

The Newberry Herald.

Vol. VIII.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, FEBRUARY 21, 1872.

No. 8.

ADVERTISING RATES.

Advertisements inserted at the rate of $1.20 per square one inch for first insertion, and $1 for each subsequent insertion. Double column advertisements ten per cent above.

JOB PRINTING

Done with Neatness and Dispatch. Terms Cash.

Parents! Guardians! Note!

BOARD, with TUITION in English, French, Latin, Greek, Mathematics, Book-keeping, and Surveying in the fields, for 12 weeks, from 1st March next, for ONLY $126!

NEWBERRY FEMALE ACADEMY.

A. P. PIPER, M. A. : Principal. Miss FANNIE LEAVELL : Assistant. Prof. F. WEBBER : Musical Dep't.

THE Exercises of the above School will be resumed on the 1st JANUARY, 1872. Tuition from $2.50 to $1.50 per month. No incidental fees.

Doors, Sashes, Blinds, &c.

P. P. TOALE, Manufacturer and Dealer. No. 20 Hayne Street and Horbeck's Wharf, CHARLESTON, S. C.

JUST RECEIVED.

100 Pieces New Style Prints. 50 Pieces Poplins. Mohair Plaids. Corded Alpaca. New and Desirable Styles at Low Prices.

D. MOWER.

THE undersigned having been appointed agent for the sale of LUMBER, is now prepared to furnish any amount of good sawed PINE and OAK LUMBER, on REASONABLE TERMS.

VICK'S FLORAL GUIDE For 1872.

THE First Edition of Two Hundred THOUSAND copies published. It is elegantly printed on fine tinted paper, in Two Colors, and illustrated with one Three Hundred Engravings of Flowers and Vegetables.

Fisk's Metallic Burial Cases.

THE SUBSCRIBER has constantly on hand a full assortment of the above approved cases, of different patterns, besides coffins of his own make, all of which he prepares to furnish at very reasonable rates.

50 BUSHELS GREENVILLE MEAL - Bush. GRIST.

Man was made for action; every moment of his mortal life God calls upon him to be and do something. He has no right to do nothing.

Mighty Sociable.

The following extract is from Mark Twain's new book, entitled "Roughing it," now in process of publication.

In Nevada there used to be current the story of an adventure of two of her nabobs, which may or may not have occurred. I give it for what it is worth.

Colonel Jim had seen somewhat of the world, and knew more or less of its ways; but Colonel Jack was a 'red neck' from the back settlements of the States, he led a life of arduous toil, and had never seen a city.

"I've heard tell of carries all my life, and now I mean to have a ride in one; I don't care what it costs. Come along."

"No, sir! None of your cheap John turn-outs for me. I'm here to have a good time, and money ain't an object. I mean to have the noblest rig that's going."

"Ain't it gay, though? Oh, no, I reckon not! Fashion, and windows, and pictures, till you can't rest. What would the boys say if they could see you cutting a swell like this in New York?"

"Say, Johnny, this suits me!—suits yourn truly, you bet! I want this shebang all day. I'm on it, old man! Let 'em out! Make 'em go! We'll make it all right with you, sonny!"

"What's this for?" said he. "Give it to the driver, please."

"You are perfectly welcome here, madame, but we can't allow you to pay. Set right down there, mum, and don't you be the least uneasy. Make yourself as free as if you was in your own turnout."

"Come right along friends," said Colonel Jack; "don't mind us. This is a free blow out. Then he whispered to Colonel Jim, 'New York ain't no sociable place, I don't recon—it ain't no name for it.'"

He resisted every effort to pass fares to the driver, and made everybody cordially welcome. The situation dawned on the people, and they pocketed their money, and delivered themselves up to divert enjoyment of the episode.

More passengers got in, more yet, and still more. Both seats were filled, and a file of men were standing up holding on to the seats overhead.

The Federal Government and the States.

Whatever the merits of the faction fight in Louisiana, and whatever may be the result of it, one thing is clear; the interference of the federal government, in the affairs of the States produces no good, and leads to unmeasured evils.

It cannot be too often repeated, nor emphasized with too much force, that the stability and usefulness of our political constitution depends entirely upon the fidelity with which we observe its peculiar characteristics.

A railroad train was running along at almost lightning speed. A curve was just ahead; and the train was late, very late; still, the conductor hoped to pass the curve safely.

The battle of Waterloo was being fought. Column after column had been precipitated upon the enemy. The sun was sinking in the West; reinforcements for the defenders were already in sight; it was necessary to carry the position with one final charge.

A condemned man was being led out for execution. He had taken human life, but under circumstances of the greatest provocation.

The result of the war against rebellion has guaranteed the principle of national sovereignty for a great many years to come; it will not be questioned in our generation, at least.

When is the Best Time to Cut Corn? Very few farmers are able to judge scientifically of the value of corn-fodder when cut before the ear forms.

THE girl shrunk into a corner, bewildered. An old lady with a basket climbed in, and proffered her fare.

"Excuse me," said Colonel Jack—"You are perfectly welcome here, madame, but we can't allow you to pay. Set right down there, mum, and don't you be the least uneasy."

Man was made for action; every moment of his mortal life God calls upon him to be and do something. He has no right to do nothing.

and our power in war, the secret of that machinery which sits so lightly on the nation, and yet, in the strain of great emergencies, brings every muscle into work, is—the nation supreme in national concerns.

and our power in war, the secret of that machinery which sits so lightly on the nation, and yet, in the strain of great emergencies, brings every muscle into work, is—the nation supreme in national concerns.

The Fate of Fisk.

