BY T. P. S.

Time has sped away, dear Charlie, Still the balmy breezes blow O'er the hills of "Old Saluda," Where we rambled years ago; When the sunny days of boyhood Swept like summer clouds along, And the valley and the wildwood, Echo'd with our merry song; When we us'd to run foot-races O'er field, and mead and hill, and anglid in the shallow places For little fishes in the rill.

Swiftly thro' my mind, "Dear Charlie," Fly the forty years ago; Fifting like a fairy's pinion, With its evanescent glow; When our youthful hearts were beating To a loving music chime; And the thrill of gushing gladness. Springing up we knew not how; Never ting d with aught of sadness-Custing sunshine o'er the brow.

Often do I think, "Dear Charlie," Of the lovely, bushy bank; Of the crimson little cluster Mid the rushes long and dark : Where, whene'er we went a netting, We would rest at eventide. On the rocky ledges, jutting From the booky dingle side. Watch the swallow on the wing, And the squirrel on a bough; And listen to the farm boy As he whist'ld at the plough.

Often do I think, "Dear Charlie," Of that shadow-haunted dell, Where the sun-tight, green and golden, In magic beauty fell.
Of the range of wittle mountains, Of the sweet and shady bower Of the limpid forest fountains, And the jewel dropping shower, Of the grey, old mossy oak. In whose silent shade we lay, And hear the branches rustle As the sportive zephyrs play.

I oft recall the jolly rides
Of the pony, s'eek and old.
As we dash'd along the wilds,
To every danger bold;
The parti-colored flowers
That fring'd the crystal pool,
Where we hald to be he for head. Where we us'd to bathe for hours At the moontide clear and cool; How we linger'd on the hill
And watch'd with eager eye.
The splendor of the setting sun
Glowing, gleaming down the sky.

In my reveries, "dear Charlle", As memories swiftly pass and rise.
From out the yorfals of my brain;
And imag, after image flies;
Visions come flitting thro' my brain,
Like strains of music, soft and low. And mem'ry travels back again, To scenes of forty years ago; Like Banquo's Ghost, of old, they rise, Without my bidding or my will. O! these old, familiar places. How I fondly love them still.

Yes, I see you often, Charlie, As you us'd to look when we Dwelt at "aweet Sainda,"
In the days of happy glee.
I see you in my fancy now,
With your eyes of azure blue, And the snowy baby brow
Pseping 'mid the curls of flaxen hue.
Sigh, I. "Charlie," don't you, too?
For those days of Eden 1978,

And wish, as forty years ago, We were merry little boys? Charleston, S. C., April, 1867.

A Calculating Bridegroom.

I've known some very mean men in my time. There was Deacon Overreach; now he was 1867, I will sell before the Court House so mean he always carried a hen in his gig-box when he travelled, to pick up the oats his horse wasted in the manger, and lay an egg for his breakfast in the morning. And there was Hugo Himmelman, Steele, dec'd. who made his wife dig potatoes to pay the marriage license. I must tell you that story of Hugo, for it is not a bad one, and good stories, like potatoes, ain't as plenty, as they used to be when I was a boy. Hugo is a neighbor of mine though considerably older than I be, and a mean neighbor he is, too. Well, when he was going to get married to Gretchen Kulp, he goes, down to Parson Rogers, at Digby, to get a license.

"Parson," said he "what's the price of a license." "Six dollars," said he.

"Six dollars!" said Hugo; "that's a dreadful sight of money ! Couldn't you take less?"

"No," said he, "that's what they cost me at the Secretary's office. at Halifax.

"Well," how much do you ax for publishing in church, then?" "Nothing," said the Parson.

"Well," said Hugo, "that's so cheap I can't expect to get any change back. I think I'll be published. How long does it take?" "Three Sundays."

"Three Sundays!" says Hugo, well, that's a long time too. But three Sundays only make a fortnight after all; and six dollars is a great amount of money for a poor man to throw away."

So off he went a joggling towards home, feeling about as mean as a new sheared sheep, when all at once a bright thought came into his head, and he went as fast STATE OF SOUTH CAROLINA. as his herse could carry him.

"Parson," said he, "I've changed my mind. Here's the six dellars I'll tie the knot to-night with my tongue that I cannot untie with my teeth."

"Why, what in natur' is the meaning of all this?"

"Why," said Hugo, "I've been a 'cipherin' it out in my head, and its cheaper than publishing after all. You see, sir, it's potato diggin' times; if I wait to be called in church, her father will have her work for nothing; and as hands as follows: marry her to-night she can begin or less and bounded by lands of Dr. G. W. to dig our own to-morrow, and that will pay for the license, and just seven shillings, over; for there ed by lands of John Glenn, J. S, Renwick ain't a man in all Clements that and David Wicker. can dig and carry as many bushels in a day as Gretchen can. And, and a mortgage of the premises, to secure besides fresh wives, like fresh besides fresh wives, like fresh on the first day of January 1868, with inservants, work like smoke at first, terest from the day of sale, and to pay in but they get sancy and lazy after cash the cost of these proceedings.
