Dec. 25, 1872—52-4f.

A Fearful Sweep.
On and after the fourth day of March next, President Grant's order, which relieves a large number of "pets" of the burden of holding two offices—one State, the other Federal—at one time, goes into happy effect, and in consequence there will be a dust raised by so large a sweeping. This is a good move, Mr. President.

Trouble Brewing.
The decision of the Postmaster General which requires that letters addressed to married women shall be delivered to no one else, however it may work here, is likely to make disturbance in Chicago and other cities of like likeness in marital affairs, says the Courier-Journal. Postmasters thereabouts may expect no end of thrashing which ever horn of the dilemma they lay hold on.

Postal Changes.
Offices Established—Hoover's, in Beau fort County; Ashton, in Sumter County; Enterprise, in Charleston County; Parks' Store, in Edgefield County.
Offices Discontinued—Mountain Shoals, in Spartanburg County. Papers will go to Spartanburg C. H.
Name Changed—Unionville, in Union County, to Union.

Stir it Up.
"Rumors are rife that the President intends to soon give the South the benefit of a general jail delivery of the Ku Klux now undergoing punishment for their horrible crimes. There is a grain of truth in the rumor, and that is all. Probably a dozen in all of those who were forced into the bellish klans against their will, may get out, but none but those. The active participants in raids, and those who inaugurated them, will remain."

So says the Columbia Daily Union, and so does it ever delight to show the venom whose supply seems to be inexhaustible. Stir up the festering wound, Mr. Union, it were a pity to let it heal.

Registered Letters.
In regard to the responsibility of Post Masters, Clerks, and others handling Registered Letters, the "Postal Record" says, the Postmaster General is made to say a great many things about what he is going to do, and what he is not going to do, &c.

Now we do not understand that there has been any change, whatever, in the policy of the Department in regard to Registered Letters. We do not understand that the Postmaster General ever held that Postmasters were liable under their bonds, for Registers lost or stolen from their offices. But he does hold that a Postmaster, or a Postal Clerk, or a Route Agent, or whoever he may be, employed in the Post Office Department, handling a Registered Package and failing to account for the same, shall be held responsible, and make good its valuable contents, or get out of the service. While the Department is not responsible for the contents of Registered Letters, yet it proposes, so far as it is possible, to secure parties mailing such letters, from loss.

The Eight Thing.
We are pleased to note that the efficient Superintendent of the State Lunatic Asylum, Dr. Ensor, is treating his patients to occasional "hops," as a wholesome and pleasant recreation. It is gratifying to know that the Doctor is so attentive, as is evinced in this effort to ameliorate their sad condition. Two of these pleasant affairs have already come off this season, and have been attended by a number of invited guests.

In this connection, we are also pleased to state that the State Treasurer, F. L. Cardozo has in the last two weeks supplied Dr. Ensor with the sum of $60,000, wherewith to pay the indebtedness of this institution, and in providing for its inmates the care and provision which they need, and unfortunately were so long deprived of.

Brief Mentions.
The annual convention of the Grand Chapter of South Carolina will be held in Charleston, on Tuesday, 11th of February next. Railroads will convey delegates to and back for one fare. Important business will be submitted.

United States Minister Orr, has left for Washington, whence he will sail about the 1st, for his mission. A son and daughter accompany him. The latter will be left in Germany to be educated, and the former will act as his secretary.

W. F. Hague, ex-private Secretary to ex-Gov. Scott, it is stated, has fallen a victim to the intense cold in the West. He was frozen to death about five hundred miles from Omaha—the exact point not mentioned. He leaves a young wife and one child.

The Rev. F. Bruce Davis, who was injured by a fall from his horse at Union Courthouse on Friday last, died at his residence in that town on the following Tuesday night. He was unconscious from the time of the accident until his death. He was the third son of the late Bishop Davis, had been only a few years in the ministry, and had very recently removed to Union to take charge of the Church of the Nativity at that place. He gave promise of a long and useful ministry. A wife and one child survive him. His remains were taken to Camden for interment.

The English Novelist Bulwer Dead.
In the death of this distinguished author, England has lost the last of her oldest and greatest novelists. Who has not read his "Last Days of Pompeii," "Night and Morning," "Eugene Aram," and numberless others, and acknowledged the great power of their author? and his death now, although for years nothing of his old style has been given to the world, will awaken many sympathies. Unfortunately, Bulwer, like many others of his class, lived badly with his wife, who, it is said, lived but a short time with him. It may be interesting to our readers to know what was his proper title, and we copy from the Charleston News the following on the subject:

The father of the novelist was General Bulwer, and his mother's maiden name was Lytton. His own name, in full, was Edward George Earle Lytton Bulwer, and it was as plain Mr. Bulwer that he won the literary successes which make him famous wherever English is spoken, and have given him, upon the Continent of Europe, a wider reputation than is enjoyed by any other English novelist. In 1838 Mr. Bulwer, as the representative of British literature, was created a baronet, his title being simply Sir Edward G. E. Lytton. In 1845 the mother of Sir Edward Bulwer died, and, in compliance with her will, he changed his name; taking, by royal license, the name of Lytton in addition to that of Bulwer. His style then was Sir Edward Bulwer-Lytton. In 1856 he was raised to the peerage as Baron Lytton (not Bulwer-Lytton) and was thenceforth known as Lord Lytton. Bulwer-Lytton was his family name; Baron Lytton was his title.

