday schools, as well as the pastors of the different churches, were liberally remembered by dear old Santa Claus with appropriate and suitable gifts. The programmes were appropriate for day of sacred memories when the angels announced to the shepherds on Judea's rugged hills, "Fear not: for, behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people. For unto you is born this day, in the City of David Saviour which shall be called Christ the Lord."

We mention these trees at this time because our attention has been called to our failure to do so by several interested persons.

Each ingredient is chosen for its positive healing and curative qualities. Foley Kidney Pills are the best medicine you can buy for kidney and bladder troubles. Mrs. J. M. Fuddle, Lyons, La., says: 'I took Foley's Kidney Pills and they entirely cured me.'"

Horse Thief Caught.

Elmer Hexler, the young white man who stole a horse and buggy from Mr. J. W. Goodman, of Swansea, was captured in Fairfield by Sheriff Hood. Hexler confessed to being a horse thief. The capture was the result of the prompt action in the matter by Sheriff Sim J. Miller of this county, who was hot on the trail of the fugitive. The thief gave himself away when he offered to sell the horse, buggy and harness for $10. Hexler is in jail and the outfit has been turned over to its rightful owner, Mr. Goodman, upon the payment of the $25 reward offered by him.

The drinking vessels should be thoroughly cleaned by scalding once or twice a week during hot weather.

Wind Storm.

Very high winds prevailed in Lexington all of Thursday night, all day Friday and up to the early hours of Saturday morning when the winds lulled and died away. The storm came from north of west and was preceded by a heavy down pour of rain. Some say that in the earlier stages of the storm the wind reached a velocity of between forty-five and fifty miles an hour and there are some who go away beyond these figures. Be this as it may, however, dwelling shook and rocked, trees uprooted, fencing blown and much damage was done to the telephone system. Some of our people were so frightened at its violence that they got up and dressed so as to be ready to leave their homes in case of necessity. We have heard of no damage to life, but it was scary times. The storm was general throughout the South, and from whence it came and whether it went we know not.

The Agony is Over.

The question of what Judge will preside at the January term of court is agitating the local bar. On account of the resignation of Judge Copes, who was to preside at the coming term of court here, there is a vacancy and no Judge has as yet been named to fill it but there is time enough yet for this to be done and we need have no fears concerning the holding of court. Since the above was put in type the announcement has been made that Hon. Frank B. Gary has been appointed and commissioned as Special Judge to preside over the approaching term of Court for this county. The agony is now over.