From the New York World. The only essential difference between the reputations of Stokes, the assassin, and the reputation of Fisk, the assassinated, in New York, was a difference not of kind but of degree.

The only essential difference between the reputations of Stokes, the assassin, and the reputation of Fisk, the assassinated, in New York, was a difference not of kind but of degree.

The only essential difference between the reputations of Stokes, the assassin, and the reputation of Fisk, the assassinated, in New York, was a difference not of kind but of degree.

The only essential difference between the reputations of Stokes, the assassin, and the reputation of Fisk, the assassinated, in New York, was a difference not of kind but of degree.

The only essential difference between the reputations of Stokes, the assassin, and the reputation of Fisk, the assassinated, in New York, was a difference not of kind but of degree.

The only essential difference between the reputations of Stokes, the assassin, and the reputation of Fisk, the assassinated, in New York, was a difference not of kind but of degree.

The only essential difference between the reputations of Stokes, the assassin, and the reputation of Fisk, the assassinated, in New York, was a difference not of kind but of degree.

The only essential difference between the reputations of Stokes, the assassin, and the reputation of Fisk, the assassinated, in New York, was a difference not of kind but of degree.

The only essential difference between the reputations of Stokes, the assassin, and the reputation of Fisk, the assassinated, in New York, was a difference not of kind but of degree.

The only essential difference between the reputations of Stokes, the assassin, and the reputation of Fisk, the assassinated, in New York, was a difference not of kind but of degree.

The only essential difference between the reputations of Stokes, the assassin, and the reputation of Fisk, the assassinated, in New York, was a difference not of kind but of degree.

The only essential difference between the reputations of Stokes, the assassin, and the reputation of Fisk, the assassinated, in New York, was a difference not of kind but of degree.

BEHIND TIME.

A railroad train was running along at almost lightning speed. A curve was just ahead; and the train was late, very late; still, the conductor hoped to pass the curve safely.

The battle of Waterloo was being fought. Column after column had been precipitated upon the enemy. The sun was sinking in the West; reinforcements for the defenders were already in sight; it was necessary to carry the position with one final charge.

A condemned man was being led out for execution. He had taken human life, but under circumstances of the greatest provocation.

The result of the war against rebellion has guaranteed the principle of national sovereignty for a great many years to come; it will not be questioned in our generation, at least.

When is the Best Time to Cut Corn? Very few farmers are able to judge scientifically of the value of corn-fodder when cut before the ear forms.

THE girl shrunk into a corner, bewildered. An old lady with a basket climbed in, and proffered her fare.

"Excuse me," said Colonel Jack—"You are perfectly welcome here, madame, but we can't allow you to pay. Set right down there, mum, and don't you be the least uneasy."

Man was made for action; every moment of his mortal life God calls upon him to be and do something. He has no right to do nothing.

and our power in war, the secret of that machinery which sits so lightly on the nation, and yet, in the strain of great emergencies, brings every muscle into work, is—the nation supreme in national concerns.

and our power in war, the secret of that machinery which sits so lightly on the nation, and yet, in the strain of great emergencies, brings every muscle into work, is—the nation supreme in national concerns.

and our power in war, the secret of that machinery which sits so lightly on the nation, and yet, in the strain of great emergencies, brings every muscle into work, is—the nation supreme in national concerns.

and our power in war, the secret of that machinery which sits so lightly on the nation, and yet, in the strain of great emergencies, brings every muscle into work, is—the nation supreme in national concerns.

A PITTY SERMON TO YOUNG MEN.

You are the architects of your own fortunes. Rely upon your own strength of body and soul. Take for your motto, self-reliance, perseverance and pluck, and inscribe on your banner, 'Be just and fear not.'

"Dear father," said the gentle Eulalia to him one day, when he forbade her, in company with her brother, to visit the volatile Lucinda, 'dear father, you must think us very childish, if you imagine that we should be exposed to danger by it.'

"We cannot be too careful in handling coals," said Eulalia, in vexation. "Yes, truly," said the father; you see, my child, that coals, even if they do not burn, blacken. So it is with the company of the vicious."—Houshold.

A BEAUTIFUL COMPARISON.—Rev. T. Dewitt Tallmadge, now of Brooklyn, closed a sermon as follows: Scated, at a country fireside, the other day, I saw the fire kindle, blaze, and go out, and I gathered up from the hearth enough for my reflections.

A LITTLE TRUTH.—The New York Tribune, in some comments upon sundry sharp criticism upon Rev. Mr. Heworth's late renunciation of Unitarianism, which have been published by some of his old denominational associates, says: "We begin almost to despair of finding anything worthy to be called Christian charity in all the land."

Peter Cartwright, the pioneer Methodist, used to be annoyed by a noisy but over-pious sister, who would go off on a high key every opportunity she got.

A new and careful bridegroom in Cleveland kept the wedding ring in his mouth during the fore-part of the ceremony, so that he could find it when the proper moment arrived.

A Western editor, in acknowledging the gift of a peck of potatoes, says: "It is such kindness as these that bring tears to our eyes. One peck of potatoes makes the whole world kin. We have trusted in Providence and this is our reward."

Courtesy A Fat Girl.—Don Platt says: "I was once in love with a fat girl; she was very fleshy; she was enormous, but the course of my true love came to grief. I was sitting with her in the dim twilight one evening. I was sentimental; I said many soft things; I embraced part of her. She seemed distant. She frequently turned her lovely head from me."

Pins were first used in 1543. Before that time ladies used to skewer their dresses.

The pleasantest ringing in one's ears.—That of the dinner bell.

The young lady who was beginning to pine is now oak.