Columbia Improving.
Although the taxation at the Capital is about five per centum, the city improves rapidly in buildings, and does a very large retail trade, as also a lucrative wholesale trade. This is the surest test of improvement; that while taxation is heavy, buildings are going up on all sides, and many of them elegant structures, both in architectural design and completeness of appointment.

The "Wheeler House," a substantial edifice of composite form, at the corner of Plain & Richardson streets, recently opened by Mr. Theo. M. Pollock, is an attractive feature of the city. The house has eighty rooms thoroughly furnished. The corridors are spacious, and neatly carpeted. They are also ventilated and made bright by the means of sky-lights in day time and rendered light at night by chandeliers. The parlors are richly furnished; the sleeping-rooms comfortable and inviting; the table d'hote satisfactory; and the bar, where gentlemen meet to puff their regalias, and test the nutty flavor of the wines of some generous vintage, is handsome, and tastefully fitted up—the most beautiful possibly in the South. Mr. R. Hamilton of hotel celebrity, assists host Pollock in the management of the "Wheeler."

"Hurleyville" is quite a neat and pretty section of the city. It contains thirty-two cottages. Columbia can certainly boast of her taste in cottage styles.

Congress having appropriated $125,000 to Columbia for public buildings, we hope soon to see its effects in the post office, &c. The substantial joint passenger depot, proposed for the S. C. & G. C. Railroads, will prove a most desirable improvement.

Columbia has twelve papers, (including her tri-weeklies) of various civil, social, political and religious creeds and tendencies. The members of the press fraternity are, we hope, fraternal in their journalistic ethics. Yet where there is such a wide diversity of temperament, shades of opinion, rivalry, opposition and clash of interests, it is possibly difficult

Affairs in Greenville.
The correspondent of the News writing from the city of Greenville says:

Property here is changing hands much faster than usual, and is rising in value. A Canadian settlement is soon to be made. The land is already overstocked, and a portion of the colony have come; they are Catholics, and we expect many to follow in their wake. It is but the beginning of a large immigration.

It is now settled that the workshops of the Air Line Railroad will be located here, and are looking out for a location at this time, and proposing to purchase. This will bring a population of from five hundred to one thousand persons; and this, with the many settlers from the adjoining counties, will soon make us in fact, what we are now only in name, a city.

MARCHING ORDERS.—The garrison at this place, under command of Capt. B. B. Keeler, composed of Company I, 18th Infantry, and Co. G, 7th Cavalry, has been ordered to march to the Cavalry barracks, and the infantry leaves to-day.

The bearing of all the officers respecting the command has been characterized by the strictest gentility, while the behavior of the men has been uniformly good, and we bid the whole command a hearty good-bye, and wish that their future fields may be as peaceful as their sojourn in our midst has been.

The bill to amend the act to incorporate the various railroad companies in the State which have issued bonds bearing the endorsement of the State, and have failed to meet their yearly interest on such bonds as they became due, and to report at an early day what legislation is necessary.

A bill to punish any person or persons who shall sell and convey any real or personal property on which a lien of any kind may exist without giving notice of the same to the purchaser or purchasers, was taken up, and passed to a third reading, and ordered to be engrossed.

The Columbia Phoenix says of the squelching of the bill to amend the 61st Section of the 20th Chapter of the General Statutes. This bill made the fees of Sheriffs double what they now are. Mr. Hurley took occasion to show its iniquity, and in a few crisp sentences succeeded, with the aid of Judiciary Committee, (Mr. Meetez, of Lexington), who had reported unfavorably upon it, to give it its quietus. Mr. Hurley expressed his readiness to repeal the entire Code of Procedure, denouncing it as only fit for the furnace—as a system of legalized robbery, utterly unsuited to our condition, and immensely and shamefully expensive to litigants. We trust that such a measure will be perfected and passed, and our relief from the burdens, blunders, and cumbersome and inapplicable provisions of the Code secured as speedily as possible.

A Senate bill requiring a bond from county commissioners before entering upon the duties of their office, was taken up, passed and ordered to be engrossed.

Mr. Curwin introduced a joint resolution authorizing the State Treasurer to refund to Henry Ware and Son, of Newberry county, moneys paid for taxes on State lands; also, a joint resolution to authorize the county commissioner of Newberry county to levy and collect an additional tax of two mills on the dollar.

Unfavorably on the following:

Bill to ascertain the indebtedness of Newberry county, and to enable the county commissioners to make provision for the payment of the same; bill to provide for the redemption from the State of lands forfeited for taxes.

By Mr. Levy, a bill to punish any husband who shall desert his wife and children.

The following bills have been passed and ordered to be engrossed:

To repeal sections 5, 6 and 7, chapter 82, General Statutes.

Bill to amend section 12, chapter 109 General Statutes.

Bill to amend the act relating to elections in incorporated towns.

A Senate joint resolution to ratify the amendment to the constitution of the State of South Carolina relative to the time of holding elections, was read the second time, and in accordance with the requirements of section 1, article 15 of the constitution, the yeas and nays were ordered, and are as follows: Yeas, 103; nays, none.

The Speaker declared that two-thirds of all the members of both branches of the General Assembly having voted affirmatively, the joint resolution was passed and became a part of the constitution of South Carolina.

DEATH OF BULWER.—A brief telegram, dated London, January 18th, announces that Edward Lytton Bulwer, the great English novelist, is dead. The death roll of last year was rich in illustrious names, but the present year opens even more formidably, and already, in nineteen days, has been added to the list, the names of Napoleon, the prince of rulers, and Bulwer, the prince of English novelists.
